Many politicians, including Mr. O'Brien, see in Churchill's remarkable local Parliament speech this week evidence that the Government will yield to Protestant Ulster's protest, and allow it to write itself out of Home Rule Ireland. Others declare that the Government will submit the question to a modified referendum and abide by the result. Even Bonar Law has admitted that in such case he would tell Ulster "you have got to submit."

WON'T COERSE ULSTER.

Few believe that the Government will introduce coercive measures to check the active sedition now progressing in North Ireland. General Carson's campaign is admittedly dangerous. Bitter racial and religious hatreds are being fanned to white heat. The Ulster clubs, which are drilling day and night, number about one hundred thousand men, including many old soldiers and appreciable stiffening of old army officers. It is officially admitted that these clubs have imported arms on a considerable scale during the past year. They have behind them the most narrow, bigoted, and unbending men in the Empire; men who, as Lord Dunraven says, are dominated by the unworthy.

BALFOUR HOLD ALOOF.

These extremists are unsupported by the majority of English Unionists. Men like Balfour and Wyndham have kept studiously apart from them. Their agitation, however, has struck home. Every correspondent in Ulster during the present demonstration agrees, in describing these men as grimly earnest, savagely intolerant, and wholly dangerous. Belfast is already suffering heavily from their political violence. Harland and Wolff, ship-builders, who employ ten thousand men there, have threatened to close their yards if the warring Ultermen persist in carrying their strife into the workyards.

The much-heralded Ulster covenant has been received here with surprise. London expected something much more bellicose. One leading newspaper dismisses it as a case in covenant. It is generally scoffed at as over-cautious, too lawyer-like, and inadequate. Its framers were too afraid of giving the Government an excuse for their arrest. Publication of the terms of covenant has done something to remove the impression made by the demonstrators.

UNIONISTS HOPE TO DEFEAT LIBERALS BEFORE CHRISTMAS

London, Sept. 22.—Politicians are already returning to town after their summer rest and there are many signs of renewed activity. The main interest in the forthcoming meeting of Parliament lies in the possibility of trouble between the labor representatives and the Government. The Parliamentary Labor party is showing many signs of becoming imbued with anti-Liberal attitude, which admittedly exists widely among labor groups throughout the country. The Unionists are confidently declaring that, thanks to the defection of the Laborites, they will be able to defeat the Government before Christmas. This, however, is improbable, but the best friends of the Government admit that the present position of three-cornered contests at bye-elections cannot continue long without causing a corresponding line of cleavage between the parties in Parliament.

Steps are now being taken to secure a renewal of the good relations between the Government and the Labor party leaders in Parliament, and it is hoped that a new agreement may be arrived at. It is suggested in authoritative quarters that, as a basis of agreement, the Labor party should pledge itself to support the Government on the Insurance bill, while the Government agrees to frame a Trades Union bill that, while the Osborne judgment is not formally repealed, its force and effect should be virtually destroyed.

SIR WILFRED GETTING RATTLED

At Marieville, Que., a few days ago, Sir Wilfrid Laurier blew one of his customary "revelllies" on his silver bugle. He asserted that the country had been lied to and deceived and that it would yet have—it MUST yet have—Reciprocity, etc., etc. The Montreal Star warned the old gentleman that leading Liberals were already protesting against his unwarranted attempt to force a defeated policy down the party's throat. Sir Wilfrid took the warning and last week modified his course, as the following report from The Globe (September 20) shows:

"Haileybury, Sept. 19.—In the course of his address at another great gathering in Haileybury to-night, Sir Wilfrid Laurier stated that his attention had been directed to an article in The Montreal Star criticizing his references to Reciprocity in his Northern Ontario visit. "The Star tells me," said he, "that the people of Canada in September last pronounced against it, the debate was closed, and I should no more speak upon it. If this be true, if the debate is closed and closed forever, then it would be very impolite, if nothing more, that I should seek to continue it. Nay! though the remedy which we proposed was rejected by the Canadian people, the problem now exists and must be dealt with. I bow to the declaration that the people have rejected the remedy which we proposed, but, fellow-Canadians of Ontario, for the sake of your country face the problem! If you will not give the West Reciprocity, find them a substitute, and give them the remedy they rightly seek at your hands. You cannot leave the three Prairie Provinces in a state of discontent if you are to have a united, contented and prosperous Canada.

"If God spares me and keeps me in the splendid health in which He is keeping me, I hope within the next few years to go through the whole Province of Ontario, if going everywhere I can get an opportunity and asking the people as true Canadians, loyal to the best interests of the whole country, to look into the whole matter with me and consider the economic problems of the West. I want to win, and I intend to do my best, but if I fail I will not whine. I will take my defeat like a man.

"So I say to the MontrealStar and those it represents, 'We shall not allow you to remain idle. You must deal with this problem, because it is just, and because the interests of the Canadian nation demand it.' And I am ready to go to the West and tell the people there to consider the diverse interests of the east. They say that Liberalism is dead. I aspire to see a joyous resurrection, due to the inspiration of public service."

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States are in under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government loaned hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 25c a bottle, that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives brightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 360 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

A PROBLEM IN PICTURES.

And the Peculiar Coincidence by Which It Was Solved.

Some years ago a publishing house was preparing to issue a new edition of the writings of Thoreau, writes Charles S. Olcott in Art and Progress. The head of the house and a member of his staff were in consultation about the method of illustration. It was agreed that the pictures must be true to nature, but how to get them was the problem. Artists who do book illustrating could not be expected to go into the woods and make pictures which would in any way assist the text to reveal nature as Thoreau saw it. Photographs would be admirable but where was the professional photographer to be found who would undertake to go into Thoreau's country in sunshine and rain, in summer and winter, to catch all the phases of nature which Thoreau recorded in his "Journal?"

While the two men pondered a caller sat in the outer office with a large portfolio under his arm. Five years before he had read Thoreau's "Journal" and had taken up his residence in Concord that he might visit the scenes there described. In all seasons and all kinds of weather he had wandered through the woods and over the fields with his camera. Passionately fond of nature, he was no less devoted to art. To him photography was a pastime. It was not his profession. For the pure love of nature and of art and with no thought of pecuniary gain he had accomplished the very feat which the two business men had thought so difficult, and by a curious coincidence he appeared at the office to exhibit the result of his work at the precise moment when its desirability was being discussed.

ENTERTAINING THE KING.

What It Cost To Be the Host of Royalty.

King George, like the late King Edward, does everything that lies in his power to prevent undue trouble or expense being incurred by those whom he visits, and everything that savors of ostentation is most obnoxious to him. At the same time it is necessary that a certain amount of formality should be carefully observed, and all this runs into money. His Majesty, for instance, is invariably accompanied by an Equerry, who, by reason of his position, becomes a member of the house party, while if the Queen travels with His Majesty, her Lady-in-Waiting has likewise to be included among the guests. It is very rarely that the King is attended by more than two body servants; while three maids, as a rule, suffice for Queen Mary's requirements.

It is laid down that His Majesty must upon all occasions have a suite of apartments to himself, and it is desired that these should be as far removed from the rooms of the other members of the house party as possible. A similar suite has to be provided for Queen Mary when she is present. Not many years ago a well-known nobleman who was entertaining the present King for the first time spent over $10,000 in providing a new suite of rooms for His Majesty's occupation.

Whenever it is at all possible, the King also desires that he should be placed in telegraphic and telephonic communication with the royal palaces, so that he may be within easy reach of his secretaries and the chief officials of his household. Most country seats are, of course, to-day upon the telephone, but the telegraph is a very different matter, and when the late King Edward was once staying in the North of England his host spent $650 to provide a special telegraph wire. His late Majesty, as it happened, only required to make use of it upon one occasion, when he wired exactly eight words to Buckingham Palace—surely the most expensive telegram that was ever dispatched.

Enlivened the Dinner.

When Muzaffar-ed-Din, Shah of Persia, paid his first visit to England he was the guest of King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales. On the evening of his arrival a banquet was held at the palace, and on the menu was asparagus.

As it happened the Shah had never heard of, much less tasted, asparagus till that evening. When the dish was brought on he helped himself to half of it, picked each stalk up in his fingers, nibbled gingerly at the head and then threw the stalk over his shoulder on to the carpet. To have let it remain on his plate would have been a breach of Persian etiquette.

All eyes were turned to the Prince of Wales. What was he going to do?

The prince, tactful as ever, glanced at those about him, then at his plate; then he picked up stalk after stalk, ate what he wanted and threw the balance on the carpet behind his chair.

A moment later thirty people in the room were eating asparagus in Persian fashion. The air was thick with flying stalks, and the attendants, trained to look more serious than ever on such occasions, never batted an eyelash nor moved a muscle.

BOOTH ANECDOTES.

The Late General Was a Man of Many and Varied Characteristics.

Many anecdotes are told of the dead leader to illustrate his many-sided character.

In discussing the anti-suicide bureaus of the army he once said:

"Kindness and charity are factors of these bureaus. The charity will be of the right kind, I trust. There are, you know, two kinds of charity, and too much of it is like the barber's.

"There was a poor deacon in Warwick who had no money and needed to be shaved, and he went from barber to barber, but none of them, despite his holy office, was willing to shave him for nothing.

"In the end, though, he found a barber who, on hearing his tale, said gruffly:

" 'Sit down there in that chair.'

"Suddenly the barber's dog in the adjacent room set up a terrific howling.

" 'Be still, there!' cried the barber. And he muttered anxiously, 'What can they be doing to him?'

" 'Alas,' said the deacon, 'I shouldn't wonder if some one was shaving him out of charity'."

On another occasion General Booth was talking to a reporter.

"Are you saved?' he asked suddenly.

The young man flushed, stammered and hesitated.

"Well," said the general, "do not despair. There is a chance even for reporters."

Then, discussing prayer, General Booth told a story, a story with a moral.

"There was a young clergyman appointed to a small country town," he began, "and a short time after his arrival a horsy-looking man in leggings stopped him on the street one day, bowed respectfully and said in a trembling voice:

" 'If you please, sir, would you mind next Sabbath offering up a bit of a prayer for Milly Dean?'

"The minister, of course, assented. The man, whose look was worried and haggard, took leave gratefully, and on the next and the two following Sundays Milly Dean was prayed for from the pulpit.

"Then one afternoon the man in leggings met the minister again.

" 'Thank you for them prayers, sir,' he said, 'but you needn't pray no more for Milly Dean.'

" 'Why,' said the other, shocked, 'is she dead?'

" 'Dead?' said the man in leggings. 'No; she's just won the Blue Ribbon handicap by a length and a half'."

An instance of the fire and feverish anxiety of General Booth to compress as much work as possible into the closing years of his ministry was provided on his missions by motor. "Faster" was the word that impelled the general ever forward, and it is to be feared that in his anxiety to carry the message into the remote villages that are still off the train track he did not always observe the speed limit. He frequently exceeded thirty miles an hour.

When his chauffeur was getting all he could out of the engines the general's cry was still "Faster!" The car was capable of thirty-five miles an hour. That did not satisfy him. He always wanted to move quicker. He would sit on the front seat by the driver, whispering every now and again, "Faster!"

LAND OF EASY DIVORCES.

In the Barbary States It Is "Woman, Take Thy Goods and Go."

Always over the head of the Arab woman hangs the shadow of divorce. Nowhere in the world does the law so facilitate the separation of man and wife as in those lands so fittingly named the Barbary states.

If an Arab grows tired of his wife's looks or her actions or her dress, if he wishes to replace her with another or if he is weary of married life and does not wish any wife at all he does not need to go to the trouble or nominal expense of divorcing her, but gets rid of her instead by the simple process of "repudiation," which consists in saying to her, "Woman, get thee hence; take thy things and go."

For the man this is a case of "heads I win, tails you lose," for, though he is free to marry again, the woman is not and can obtain a legal release only by returning to him the money which he paid for her.

Without her husband's consent a woman can obtain a divorce only if she is able to prove that he beats her without sufficient provocation, if he refuses her food, clothing or shelter or if she discovers a previous wooing on her husband's part, for all previous betrothals or offers of marriage, even though the lady refused him, constitute grounds for divorce. — Metropolitan Magazine.

A ROYAL SNUB.

The Czar Handed It to Louis Napoleon and Got It Back.

It has been urged by a French author that Napoleon III. entered into the Crimean war on the side of Great Britain because he had been well received in the London clubs during his sojourn in that country. But there might have been another potent factor independent of the emperor's pleasant recollections of the English, and that was the slight to which he was subjected by the czar of Russia, Nicholas I.

When Napoleon ascended the throne as emperor he notified all the reigning sovereigns of the fact, addressing them as "Monsieur mon frere." With the exception of the czar they replied adopting the same formula. Nicholas, however, began his reply, "Mon grand ami." This is the style adopted by sovereigns when addressing presidents of republics. Napoleon fully understood the czar's meaning.

At the New Year's reception of the diplomatic body he went up to Count Kiselew, the Russian ambassador, and said to him:

"I have received a letter from your sovereign which flatters me greatly. He writes to me, 'Mon grand ami.' One chooses his friends. He cannot choose his brothers."

Gymnasium Training.

Every person who has received gymnasium training is aware of the fact that an exercise which calls for painful effort on the part of the beginner is often performed almost without any conscious effort at all after a certain amount of training has been received. Again, it is perfectly well known that brute strength alone does not make a gymnast and that even a simple exercise may offer great difficulty to a muscular and well developed individual who has not been trained in the gymnasium. The explanation for this is made in an article by Professor Dubois Reymond in Die Umschau, who points out that one of the essential functions of gymnasium work is not so much to build up muscle as to train nerves and nerve groups to work in proper unison and co-ordination.

Flags at Half Mast.

Ever since flags were used in war it has been the custom to have the flag of the superior or conquering nation above that of the inferior or vanquished. When an army found itself hopelessly beaten it hauled its flag down far enough for the flag of the victors to be placed above it on the same pole. This was a token not only of submission, but of respect. In those days when a famous soldier died flags were lowered out of respect to his memory. The custom long ago passed from purely military usage to public life of all kinds, the flag flying at half mast being a sign that the dead man was worthy of universal respect. The space left above it is for the flag of the great conqueror of all, the angel of death.

The Vital Question.

This overheard conversation is full of matter for consideration. The speakers were girls, one apparently young, the other trying to appear young. Get - a subtle distinction? Well, one of them was saying: "I met Jimmy Teppid yesterday. You know Jimmy, don't you?"

"Sure I know him, or I used to. Did you tell him I was going to be married soon?"

"I sure did!"

"Did he ask how soon?"

"Well, he asked something like that."

"Didn't he say, 'How soon?'"

"No, dearie; he said, 'How long?'"

Walking Companions.

A lady was seen promenading the streets of Bournemouth, England, the other week carry a monkey under her arm. Less disturbing to one's equanimity is the practice of another lady in Bournemouth, who never goes abroad on her cycle without being accompanied by her household cat, which reposes on her left shoulder undisturbed by the clatter of passing trains and motor-cars.

EDITORIA NOTES

What a young man earns in the daytime goes into his pocket, but what he spends in the evening goes into his character.

Whilst the coal operators may or may not "lay up treasures in Ikam," they are certainly storing up a goodly supply on earth.

This has been a great year for plums in Peterborough. Some few politicians agree with this statement, whilst the fruit dealers and housewives enthusiastically agree.

We notice in current market reports that hog products are quoted in the Montreal market at from one to three cents a pound cheaper than in Toronto. By travelling a few thousand miles further east, after paying ocean freight one can get a better quality of bacon, in England cheaper than Toronto or Peterborough where the hog is killed.

The hour of dining has advanced with the centuries. Froissart mentions waiting on the Duke of Lancaster at 5 in the afternoon after he had supped and was about to go to bed, and the preface to the Heptameron shows that the Queen of Navarre dined at 10 o'clock in the morning. From the Northumberland Household Book, dated 1512, we learn that the ducal family rose at 6, breakfasted at 7, dined at 10, supped at 4, and retired for the night at 9.

Paris butchers of the sixteenth century must have been rather rough in their manners. In 1570 a decree was issued wherein the butchers were "expressly enjoined not to ill treat or use abusive language to the ladies of this city, or the women of low degree, or the servant maids who propose to deal with them. They are on no account to mock or deride the said ladies, women and maids, but are to receive politely all offers made to them for their goods."

James Oliver Curwood, novelist, tells of a recent encounter with the law. The value of a short story he was writing depended upon a certain legal situation which he found difficult to manage. Going to a lawyer of his acquaintance, he told him the plot and was shown a way to the desired end. "You've saved me just $400!" he exclaimed. "For that's what I am going to get for this story. A week later he received a bill from the lawyer as follows: "For literary advice, $100." He says he paid.

The coaches on the Prussian state railways are run into a tank large enough to accommodate one of them; the door is then closed and hermitically sealed and the coach is disinfected by means of steam and formalin. The people of Europe may be behind us in some respects of railroad travel; but as yet we have nothing like this on the American continent.

Saturday was the anniversary of an epochal event in Canadian history If you will look at the calendar you will note that the date was September. A year ago there might have been some long-sighted Grits who saw what was coming and dated their letters B.C.—Before the Catastrophe. Then it "happened" with stunning effect, and the poor Grits have since been dating their correspondence A.D.—After the Disaster.

RELIGIOUS FREEDOM IN PERU

We have been slandering Peru. On the strength of a statement that the Peruvian constitution prohibited any other religion but Romanism, it was argued that Protestant mission could not operate in Peru. This, however, is not the case. Protestant missions have existed in Peru under the protection of the Government for eighteen years. Mr. John Ritchie, pastor of the Evangelical Church, Lima, Peru, writes to the Friends' Witness as follows, in reference to the claims of Romanism and the attitude of the Peruvian Government. He says: "In December, 1907, the Vicario Capitular tried to force the Church's interpretation on the Government. He was officially requested to withdraw his letter, and the Government's definition of Article IV. was published in a ministerial letter sent to the press. In his letter the minister officially repudiated the ecclesiastical interpretation, and maintained that Article IV. could not be read in any sense which restricted the liberty of free speech and public meeting, or was in any way contrary to the culture and progress of the nation. Moreover, the minister then granted a license to an ex-priest to preach Positivism in the public squares of Lima." But the attitude of the Government is not the attitude of the Roman church. If it could, the hierarchy would only too gladly put an end to this governmental tolerance. As an illustration we are told that quite recently the Bishop of Dusco insisted on the Prefect closing the local meeting-place. This functionary consulted the President of the Republic as to the course he should pursue, and the President at once replied that the Protestants must not be molested. Protestantism is in Peru—and it is tolerated and protected, but it is only because the Government has ceased to be Roman Catholic, in the strict sense has loosened her grip.

ROME AND QUEBEC.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—If you will allow me perhaps I may be able to throw a little light on the new difficulty which is arising over the French language question in Canada. I notice that some Separate School Boards are inclined to blame Sir James Whitney and the Orangemen for what they are pleased to call their intolerance in this respect.

Let me quote something, however, from the issue of "Rome" of the 17th August, 1912. "Rome," as you are aware, is the official organ of the Vatican, published at Rome. The issue above referred to gives "The inaugural address delivered by Cardinal Bourne at Norwich, which," it says, "dealt with the important question of the English language as a medium for the propagation of Catholic truth. It was characteristic of His Eminence to face," Rome says, "instead of avoiding the immense difficulties of the problem."

Here is the most important part of the address referred to. The Cardinal says "What, then, in this conception of the future, is the divine-given mission of the Church in Canada?" . . . "Faith and language have until recent times walked hand in hand in Canada." . . . "But the Canada of to-day is not the Canada of a new years ago." . . . A new population with an amazing growth has come into existence in Canada. The whole situation is changed and the Church in Canada has to face the responsibility which a few years ago could not have been foreseen. Is not the acceptance of that responsibility part of Her divinely given mission, second only in importance to, if it be not even greater than, the earlier mission which she has discharged so nobly? It consists of nothing less than welding together in one people by means of one religion those who, coming from many different races, are by the force of circumstances quickly becoming members of the far-spread English-speaking world It is religion alone which can make of the Canadian nation one absolute united people. It is the Catholic religion alone which has this unifying force. Other religious bodies may enter in and gain adherents to their various forms of worship and belief, but which of them would dare to hope to join to itself even a minute fraction of the Catholics of Canada? It is they, and they alone, with their existing forty souls in every hundred of the population that can essay to weld the whole people into something approaching religious unity. As they have consecrated the language inherited from France to the preservation and development of the Catholic faith, and have therefore given the first fruits of the New World to the service of the Church, so now are they called upon by God to purify and consecrate to His services another tongue, strong in its extent and influence, which for so long had been used almost exclusively in opposition to unity of faith. I doubt if at any time so great and glorious and far-reaching a mission has been given to any Church, and if success attends it the results will outrival the attempts of the apostle of any single nation in the past. For, it means that practically the whole nation growing with immense rapidity instead of being frittered into religious impotence of divided beliefs and the indifference to which they lead would be made one in the service of Almighty God. A nation forming a most important component part of the vast empire which has officially renounced allegiance to the centre of Catholic unity will acknowledge that allegiance again. . . . ."

You will see, Mr. Editor, from this the real present aim of the Catholic Church with respect to Canada and how important the coming conquest of Canada is when the extinction of the French language is viewed as a necessary part of it. Let the French also take note.

—J. H. Burnham.

BIG BOOK RUSH IS SURPRISE

Times Astonishes Eastern "Show Me" Man.

CALLS RUN REMARKABLE

"There ain't no sich animal."

That's what the farmer said when he saw his first circus giraffe, and that is practically what Eastern publishers have been saying about the record-breaking run upon The Times book bank. It has been almost impossible to meet the demand, so great have been the inroads upon The Times' banked-up store of Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary created by our reader's insatiable craving for knowledge neatly bound in black limp leather.

Six consecutive coupons from The Times and a small bonus secures a book.

"What's coming off in Peterborough?"

That has been the terse exclamation going the rounds of the publication world as wire after wire carried the news of the rush for dictionaries and the demands for more books faster than the publishers could readily supply them.

Yesterday the DICTIONARY MAN the one who is responsible for the creation of the volume, which has set PETERBOROUGH DICTIONARY DAFFY, hurried into town to "see what was up."

"UNBELIEVABLE" was the word he used when he saw the DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT almost depleted of its store of volumes. He was shown the fast emptying storerooms and the crowd of eager, intelligent purchasers below, and he become convinced.

"PETERBOROUGH KNOWS A GOOD THING."

"IT ONLY GOES TO SHOW HOW GREATLY PETERBOROUGH HAS BEEN MALIGNED," he said. "THIS CITY KNOWS A GOOD THING WHEN IT SEES IT AND THE BEST IS NONE TOO GOOD FOR PETERBORO. THIS CITY BEATS BOSTON FOR CULTURED AND APPRECIATION OF AN EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY. I'M GOING BACK EAST AND BUSY MYSELF WITH SUPPLYING THIS DEMAND INSTEAD OF SCOFFING AT IT."

LONDON CRIPPLED BY POST OFFICE FIRE.

THE LONDON GENERAL POST OFFICE

London was entirely cut off from telegraphic communication with the rest of the country and with the Continent, and for a time connection with America was severed, as the result of a fierce fire which started in the General Post Office, in which building the Central Telegraph Office is situated, and where all the wires of the service are concentrated.

While the fire was extremely fierce no lives were lost and the damage was confined to the inside of the building. One thousand employes, a majority of them women, got out of the structure promptly and without panic.

LIGHTS THAT FAILED.

Gloom Reigned When Thackeray and Charlotte Bronte Met.

Those do not always shine who should, as many a chagrined host or hostess has found out. Amusing in retrospect, if quite otherwise at the moment, must have been the occasion when Charlotte Bronte, "the little lady from Yorkshire of whom all England was talking," appeared at the London house of the author of "Vanity Fair." The story is told in Lewis Melville's "The Thackeray Country."

Thackeray gave a dinner party to meet Charlotte Bronte in June, 1850, and among the guests were the Carlyles, the Procters, the Brookfields, Mr. Crowe, Miss Eliot and Miss Perry.

"It was a gloomy and silent evening," Lady Ritchie has recorded. "Every one waited for the brilliant conversation which never began at all.

"Miss Bronte returned to the sofa in the study and murmured a low word now and then to our governess, Miss Truelock. The room looked very dark; the lamp began to smoke a little; the conversation grew dimmer and more dim; the ladies sat round still expectant. My father was too much perturbed by the gloom and the silence to be able to cope with it at all. Mrs. Brookfield, who was in the corner in which Miss Bronte was sitting, bent forward with a little commonplace, since brilliance was not to be the order of the evening.

"'Do you like London, Miss Bronte?' she asked. Another silence, a pause; then Miss Bronte answered very gravely:

"'Yes—no.'

"After Miss Bronte had left I was surprised to see my father opening the front door with his hat on. He put his finger to his lips, walked out into the darkness and shut the door quietly behind him. Overcome by the gloom and constraint, he was running away to his club."

TERROR OF A BOMB.

A Dramatic Incident of the Political Unrest in Russia.

Here is the story of a Russian anarchist outrage in the words of one who was nearly killed in the explosion: While staying at Cannes H. Jones Thaddeus, author of "Recollections of a Court Painter," met the Grand Duchess Elene of Russia, who gave him an account of the then recent attempt upon the life of the czar. The czar was a few minutes late in his arrival in the dining room, and for this reason the explosion was premature. After describing the event the grand duchess told Mr. Thaddeus:

"When the echoes of the explosion died away a dead silence succeeded, which, united with the darkness prevailing, so dense as almost to be felt, conduced to render our helpless position still more painful and unendurable. We dared not move. There was no escape from the peril which surrounded us. Presently out of the darkness came the clear, calm voice of the czar, 'My children, let us pray!' The sound of his voice, while reassuring us as to his safety so far, relieved the awful strain on our nerves and brought comfort to our hearts.

"We sank to our knees, sobbing. How long we remained so I really do not know. It seemed an eternity of anguish before the guards appeared with candles, little expecting to find us alive. Some of us were nearly demented when the welcome relief arrived, and our feelings were not calmed as we then contemplated the awful nature of the destruction we had escaped.

"A few feet in front of the czar was a black chasm where so short a time before had been the brilliantly lit dining room filled with servants. Not a trace of it or of them remained."

THRIFT OF THE SWISS.

Hard and Perilous Work of the Haymakers of the Alps.

The thrift of the Swiss turns every bit of ground in the Alps to the best account. If a few square yards can anywhere be made or reclaimed the requisite labor is not grudged.

The farmer makes the very soil. He builds terraces along steep inclines, lines them with blocks of stone and then packs the earth on them. Thus he transforms the mountain and the rock into a little patch, where he plants a vine or raises oats or corn. Along the edge of precipices the peasant haymaker goes in search of grass, clinging to the rock with iron clampers on his feet. He hangs on the sides of the cliffs which imprison the valley and mows down a few tufts of grass on craggy shelves here and there.

His scythe on his shoulder, armed with his iron shod stick, provided with his clamp irons, a cloth or net rolled up in his bag, he sets out at midnight in order that the dawn may find him at work. During the two months of hay harvest he goes down to the village only three or four times to renew his supply of food. By this hard and perilous occupation an Alpine mower makes from 3 to 5 francs a day, his food not included, and many times under some projecting rock he must seek a bed and pass the night.

Once dried the wild hay is carefully gathered into a cloth or net and carried down to the first little plain, where it can be made into a stack, which is weighted down with large stones to prevent its being blown away.

In the winter, when everything is covered with snow, the mower climbs again the mountain, carrying a little wooden sledge on his shoulders. He loads it with hay, seats himself in front and shoots down with the swiftness of an arrow. Thus the hay crop of the Alps is brought in.—New York Sun.

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guarantors are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policyholders and guarantors.

VERDI'S COOL CRITIC.

A Chap Who Liked to Eat His Cake and Still Have It.

When Giuseppe Verdi's opera "Aida" was first being presented to Italian audiences the composer received the following letter, dated May, 1872, from a man residing in Reggio, a town near Parma, and about 100 miles from Milan:

"Much Honored Signor Verdi—The 2d of this month I went to Parma, drawn there by the sensation made by your opera 'Aida.' So great was my curiosity that one-half hour before the commencement of the piece I was already in my place, No. 120. I admired the mise en scene, I heard with pleasure the excellent singers, and I did all in my power to let nothing escape me. At the end of the opera I asked myself if I was satisfied, and the answer was 'No!' I started back to Reggio, and listened in the railway carriage to the opinions given upon 'Aida.' Nearly all agreed in considering it a work of the first order.

"I was then seized with the idea of hearing it again, and on the 4th I returned to Parma. I made unheard of efforts to get a reserved seat. As the crowd was enormous I was obliged to throw away five lire in order to witness the performance with any comfort.

"I arrived at this conclusion about it: It is an opera in which there is absolutely nothing which causes any enthusiasm or excitement, and without the pomp of the spectacle the public would not stand it to the end. When it has filled the house two or three times it will be banished to the dust of the archives.

"You can now, dear Signor Verdi, picture to yourself my regret at having spent—on two occasions—32 lire. Add to this the aggravating circumstances that I depend on my family, and this money troubles my rest like a frightful specter! I therefore frankly address myself to you in order that you may send me the amount. The account is as follows:

	Lire.
Railroad—going	2.60
Railroad—returning	3.30
Opera tickets	8.00
Detestable supper at the station	2.00
	15.90
Twice	2
	31.80

"Hoping that you will deliver me from this embarrassment, I salute you from my heart. Bertani.

"P. S.—My address: Prospero Bertani, via San Domenico, No. 5."

Verdi happened to be more amused than offended at the cool impertinence of this amateur critic, and he instructed his publisher to forward Signor Bertani the sum demanded minus 4 lire. By way of justifying this deduction he wrote, "The sum is not quite so much as the gentleman demands, but I think he might have taken his supper at home!"—Exchange.

How It Affected Him.

A young lawyer asked a veteran at the bar if a lawyer ever got used to losing cases.

"I can't say, sir," responded the veteran. "I really can't say; but, as for myself, I am very much in the same fix as the man from Osceola who had been defeated for office. He was telling me about it and, in order to acquit himself of the charge of being a bad loser, kept interjecting the remark that he was not complaining. 'It doesn't pay to complain,' I said, agreeing with him.

"'No, sir, it doesn't,' he exclaimed, 'and I won't complain, but at the same time I want you to understand, sir, that it makes me durned sick.'"—Kansas City Journal.

Just a Jolt.

"What's the matter?"

"Oh, nothing."

"No, no; don't tell me that. Something disagreeable or discouraging has happened. Your look shows it."

"Well, if you insist on knowing, I started out this morning feeling as gay and chipper as a boy of twenty, but a little while ago I met a former sweetheart of mine, and she told me that her second daughter had just graduated from high school. Say, are the wrinkles around my eyes very noticeable?"—Chicago Record-Herald.

ADVERTISE in The TIMES

EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hull up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or tomorrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia is used in all parts of the civilized world. Also by the King of England, Premier of Canada, Premier of Ontario, Mikado of Japan, and State Departments throughout the world.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—

"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not up-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—

"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wyes, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Literary and Scientific Institute writes:—

"The name of 'Nelson,' and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia.

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

PANAMA CANAL NOT IMPORTANT

French Authority Says Valve is Overrated

SUEZ CANAL STILL LEAD

Advantages of Panama Would Be More Than Counterbalanced by Difficulties of Obtaining Freight.

Paris, Sept. 21.—The passing of the Panama Canal bill into law has given rise to the discussion of the exaggeration of the importance of the Canal itself to the world's shipping. One of the leading maritime authorities in France, M. Jose Mossell, says in this connection that the enormous advantages of the new canal are in consideration greatly diminished. They are, he says, not sufficient to bring to Panama the trade enjoyed by Suez for while the voyage from Europe to the East via Panama would be some fifteen days shorter, this advantage would be more than counterbalanced by the difficulty of obtaining freight. By the Suez route vessels tap Egypt, India and China, whose freights are profitable and abundant, while there would not seem to be much to be picked up by the Panama route. On the return ships might make a slight detour to Chile and load nitrate, but at $2.50 per ton this would not be very attractive.

From the passenger's point of view, the Panama route would only benefit travellers between Europe, the West Coast of the United States and Australia. European passengers for Chile would arrive just as quickly going direct to Buenos Ayres and taking the Trans-Andean railroad.

As to the notrates and saltpetre of Chile—not very profitable freight—it is to be presumed that the sailing ships that carry it now will continue to use the Cape Horn route, not only to avoid the canal dues, but also because calms are frequent and durable in the gulf at Panama.

There remains the question of coal. Seventy-five per cent. of existing cargo steamers carry between 5,000 and 8,000 tons. Their speed is small and their coal consumption calculated for medium distances. But between Panama and Asia or Australia there is the whole Pacific Ocean to be crossed, fifteen or twenty days' navigation. Only very rich freights would permit such an expense.

From all this, concludes M. Mossell, it appears that the prime importance of the canal is strategical, in that it permits the United States fleet to operate indifferently on either shore of the Continent. Thanks to the new canal, the American fleet will be able to accomplish in two or three weeks a journey which formerly required three months and that, without doubt, will hasten the settling of accounts which, sooner or later, must take place between the United States of America and Japan for the hegemony of the Pacific.

QUEER [illegible] CAGES.

How Would You Like a Berth on the "Ship of the Desert?"

Camel cradles are not designed for rocking young camels to sleep, but they are a contrivance by which travelers in the desert may journey by night and yet not lose all sleep. Mr. Lansdell in his book of travels describes them in an entertaining way in telling how he journeyed by camel train from Khiva to the Caspian:

"About 7 o'clock all was in readiness, and we were to get into our queer sleeping cages. Let the reader imagine two narrow wooden crates, such as earthenware is packed in each sufficiently large for a man to lie in when twisted to the shape of the letter S, and let him further imagine them suspended on either side of the huge hump of a kneeling camel.

"This, I am given to understand, is to be my sleeping place for the night, and I accordingly choose my berth on the port side of the 'ship of the desert,' first putting into the cradle for a lining a piece of felt and then two pillows. Then I put on over my ordinary suit my jackal lined coat enveloping me from head to foot, over that my ulster, and on my head a sheepskin hat, to say nothing of fur-lined boots, and then, getting into the cradle, I cover myself with my sleeping rug.

"And now comes the tug of war. Nazar asks are we ready, bids us hold on, and says to the camel 'Chuf,' whereupon the animal gets up leisurely, first by its hind legs, and I am thrown forward at an angle of 60 degrees, thereby threatening to pitch me out bodily.

"We hold on, however, for dear life, and then comes a lurch from the fore, lifting our heads once more to the horizontal. The fear of danger is now past, but it is clear, as at first to get accustomed to the strange motion caused by the long strides of the camel.

"When the creatures was urged to go quickly the nearest simile for the cradle I can think of is that of a bottle of medicine being shaken, of being 'well shaken before taken,' but when the camel walked leisurely the motion resembled being well tossed by the billows and sleep became possible, just as it is for a Russian tarantass when one is dead tired, cramped and used to it."

UNWRITTEN BOOKS.

Thackeray and Conan Doyle Both Found Themselves Forestalled.

How strange are literary coincidences occasionally is illustrated in the case of Thackeray and Dumas. Thackeray says: "I came near writing a book on the same subject, 'Les Trois Mousquetaires,' and taking M. d'Artagnan for my hero. D'Artagnan was a real character of the age of Louis XIV. and wrote his own memoirs. I remember picking up a dingy copy of them on an old bookstall in London, price sixpence, and intended to make something of it. But Dumas got ahead of me. He snaps up everything."

A coincidence quite as remarkable occurred with Sir Conan Doyle for central figure. He learned while spending a holiday in a mountain inn in Switzerland that during the winter months for some reason two men remained in occupation. For four or five months they were isolated from the rest of the world. Suppose one of them went mad or committed suicide or— The possibilities were endless. He forthwith determined to embody the idea in a story. On his way home he happened to pick up a book of tales by Maupassant. There, in it, under the title "L'Auberge," he found himself forestalled in every particular.

An Old London Dining Club.

An old London dining club, the Dilettanti, was founded in 1732. This at one time was an extremely wealthy club, for, in addition to their subscription, members had to pay a fine when any money was bequeathed them. In 1790 the Dilettanti had £10,000 in hand. Soon after its foundation Horace Walpole wrote that "the qualification for the Dilettanti is having been in Italy and the real one being drunk." It has grown respectable with years, but even now, when a new member is balloted, all the members have to make a complete circuit of the dining table before placing the ball in the box. And a rule still survives that "every member who shall produce on the table a dish of tea or coffee must pay into the general fund a guinea for every such drink."—London Spectator.

Tin.

Who first found tin? There is a legend among the Cornish miners that St. Piran, an Irish hermit, was the discoverer. His ancient church in the parish of Perranzabuloe, in Cornwall, laid bare of sand by the sea many years ago, has recently been repaired. Cornish miners still keep the feast of St. Piran, who, according to the fable, first found tin, forgetting that their forefathers had long previously sold it to the Phoenicians. Possibly the legend points to the fact that this Irishman was a skillful metallurgist.

The Social Weaver.

Perhaps the most curious nesting habit is that of a certain species of weaving bird to be found in Africa called the social weaver. A number of these begin clubbing together and build immense grass canopies, like umbrellas, on the tops of trees, weaving the grass so closely together that it acts as a rainproof roof. Under this shelter each pair of birds build their own nest and thus form happy little colonies.—London Tit-Bits.

Carlyle's Bluntness.

Thomas Carlyle once took Lord Houghton (Richard Milnes) to task in regard to the proposed pension for Lord Tennyson. "Richard Milnes," said Carlyle, taking his pipe out of his mouth, "when are ye gaun to get that pension for Alfred Tennyson?" Milnes tried to explain that there were difficulties in the way and that possibly his constituents who knew nothing about Tennyson would accuse him of being concerned in a job were he to succeed in getting the desired pension for the poet. "Richard Milnes," replied the sage, "on the day of judgment, when the Lord asks ye why ye didna get that pension for Alfred Tennyson, it'll no do to lay the blame on your constituents. It's you that'll be damned."

Superstition.

"For downright idiotic, superstitious, weak-minded, gullible credulity," growled Judkins, "recommend me to a woman! Gave away a pair of my trousers to a peddler to charm warts off the children's hands! Madam, are you aware that this is the twentieth century and not the middle ages?"

"It does seem a little silly," said Mrs. Judkins mildly, "but I've heard of such things being done. You know those trousers, John, were the pair you tore on the lawn mower the other day and threw aside."

"It's not the trousers, madam; it's the childish, imbecile, fatuous puerility of the thing. Besides, I left a hare's foot in one of those pockets, madam, that I've carried for rheumatism the past three years."—London Tit-Bits.

His Painful Debut.

"I shall not easily forget my debut," Sir Charles Wyndham said on one occasion. "We opened at Washington, and I appeared as a character who had to declare, 'I am drunk with love and enthusiasm.' Having uttered the first three words, I was seized with stage fright and said no more. This is what I read in a New York paper the next morning: 'A Mr. Wyndham represented a young man from South America. He had better go there himself.'"

EASTERN COURTSHIPS

WINNING A WIFE IS SOMETIMES INTRICATE WORK.

The Malay Woman Is Not Supposed to Be Seen by Her Husband-to-Be and Everything Is Arranged by Go-Betweens—Bedouin Women Have a Voice In Their Own Affairs and Can Reject Man If They Choose.

Malay women are secluded during all of their early life, but their rights, even in courtship, are clearly recognized. All during courtship the bridegroom is not supposed to see his fiancee, and certainly not her face, until the wedding day. Among the wealthy and the upper classes this rule is really observed, and this precludes anything like a courtship in the way we understand it. Of course, among the poorer classes it is impossible always to observe these rules.

The matches in the Malay Peninsula are arranged almost entirely by the women friends of the man and the girl, who act as go-betweens and arrange even the details of the match. After the match has been decided upon, the friends of the groom go to the verandah of the bride's house. There they sit upon mats, chew betel nuts, and discuss the terms of the dowry. Love-making and dowry-raising are two subjects that are always of great interest to Malay men. These conferences take place at night, for the Malay day begins at sunset, and continues sometimes for several nights. After the dowry is arranged and the marriage expenses agreed upon, the engagement is a settled fact.

The Malays pay for the marriage before they celebrate it, for they think it is a disgrace to contract debts. All the wedding expenses are paid by the bridegroom, even to the cakes eaten at the wedding and the dress of the bride.

The Malay girls are not allowed to chew the betel nut, and their well-shaped teeth are pearly white. On the day before her marriage the girl's teeth are filed, and this painful operation is the excuse for an elaborate social function. Feasting and music intersperse the ceremonials. One writer says: "If the maiden moans, her moans are drowned in a flood of music, as are the moans of the Burmese maiden who, having reached a marriageable age, dons her best garments and lies down, surrounded by a host of exalting friends, to have her ears pierced.

"The teeth of the Malay bride-elect are filed down to a third, a fourth, or sometimes even a smaller fraction of their natural length, and unnatural spaces are filed between each tooth and its adjacent fellow. This disfigures indescribably, and makes the veriest wreck of the prettiest mouth. And this is because it is the style."

This causes the gums to ache to the torture point and to swell. For weeks the inflammation and the pains are excruciating, and sleep is almost impossible, and to eat and talk causes agony. All this is on the "honeymoon!"

Bedouin women have a distinct voice in the selection of their husbands, unlike the women of many Eastern countries.

Honeymoons fall to the lot of brides almost everywhere but in Arabia. The Arabians do not make wedding journeys, though often the Arab bride-elect takes a long, tiresome journey just before her marriage. Quite often a girl will wed a man who lives at a distance from her home. Contrary to our custom, it is never the man who makes the journey. The girl is starting a new life and departing from the ways of her girlhood, so that it is she, and not the groom, who goes alone on a long journey.

The aristocrats of the Arabian towns often send their boys to grow up as tent-boys in the Bedouin tents, so that they will become strong and manly. The boy does not return home until he is grown to be a man, and he usually brings with him the memory of some soft-eyed Bedouin girl who has spent so many pleasant hours with him during his boyhood. The father in town knows that the Bedouin girl is probably strong and healthy, and is glad to send for her to become the wife of his son.

The girl of the Bedouins comes riding upon a camel, which is wonderfully decorated with mirrors hung near its head and with tapestries and embroideries. There is a canopy of tinsel, silk, and fine cloth, all embroidered with verse from the Koran. Ostrich plumes complete the camel's decorations. Some girls or women friends ride with the bride. Behind them ride their attendants. All the camels are gaily and luxuriously decorated.

An Arab has an absolute right to the hand of his girl cousin, and he must formally renounce the right before he can marry anyone else. If a girl has more than one male cousin, it is the right always of the eldest unmarried cousin to take her for a wife.

Arabian girls are careful in their behaviour, for should they commit any sin the shame would be felt by their whole family. Even if a woman does wrong, she is protected, and her crime concealed, if possible, by her family.

Among several of the Bedouin tribes, as soon as a maiden's hand has been asked in marriage her kinswomen surround her with incense fumes and the smoke of sweet woods. And however far she moves, wherever she goes, this veil of sweet smoke must be kept around her, until she takes her nuptial bath.

Among the Bedouins, too, after a lover has gained the girl's consent he creeps behind her and throws a cloak over her. The girl pretends that she wishes to escape. Her married kinswomen prevent her, and take her into a tent in which no one has lived before. Her father and her lover kill a lamb outside her curtain. Her mother catches a cupful of blood, and with it anoints the bride. For three days and nights the betrothed girl lives alone in the tent, speaking to no one, her maiden friends sit outside and guard her.

For seven days the groom-to-be must wear a green turban to show that he is engaged to a young girl, and not to a widow.

The "Copper."

There are two theories as to the source of the term "cop" or "copper," the familiar name for an officer of the law in the mouth of the mischievous gamin. One derives it from the letters C. O. P.—central office police—but the other and more usual explanation of the word is that it referred to the eight point star made of copper and surrounded by a copper ring worn by the Metropolitan police of New York in the late fifties. This badge, a huge affair, which was fastened to the buttonhole by a chain about four inches long, was later superseded by a special badge of smaller size.

THE AGILE TIGER.

He Is "Shod With Silence" and Is as Quick as Lightning.

Most wild animals are specialists—that is to say, they are highly developed in one particular direction. The tiger is great as a stalker. His feet seem to be "shod with silence." E. H. Elliott, for many years a resident of India, cited an experience of one of his neighbors illustrative of this point.

He had been much annoyed by tigers and at last tied a bullock out in a clearing and took up his own position in a tree to wait till the tiger should come after the bait. The ground was covered with dried leaves, which in hot weather are so brittle that even the walking of a bird over them can be heard for a good distance.

In no very long time a large tiger slipped out of the forest and slowly edged toward the bullock. His method was so elaborate and careful that the man who saw it used to declare that it would have been worth 1,000 rupees to any young sportsman to have witnessed it.

KEEPING THE LOG.

Simple System by Which the Mariner Records Weather Conditions.

How many landsmen know how a logbook is written up? It seems just as complicated as double entry bookkeeping when one does not know, but after a little careful attention and study it's as easy to keep a logbook as to eat hot gingerbread. There is a list of letters arranged, and they look like so much Greek to the uneducated.

The letter b, for instance, stands for blue sky, whether there be clear or hazy atmosphere. C means cloudy or detached, opening clouds; d denotes drizzling rain; a small j, fog; capital F, thick fog; g, gloomy, dark weather; h, hail; l lightning, and m, misty or hazy so as to interfere with the view.

The letter b represents overcast or when the whole sky is covered with one impenetrable cloud. Passing showers are noted by the letter p, and q indicates the weather to be squally. Continuous rain is indicated by an r, snow by an s and thunder by a t. Any ugly, threatening appearance in the weather calls for the letter u, and visibility of distant objects, whether the sky be cloudy or not, is represented by the letter v. A small w is wet dew. A full point or dot under any letter denotes an extraordinary degree.

As an example of how the letters are used take q p d l t. This reads very hard squalls and showers of drizzle, accompanied by lightning, with very heavy thunder. Numerals denote the force of the wind.

A cipher indicates calm, 1 light air, 2 light breeze, 3 gentle breeze, 4 moderate breeze, 5 fresh breeze, 6 strong breeze, 7 moderate gale, 8 fresh gale, 9 strong gale, 10 whole gale, 11 storm, 12 hurricane. This system of abbreviation is generally adhered to on all merchant vessels.

England's Merchant Fleet.

An idea of the rapidity with which the sailing fleet is disappearing is conveyed in figures recently made public in London. The world's sailing fleet now totals little more than 4,000,000 tons, whereas the merchant steamers of the globe are in excess of 40,000,000 tons. On the assumption that one ton of steam is equal to three of sail, steamships now do 30 times as much of the carrying trade of the world as sailing ships.

Of this huge total of steam shipping the British flag boasts practically one-half, as much as 17,700,000 tons being registered in the United Kingdom, and 1,600,000 tons in British colonies. It may be conjectured too that the British half comprises the newer and more economically worked moiety.

While 349,000 tons of shipping has been added to the United Kingdom register since 1911, Germany has increased her tonnage by 162,000. Japan by 141,000 and Norway by 138,000.

Taciturn Carlyle.

Thomas Carlyle was taciturn, and one writer gave him the paradoxical title, "the roaring apostle of taciturnity." The same writer once rode with Carlyle in the Chelsea omnibus and endeavored in vain with questions to induce the great man to break his golden silence and coin a few sentences of silver speech. Carlyle preserved a moody silence. But the defeated questioner had his revenge when, affecting not to know Mr. Carlyle, he asked the conductor as they got out who the gentleman was and received the following reply:

"Oh, yes, sir; I know him well enough. 'E's wot you call a littery gent—writes books wot nobody can understand. 'E's a bit off his chump, like many of those gents, but he ain't a bad sort if you take him the right way."

CELEBRATED RETORTS

WITTY REPLIES IN PARLIAMENT AND ON STUMP.

The Repartee of the Sons of Erin Very Frequently Enlivens the Debates of the British Commons—Mixed Metaphors of Speakers Also Contribute to the General Gayety From Time to Time.

More often than not it is Irish wit which scores in the House of Commons, and many a time during an exciting debate both Conservatives and Liberals have been nonplussed by the ready repartee of M.P.'s from the Emerald Isle. There was one memorable occasion, however—and it is recalled by George W. Smalley in "Anglo-American Memories" — when Irish members were for the moment stricken dumb by the retort of a member who could not afterwards be identified. Mr. Chamberlain, while speaking on the home rule question, said something regarding the Duke of Devonshire, whereupon a Nationalist member asked, "How long is it since the Duke of Devonshire has been in Ireland?" and from across the floor came the answer, like a flash of lightning, "Not since his brother was murdered in Phoenix Park."

Mr. Smalley considers this retort worthy to rank with Col. Sanderson's answer to a demand for his reasons against home rule. "There are," answered the gallant colonel, promptly, "in this House sixty-nine good and sufficient reasons against home rule, and there they sit."

Against this one might set the retort of Major O'Gorman, a genial and burly Irish member, who is said to have been the only man who could be relied on to make "Dizzy's" Sphinx-like face relax into a smile! "Why are the Irish always laying bare the wrongs of their country?" querulously demanded a member in the House. "Because," thundered O'Gorman, "they want them redressed."

And apropos of the great Irish question one might recall the retort to a speaker at a public meeting in Ireland in 1881, when Parnell and other Irish leaders were arrested. "How would you retaliate?" the speaker asked a crowded audience, and, after a dramatic pause, answered his own question thus: "I'll tell you. The landlords will never get a penny of rent from you until your brave leaders are released." "Well, may they never be let out, then!" cried someone who could conceive no better prospect than that of never paying rent.

It was the irrepressible Mr. Tim Healy who provided another illustration of his witty sarcasm during a debate on the South African War, when the Boers were winning battle after battle. There was much criticism regarding the capabilities of officers and leaders, and some member put the question to Mr. Brodrick (now Viscount Midleton), then Minister for War, as to how many horses he had despatched to South Africa. He gave an answer, whereupon Mr. Tim Healy got up and put a supplementary question: "Would the honorable gentleman kindly inform the House how many asses he has sent to South Africa?"

Mention of asses reminds one of the Irish M.P. who once interrupted the oratory of an enemy of his country by ejaculating "Ass!" "The honorable member," came the lightning retort, "flatters me too much in claiming me as kinsman." And then there was the occasion when a scion of a noble house, defending his order, asked, "Is it not right that, in order to hand down to posterity the virtues of those who have been eminent for their services to the country, their descendants should enjoy the honors conferred on them as a reward for such services?" "By the same rule," chimed in the late Mr. Labouchere, "if a man is hanged for his misdeeds, all his posterity should be hanged too."

At election times the strenuousness of political strife is considerably enlivened by apt retorts from the crowd and the platform. The heckler, of course, is much in evidence. Sometimes he scores, but usually the candidate comes off best in the bandy of words. The apt retort of Mr. Winston Churchill, who, during the first election he fought, was asked by one of the crowd, who intended to ridicule Mr. Churchill's youthful appearance, "Does your mother know you're out?" To which the future Cabinet Minister retorted, "Yes, and by Thursday she will know I'm in!" has often been quoted, and it reminds one of the retort of the Hon. Neil Primrose, who, when he was putting up for the Wisbech division of Cambridgeshire, was heckled at one meeting by a man in the crowd, who suddenly reminded him that he was supporting Lloyd George's budget, which his father, Lord Rosebery, opposed. Ultimately the candidate was asked whether this action on the part of his father did not amount to hitting below the belt. "Exactly," said Mr. Primrose, "but when one's father does hit one, it generally is below the belt."

It was during an election, when a leading member of the Irish Bar was putting up as candidate, that, during an eloquent speech upon the woes and injustices of his native land, he sought to impress his audience still further by squeezing out a few tears, which trickled over his extensive cheeks. But the sublime was turned to the ridiculous when one of the gallery remarked, "Shure, bhoys, there's a fine field for hydraulics." This was as disconcerting as the reply made to Sir Richard Temple, who on one occasion returned post haste from his duties in India to contest a seat. In the course of a speech he remarked that he had traveled 8,000 miles and surrendered $25,000 "for the privilege of representing this great constituency," and the audience was impressed until a remark, in a loud voice, came from the crowd, "Oh, what a fool!"

Sir William Hart Dyke once said that "Mr. Lowther had caught a big fish in his net, and went to the top of the tree for it."

Windmills on Houses.

Wind engines are for the most part variations of the familiar windmill. With a surface sufficiently exposed great power is obtainable for operating a dynamo. One cannot help marveling. If a single horsepower wind engine were affixed to the roof of every London house, think of the enormous saving to the hands, the legs and the backs of half a million housewives and domestic servants! Every family could then keep its horse or at least its horsepower, every householder could afford a motor, and, from an artistic standpoint, what a great gain to the eye it would be to see London a city of windmills—London Strand Magazine.

MERELY COINCIDENCE?

CURIOUS EXAMPLES OF THINGS THAT CAME TRUE.

Flamsteed Was an Astronomer, But His Astrology Worked Out All Right—Mr. Williams' Dream of the Murder of Mr. Perceval In British Commons Was Fulfilled—Story of Lord Lyttleton's Ghost.

Most of us have had more or less striking coincidences happen within our own personal experience. Some of the most memorable instances published are to be found in these remarkable series of circumstances which form chains of evidence, on the strength of which many innocent men have been convicted.

Humor is to be found in coincidence, too. In the days of Flamsteed, a former Astronomer-Royal, astrologers were much in request by the public, who looked upon the Astronomer-Royal as the most potent of them all, and often consulted him in time of trouble. One day an old lady called on Flamsteed and asked him to exercise his art by discovering the whereabouts of a basket of linen she had lost. Flamsteed pretended to consult the stars, and then told his visitor that if she went to a certain field she would find her belongings. The woman went to the place indicated, and, much to the astronomer's astonishment found her basket of linen intact.

One of the most remarkable instances of this kind—a vision prior to or simultaneous with an historical occurrence represented in the vision—was Mr. Williams' dream of the murder of Mr. Perceval in the lobby of the House of Commons on May 11th, 1812. Mr. Williams was a native of Redruth in Cornwall. On the night of the 2nd or 3rd of May he dreamt that he saw a little man whom he afterwards learned was Mr. Perceval, the Prime Minister, shot by another man whose dress he described, and who took a pistol from under his coat. The tragedy took place in the lobby of the House of Commons, and the murderer was laid hold of by several gentlemen present. Such in brief, was Mr. Williams' dream, and he dreamt it no fewer than three times that same night. This made such an impression on him that he wished to journey up to London, to warn Mr. Perceval. But his friends dissuaded him, pointing out that he would probably be laughed at for his pains. Williams yielded, but watched the newspapers. He wrote afterwards:

"On the evening of the 13th of May . . . . my second son, returning from Truro, came in a hurried way into the room where I was sitting and exclaimed, 'Oh, father, your dream has come true! Mr. Perceval has been shot in the lobby of the House of Commons; there is an account come from London to Truro written after the newspapers were printed.'" Mr. Perceval, as we know, was assassinated on the 11th. Another very curious circumstance in connection with this affair was that a rumor or report of the assassination of Mr. Perceval reached Bude Kirk, a village near Annan, in Scotland, on the night of Sunday, May 10th, the day before the crime was committed! This was mentioned in The Times of May 25th, 1812, and was confirmed by Rev. Mr. Yorstoun, of Hoddam, who visited Bude Kirk a short time afterwards.

A somewhat similar affair which was generally known as Lord Lyttleton's ghost — although nobody knew what the ghost was or whether there was any spectre at all—was said by Dr. Johnson to have been "the most extraordinary thing that has happened in my day." Thomas Lord Lyttleton was born in 1774. As a young man he played the prodigal at home and abroad, until at the age of 30 he took his seat in the House of Lords. In November, 1804, his party went into Opposition. On Thursday, November 25, he denounced the Government in a notable speech. Referring to a sinecure which he held, he said, "Perhaps I shall not keep it long!"

On the previous night Lyttleton had seen the ghost, or apparition, or whatever it was, and had been told that he would die in three days. He mentioned it to Rowan Hamilton on the 25th, and also to a Captain Ascough, through whom it reached Mrs. Thrale, who chronicled it. On the same day he went to Epsom with some friends and mentioned the visitation to them. About midnight on the 28th November Lord Lyttleton died suddenly in bed, his valet having left him for a moment. The cause of death was not stated and there was no inquest. Most of the narrators, including Mrs. Thrale, who recorded the warning before news of his lordship's death reached her, called the affair a dream, but the coincidence of its fulfilment is the mysterious and significant part of it.

Still another example of the long arm of coincidence is given by Dr. Ebers, the head of a great lunatic asylum. He had been waiting at the station for a friend who had not arrived when an old Scotchwoman rushed up to him, "Oh, sir!" she cried, "Thank God you've come. Now take me to him."

The doctor was naturally astonished, and the woman explained that she had not heard of her sailor son for months. She had been warned in a dream to go to London and wait at the station, where an old gentleman would meet her and take her to where her son was. "And you are the old gentleman," she concluded.

Still Dr. Ebers was no wiser. He took her story to his wife. Suddenly he recollected that some months previously a man was sent to the asylum. He had fallen from aloft, cracked his skull and was then only recovering from an operation. Next day a meeting was arranged, and sure enough the injured man was the old lady's sailor son. In a very short time they both returned to Scotland, both convinced that their reunion was a special dispensation of Providence.

Very Young.

A new member of the harbor board in a New Zealand town was attending its meetings for the first time, and the board was discussing a proposal to place two buoys at the entrance to the harbor. "I beg to propose an amendment," said the new member, "that one man should be placed there instead of two boys, as the latter are too young for such a responsible position!"

A Dangerous Precedent.

"I know a girl who made a two dollar graduation gown and captured a husband on the strength of it."

"There's a good argument for two dollar gowns."

"The trouble is she caught a two dollar husband. He has expected her to dress on that precedent ever since."

When Appetite Fails And Digestion is Bad

There is Danger Ahead for the Man That Neglects Nature's Warnings

Dyspepsia Tendencies are Serious, and Should be Treated Accordingly.

There is a strong moral in the statement of James Schrum, of Pleasant street, Dartmouth, N.S. Like thousands of people, he was failing in health because his stomach and digestive organs were out of repair. His vitality was slipping away; he was losing ground every day.

"I could not have held on much longer. I was wasting away simply because no remedy I used gave tone and strength to my stomach. The vital forces of my system seemed dead, I was advised to try Dr. Hamilton's Pills. What hidden weakness they searched out I don't know, but in a miraculous way they have made me a new man. My stomach troubles are cured, rich blood now runs through my veins—clear skin and unmistakable evidences of health and vigor I feel every day. Dr. Hamilton's Pills have certainly mastered the secret of curing the sickly enervated man and I strongly urge everyone in failing or lost health to use this grand remedy."

Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut are purely vegetable—25c per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

EYE GLASS MOUNTING

With the curved top guards is the only mounting that will hold your lenses in place firmly with a slight pressure; and that is the better half of eye glass comfort. No matter how well-adapted your lenses may be, if the mounting is ill-fitting and hurts the nose, imperfect vision is certain to be the result.

Someone has stolen the current number of Punch from the Library. Small Fire at City Building.

Last night at eight o'clock, amid a downpour of rain, the fire brigade had a run to the corner of Simcoe and Water streets. It seems that a pile of sweepings in the band hall, situated at the top floor of the city building, had in some way caught on fire. There was much smoke, but little blaze. A hole was burnt through the floor, but all danger was quickly eliminated by use of chemicals. Little damage was done.

The Lost Greek is Found

The local Greek colony was greatly disturbed on Saturday over the disappearance of Louis Pappas, a young Athenian, who worked in Messrs. Yeotes Bros. cigar store. It seems that the young man hurt his leg by getting it cut on a show case the preceding day. He said he was going to get the wound dressed, but did not return. Enquiries at both local hospitals developed the fact neither of these institutions had heard of his case. The young fellow turned up safe and sound Saturday night by train from Toronto, to which city he had gone without advising his friends here.

Former Local Citizen Returning.

Mr. Stanley Coon, who formerly operated the Princess theatre in this city, but now residing in Toronto, arrived at noon yesterday, per C.P.R. and put up at the Oriental Hotel. For the past two years Mr. Coon has travelled for the Corby Distillery He has just returned from a successful business trip to Vancouver and other western points. In conversation with a Times representative yesterday, Mr. Coon intimated his intention of returning to Peterborough to live. He will purchase a home in the city and make Peterborough his headquarters. Mr. Coon claimed that he found housekeeping in Toronto too expensive.

"Billy" at Grand Opera House.

On Saturday evening the Opera House was fairly filled with a select audience, who would undoubtedly have been greater on any night but that of Saturday and who got many times their money's worth of laughter. The play was the great farce comedy "Billy." Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, who deserve great praise for bringing such an attraction to the Grand, certainly kept faith in advertising "a laught every minute for two and a half hours." As the company was delayed in arriving in the city, the matinee advertised for the afternoon was necessarily cancelled.

EAST CITY MAN'S GLIDER MADE THE ASCENT

On Saturday afternoon a Times reporter and two English Immigrants with a yellow dog climbed Armour's Hill to watch the East City inventor defy the laws of gravitation by ascending to azure heights in his "Glider." The hours rolled by, a muley cow lowed when it got a mouthful of stones, the crows cawed loudly as they circled about the brow of the hill, but the inventor did not put in an appearance. The Times man, after due delay went to a vacant field where he found the inventor and his Glider or flying machine surrounded by a crowd of boys. The enterprising aviator explained that the wires holding the machane, or parts of it together had become loose. The machine is a light shaped framework of basswood held together by nails. The wings or planes and tail are of cotton. Its dimensions are 35 feet wide by 25 feet long.

The inventor informed The Times that he expected to attain a height of 1000 feet. There are not the usual bicycle wheels attached to an aeroplane. The machine on which the aerial navigator will sit is on a pair of runners something resembling those of a lumberman's bobsleigh. The local aviator expects to slide down the hill and then glide, glide away.

An Ascent Made.

Later in the evening, after making some necessary repairs, the young inventor succeeded in ascending to a height of some thirty feet, from the level field, and appeared to have his flying machine under good control.

Jonah K. Kalanaianaole was unanimously renominated as congressional delegate.

O'BRIEN SAYS PARTITION OF IRELAND IS UNTHINKABLE

Leader of the Independent Nationalist Party Deals With the Irish Situation---Ulster Disorders Have a Substratum of Genuine Feeling

Cork, Ireland, Sept. 23.—"The troubles in Ulster are of the same character as the racial conflicts which once divided Canada and South Africa. They can be cured only by the same methods of mutual concession and conciliation. The Ulster demonstrations are largely exploited by politicians for their own purposes, but undoubtedly they have a sub-stratum of genuine apprehension which deseeves respectful consideration.

Dangers are Imaginary.

"The dangers to the property or civil or religious liberties of our Protestant fellow countrymen, we Nationalists know to be entirely imaginary. They spring from the artificial divisions which have so long kept the two races from knowing one another. Bigotry is absolutely alien to Irish nature. Our Protestant patriots are as much loved as O'Connell The substantial interests of the two races, once antagonistic, are now identical. For these reasons, we of the All-for-Ireland League, representing a national peace movement, composed of Home Rulers of all shades and classes, would gladly assent to any arrangements of a temporary and experimental character that would give Ulster a guarantee of the most watchful, Imperial control against any possibility of injustice.

Partition Is Unthinkable.

"The partition of Ireland is almost the only compromise which we should not be ready to discuss if it were the means of securing a settlement by consent. The separation of Ulster from Ireland would be, for Irish Protestants as well as Catholics, as unthinkable as the separation of Ontario and Quebec would be lor Canadians. The two Canadian parties, Liberal and Conservative, would be doing a noble service to the Empire if they consented to arbitrate as to the guarantees which ought to satisfy every national man in Ireland."—William O'Brien.

SAYS HE CARRIED MAN AND A CANOE FOR 53 MILES

New York, Sept. 23.—For fifty-three miles afoot through the Maine woods, W. S. Cowing, a teacher, carried on his back a companion, Chas. Claxton, Jr., who was helpless from an attack of pneumonia, according to Cowing's description of their experiences as the two men passed through this city to-day on the way to their homes in Philadelphia.

For sometime after Cowing and Claxton, near starvation, reached the little French-Canadian village St. Pomphile, Juebec, and travelled thence by rail to Bangor, Claxton, son of a physician in Philadelphia, lay near death in a Bangor hospital.

Cowing and Claxton were eighteen days in reaching civilization. They had been on a canoe trip, intending to explore the head waters of the St. John's river. The stream by which they expected to return, they found was only six inches deep. They abandoned their camping outfit and started on foot, carrying their canoe. Then Claxton was stricken with pneumonia, and Cowing was forced to carry a double burden, explaining to-day that he felt it necessary to have the canoe when they should reach deep water so that he might get Claxton under physician's care as quickly as possible.

They used the canoe for the final forty miles of a trip of nearly one hundred miles to St. Pomphile.

MAY NEVER COMPLETE THE PANAMA CANAL

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 23.—"I do not believe that the first vessel will pass through the Panama Canal on October 15, 1913," said Henry Lovering, a mining engineer of Cape Gracias, Nicaragua, who is visiting U.S. Consul Edward Trimmer. "I don't believe that any vessel will ever pass through the Canal."

"Why not?" he said. "Well, the engineers have not been able to find bottom in the Culebra Cut, and they have gone down 200 feet. You remember what happened about two weeks ago—that fall of millions of cubic yards of earth? That bears me out.

"I believe Stevens and Shontz knew that a canal at Panama was impossible, that's why they quit."

MR. GEO. GRAHAM GETS WHITE HOUSE

It was currently rumored on the street yesterday, that Mr. George Graham, proprietor of the Oriental Hotel, had purchased the White House and would take possession on Monday, October 21st. It is understood that the sum of $500 had been paid down to bind the bargain. A Times representative yesterday afternoon asked Mr. Chris. Graham for corroboration of the report. That well known local athlete declined to admit or deny the rumor. Enquiries made by phone of Mr. Gus White, the present owner of the White House corroborated the report. In reply to a question put by The Times Mr. White has, as yet formulated no plans for his future, after quitting his present occupation.

MURDER AND PILLAGE IN NICARAGUA AROUSES THE UNITED STATES

SHIPS IN HARBOR AT CORINTO.

Reports of murder and pillage in Nicaragua have aroused the United States and American soldiers will be sent to protect American lives and property in the troubled zone. A sufficient force of marines will in the meantime be in Managua, the Nicaraguan capital, and Corinto, its principal seaport, to insure the safety of all American subjects. President Taft has been informed that the people of Nicaragua are suffering untold horrors and that Americans are suffering in many instances with them. The rebels have bombarded hospitals, churches, residences and school houses.

BULGARIA THINKS TIME IS RIPE TO MAKE WAR ON TURKEY

Sentiment Seems to Be That Long-Cherished Dream Will Shortly Come True---All Preparations Being Made, and Business Reflects the Seriousness of the Situation

St. Petersburg, Sept. 23.—An investigation of conditions in Bulgaria discloses unanimity of sentiment that that country is on the eve of a long-cherished war against Turkey. Unless the conferences which the Russian Foreign Minister, M. Sazanoff will have in London with British statesmen are fruitfull for Macedania the war party is likely to gain the upper hand. The army is already taking papers which have been issued enumerating recent concessions made to the Albanians and the extension of similar reforms to other provinces make the unusual admission that these reforms are the result of advice tendered by the Ambassadors here and of conversations between the Ottoman Ambassadors abroad and the Foreign Ministers of the respective countries notably Russia.

SUFFRAGETTES MAY TAKE TO FIREARMS

London, Sept. 23.—Chancellor of the Exchequer Lloyd-George is greatly upset, it was said to-day, by the violent handling in his presence of a suffragette who attempted to interrupt a speech he was making Saturday at Llanystydwy, Wales.

The woman was nearly stripped by the crowd, subjected to the grossest indignities, knocked down, beaten into unconsciousness, and undoubtedly would have been killed but for the desperate exertions of two policemen who risked their own lipes to save her and were themselves roughly handled is doing so.

The Chancellor did his best to save the mob's victim, but was completely disregarded in the excitement. Warned by the incident, members of the Women's Social and Political Union said to-day that suffragette demonstrators will "go prepared" in future, which the police take as a plain threat to use firearms.

FALL ASSIZES OPENS WITH LIGHT DOCKET

Yesterday the local Fall Assizes opened with Mr. Justice Clute presiding.

The docket was unusually light and consisted of one criminal and one civil case, the latter being withdrawn with the consent of the parties instituting the action. It concerned one Alexander Leeson of Belmont Township, who was plaintiff in a damage suit directed against the C.P.R. for an alleged fall. Following the retirement of the Grand Jury Mr. S. T. Medd, counsel for plaintiff, asked that the case be withdrawn with the consent of the parties concerned.

The criminal case was that of Edward Leal, charged with shooting at his wife with intent to do bodily harm. Before dismissing the Grand Jury, Mr. Justice Clute addressed the jurors in reference to the case which was before them.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER EN TOUR

Sir Wilfrid Laurier opened his present stumping tour at Marieville; he then spoke in Soulanges, west of Montreal and then proceeded to Northern Ontario. He touched the reciprocity issue gingerly at his first meeting, hardly at all at his second, but he seems to have grown bolder at Sturgeon Falls and Cobalt.

The ex-premier, always more of a poet than an economist, congratulated Cobalt upon having a market for her silver ore in the United States and regretted the Western wheat could not find the same haven. As The World forcibly puts it, no doubt should he go to Sudbury and Coppercliffe he will congratulate the workers there upon the fact that they do all the rough work, while the smelting, refining and more highly paid processes to which Canadian nickel is subjected for use in the arts, takes place in the United States.

The sentiment which defeated the Laurier Government, last September, favors turning Canadian wheat into Canadian flour and Canadian ores into the finished metals in Canada. The national policy is directly opposed to those ideas inherited from the Manchester school, which persistly lurks in the mind of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

THE TRAGEDIES OF CHILDHOOD

Then in your very liveliest manner you dared that innocent-looking new boy to knock a chip off your shoulder, and he did it, and gave you a good licking besides. Wasn't that the limit?

TORONTO WOMEN CONFER WITH THE PRIME MINISTER

Premier Borden Welcomed Them Cordially, But Didn't Promise To Give Them The Votes

Toronto, Sept. 23.—The motorfuls of militancy that discharged themselves at the door of Castle Frank this morning to interview Premier Borden, were a charming sight in the grey autumn weather—modish hats and tailor-made costumes, smiling ladies and one lone man, and some big yellow mums in the suffrage color.

The den, with its scarlet salvias and its golden glows in tall vases, was a cosy and intimate place in which to receive a deputation. And the Premier was as approachable as his surroundings.

The ladies were introduced by Mr. Wm. Munns, who figures in all suffrage affairs, as presiding officer, official interpreter, and starter. There was Dr. Augusta Stowe-Gullen, hon. president of the Canadian Suffrage Association; Mrs. Flora McD. Denison, the indefatigable president; Dr. Margaret Johnson, recording secretary; Dr. Margaret Gordon, representing the Toronto Suffrage Association; Mrs. Robt. Glasgow, of the Suffrage headquarters; Dr. McAlpine, Dr. Isabella Wood, Mrs. Harriet Prenter, and Mrs. McIvor, whose experiences in England have made her almost the militant that no Canadian Suffragist pretends to be. At each and all the Premier smiled in a way that showed that whatever might be his feelings toward Miss Barbara Wylie, et al., he wasn't the least bit afraid of the Dominion brand of suffragette. Even the reporters in the background were honored with the overflow of geniality.

Not Telling His Views.

Then Mrs. Denison rose to read the address that had been prepared. Mr. Borden fixed his eyes on the speaker and continued to regard her during the three foolscap typewritten pages with an expression like that of a benevolent phinx who has ideas of a far-reaching and epoch-smashing kind not to be wasted on a mob.

Mr. Borden's Reply.

Then Mr. Borden rises to reply.

He has received three delegations in England, one from the militants, one from the suffragists who forswear the hammer, and one from the antis. The first and third came on the same day. Casualties not recorded.

"At present," the Premier assured the Toranto ladies, "this is a question for the Provincial Legislatures. The Federal Parliament uses the electoral lists prepared by the various Provinces. So long as the law passed in '97 continues in force, names placed on the list in any one of the Provinces would be eligible for the Dominion franchise.

"Of course, if my Government wished to do so, it could repeal this Act and return to the custom in vogue before its passage, and that of compiling separate lists for Federal elections. But, as you will realize, this would be a serious step necessitating much thought. The calling into being the machinery to prepare such lists could not be lightly done.

"The question of votes for women would come before my colleagues and myself if and when we should conclude to make any changes in the law to which I have alluded."

SAYS THE MAID OF THE MIST DIDN'T GO ON THE ROCKS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 23.—"That the steamer Maid of the Mist ran on the rocks below the cataract near the Ontario Power plant on Saturday is absolutely without foundation," stated Captain Richard Carter this morning, who is in charge of the boat.

The captain states that he and his crew saw a body in the water, and they swung into an eddy and lowered a small boat to rescue it. They could not distinguish whether it was the body of a male or female. The body got away, and the fact that the craft stopped in mid-stream and that she went out of her course led the people on the shore and upper bridge to believe that she had struck the rocks, which also gave the passengers an idea that something serious had happened.

"But there was no panic of any kind," stated the captain, "and no damage whatever done the craft."

ITALIANS USED WEAPONS FREELY---WOMAN MAY DIE

Sanguinary Battle Fought in House on University Avenue ---Five Victims in Hospital

Toronto, Sept. 23.—As a sequel to the Donnybrook melee which took place last night in the front bedroom of the house at 103 University avenu Giuseppe Rugierie and Rocco Lombardo appeared before Magistrate Kingsford in the Police Court this morning to answer the charge of wounding, Morrà Caramela, Donato Bruzzuti, Michele Bruzzuti and Mrs. Lorenza Giugria. All the witnesses and prisoners themselves, bore outward tokens in the shape of blood-stained bandages to indicate the battle in which they had figured.

Mrs. Giugria, who it is alleged, was struck by a bottle wielded by Lombardo, was in too serious a condition to appear, and the prisoners who were represented by Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C., were remanded for a week without pleading or electing. Bail was not asked for.

PRISONERS STARTED TROUBLE

The story of the fracas as told by one of those who had been an unwilling participants,w ent to show that the two prisoners commenced the row. All were in bed at the time, and it is alleged that Lombardo flung a challange at the two Buzzutis. Following an interchange of threats and violent language, a rush was made for a pickaxe handle, and anything else which would serve for a weapon.

According to the police, bottles and razors were used indiscriminately and as a result both the Bruzzuti brothers were badly gashed about the face aod neck. At St. Michael's hospital where five of the injured were rushed, a piece of steel six inches long was removed from Michele Bruzzuti's scalp.

It is said that Lambardo, who is alleged to have been the aggressor throughout, rushed at Mrs. Giugria the landlady of the premises and struck her several times with a bottle.

WOMAN IN SERIOUS CONDITION.

The woman fell to the floor, and as she is in a delicate state of health, the outcome may be serious.

Detectives Strohm and Older, who were apprised of the fracas by the woman's husband, hurried to the scene and were just in time to arrest Lombardo as he was making his way from the house.

Entering the room where the affair had taken place the officers were confronted by a veritable shambles. Blood was everywhere, and razors and broken bottles were scattered all round the floor. Under the bed they unearthed Caramela, who had been wounded about the neck and face.

All the injured were taken to the hospital, including the prisoners. The latter were removed in police custory this morning.

The statement that the melee occurred over the celebrating of a saint day is denied by prominent Italians. All the participants are said to be related to one another.

AIR FLEET FOR BRITAIN

New York, Sept. 23.—A London cable says: Great Britain is to have an air fleet as a result of the recent grand manoeuvres in East Anglia, which will put this new arm of service on a par with that of the other greatpowers.

The war office authorities are so impressed with the necessity that a great fleet of fighting war planes will be organized immediately. It will comprise two types of machines, one armed with quick-firing guns for engaging and destroying the enemy's aeroplanes, while the other will be designed for scouting.

Exhaustive tests of the gun carrying war plane will be made by the Royal Flying Corps. The craft is to carry the pilot in front and the propellor at the rear. The machine will be the most powerful built, capable of carrying three air men and traveling eighty miles an hour in calm weather.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario Manager, 65 Cecil street, Toronto D-6 in J4

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, [illegible] full doses, [illegible], and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at [illegible] a bottle, that would bring us a bigger profit than Nugent's [illegible] Sarsaparilla [illegible] purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. FLAX WEAVING IS ANCIENT.

And the Process Has Improved but Little in Forty Centuries.

Flax weaving, according to a recent authority, is 4,000 years old as an industry. Egypt was the first country to raise flax. All fine table linen is made from water spun flax, as water is essential to its manufacture. Vapor has been tried, but unsuccessfully. The process of manufacture has improved but little in 4,000 years, the linen made by the Egyptians being often found in an excellent state of preservation, wrapped about the bodies of mummies.

There is no grass bleached linen today, as grass bleaching is too slow a process. Chemicals are used to shorten the work.

Very little flax is raised in the United States because the air contains too little moisture. The finest lawns and handkerchiefs are made in Ireland, and the Scotch linens wear perhaps better than any. Straight line patterns do not wear as well as figures with rounded edges.

In single thread damask the same number of threads run each way. In double thread damask there is double the number of threads in the weft, which doubles the wear.—New York Post.

ARE WATCHING TICKS.

British Columbia Insect Is Under Careful Expert Scrutiny.

In reference to the reported statement of J. W. Cockle of Kaslo, B.C., to the effect that the woodticks which abound in British Columbia carry germs which cause spinal meningitis and beri-beri, and that the bite of these insects is sometimes fatal, which statement has caused considerable alarm in British Columbia, Dr. C. Gordon Hewitt, Dominion entomologist, states:

"While I do not know what statement Mr. Cockle made, I can most emphatically state that the woodticks have not been shown to have any relation to either spinal meningitis or the tropical disease of beri-beri. The real facts are as follows: For some time the division of entomology has been investigating the distribution and habits of the Rocky Mountain spotted fever tick. Mr. Cockle has kindly sent, at my request, specimens of woodticks which I have identified as this species. Specimens of the same species have also been sent to me from other districts in British Columbia.

"This tick has been shown to be the carrier of the organism or germ which causes the disease known as Rocky Mountain spotted fever, prevalent in certain regions of Montana and Idaho, from 5 to 70 per cent. of the cases proving fatal, according to the locality.

"So far as I have been able to discover, no certain case of this disease has been reported in Canada, but the possibility of its introduction or discovery at any time made it desirable that the distribution and habits of this germ-bearing tick should be investigated, and such an investigation is now being carried on.

"I am anxious to have reports from any medical men of cases of diseases which they suspect of being traceable to the bites of ticks, and also specimens of woodticks, under which term several species are included."

Turtles and Their Eggs.

Turtles which weigh more than 150 pounds are not in demand, as the flesh becomes coarse with age. But these reptiles grow to 800 pounds and measure seven feet in length.

The eggs of the green turtle, a great delicacy, are generally deposited in the sand in nests of sixty. If not found by man or eaten by rats or birds they are hatched out by the heat of the sun in about eight or nine weeks, and the young turtles at once make for the sea, where many of them fall victims to crabs or other fish.

"No," replied the hard luck angler; "it isn't at all natural."

"No?"

"No; the lines are too catchy."

Motherly Advice.

"My dear, you mustn't be so sharp with strange young men. You know you may give them a wrong impression."

"What's the matter now, mother?"

"You scarcely spoke a word to that young man you were introduced to last evening."

"I didn't like his way, mother."

"Did you know him?"

"No; I'd never met him before."

"Do you know anything about him?"

"Nothing, except that he seemed to me to be very impertinent."

"Still, you shouldn't have snubbed him, at least until you had learned more about him. Once I snubbed a young man that way without knowing who he was, and I regretted it ever after, because I found out later that he was very rich. I might have married him if I had been more careful."—Detroit Free Press.

Why Bruises Become Black and Blue.

The color of blood is due chiefly to iron in the little blood cells. When the iron is kept in these little blood cells, which are living and traveling around in the blood vessels, the color is red. Hit the skin hard enough to break some of the little blood vessels beneath the surface and the little red cells escape from the injured blood vessels, wander about for awhile in the tissues and die. When they die the iron that made them red before then changes to black and blue coloring. After awhile this iron is taken up by the glands called the lymphatics and made over again into nice red cells. The iron is taken up very much more quickly by the lymphatics if the black and blue spot is rubbed and massaged.—St. Nicholas.

EDITORIAL NOTES

If the English suffragists are officially barred from Canada, they will probably come disguised with Bramwell Booth's army of widows.

The town of Orillia has raised its assessment rate three mills on the dollar for the ensuing year. This is to meet an extra expenditure of $15,000.

While many people in Peterborough read that beef on the hoof has been advanced in price, they will be cheered by the thought that prunes will still be obtainable at usual prices.

Strangers in the city will soon be able to look up and down our main thoroughfare without seeing a forest of poles which look somewhat like palm trees bearing cross arms instead of leaves and insulators instead of coconuts.

Judgment has been reserved by the Kingston magistrate on a man of Bell Rock who was found with a quantity of whiskey in that local option district. The accused claimed the whiskey was for horse liniment.

Millbrook Reporter very properly calls attention to the omission of the National Anthem at the close of concerts held in that village. The attention of Cavan residents is particularly called to this breach of precedent and proper loyalty.

Bobcaygeon Independent: Peterborough had a large attendance at their show last week. The success is largely due to the advertising and to President Garbutt, and his energetic directors. There is nothing like advertising to assure success.

At Sturgeon Falls Sir Wilfrid didn't talk reciprocity, but "wider markets." After Taft's and Roosevelt's recent utterances on the subject of reciprocity somehow the phrase "wider markets is safer and more euphonious on this side of the border.

An arbitration treaty is accepted by the United States as a guarantee that anything that the United States claims and Britain possesses can be exposed to the hazards of arbitration, while anything that the United States possesses and Britain claims can be excluded from the scope of an arbitration treaty.

Evidently the aeroplane as an instrument of war has arrived. English aviators dropped bombs into the funnels of battleships from an altitude of a thousand feet, and the British army maneuvers had to be suddenly stopped because of the perfect scouting of the airmen. In future wars the aerial corps will be one of the most important branches of the military and naval services.

When one sees the big crowd at Lakefield and Millbrook fairs it raises the question "Why?" could not Peterborough, with its own Fair grounds and suitable buildings accommodate all those who attend these little concerns. Of course there are those who go to such fairs on the principle conveyed in the song "Come to the huskin' bee": they go to get a scent of country air and environments. Still this is a utilitarian age, and the bigger show would please the bigger crowd.

Last week the Globe told of one grain-grower in Saskatchewan who is cultivating no less than nineteen square miles of land with the aid of a few men and a good many gasoline power outfits. He can seed down 320 acres a day, and three of his gasoline tractors operate 18 binders and cut a swath of 144 feet wide. All will admire the enterprise of this successful western grain-grower, but many of us will wonder, with the Globe, as to what will become of the men displaced by this machinery. After all, the day of such big farms is not to be viewed without apprehension. The country wants men even more than it wants grain.

AS TO MEXICO.

There are several classes of people who are anxious for armed intervention in Mexico by their government. They are the Americans in Mexico who are in trouble or danger, the interests of that country which have money invested in mines and other enterprises in Mexico, and those who believe that intervention, with the attendant war enthusiasm, would help President Taft's chances for re-election. From some of these sources there has undoubtedly been much pressure on the President in the last few months, and attempts to magnify in the public mind the seriousness of the situation along the south-western border.

IS CANADA TRUST RIDDEN?

The London Daily News does not hesitate to declare that Canada is trust ridden. We are in the habit of referring to our manifold advantages over our southern neighbor, and boasting of the fact that we are not trust ridden as the people of the Republic are. The question is, are we?

The comment of The Daily News is pretty nearly correct. We have fruit combines which raise the price of fruit so high that it taxes the poorer of us unduly to gaze in the fruit store windows at certain seasons of the year. We have coal trusts, beef trusts, lumber trusts and something that looks very much like flour trusts and combines in pretty nearly everything that is bought or sold.

It is true that these trusts or combines are not as rich financially, or strong politically, as they are across the line. That is not surprising. But they are quite strong enough both commercially and politically.

Unfortunately The Daily News is not so far from the truth when it describes the country as trust ridden.

If you have any stomach distress at all you will certainly be interested in the following experience, which is told by Mr. Edward Dawkins:

"When I was working around the farm last winter I had an attack of inflammation," writes Mr. E. P. Dawkins, of Port Richmond. "I was weak for a long time, but well enough to work until spring. But something went wrong with my bowels, for I had to use salts or physic all the time. My stomach kept sour, and always after eating there was pain and fulness, and all the symptoms of intestinal indigestion. Nothing helped me until I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Instead of hurting, like other pills, they acted very mildly, and seemed to heal the bowels. I did not require large doses to get results with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and feel so glad that I have found a mild yet certain remedy. To-day I am well—no pain, no sour stomach, a good appetite, able to digest anything. This is a whole lot of good for one medicine to do, and I can say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the best pills, and my letter, I am sure, proves it."

SCHOOL NOT CLOSED.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I noticed in The Times a few days ago a well written letter from Mr. Percival G. S. Webb, in which he stated that the action of the Roman ratepayers of Otonabee put the Public School, known as No. 8, Otonabee, out of business. This is not the case, as the school is running along as usual, paying the same salary as it always paid to its teacher, who, needless to say, is a Protestant No doubt there are a few who had hoped to have forced the school to close its doors, but they are doomed to disappointment.

In conclusion, let me say that the Protestant ratepayers of this section are quite satisfied to pay the extra expense which the withdrawal of Roman children from the public school involves, knowing that they are now free from any danger of religious apostacy.

ADVOCATES PURCHASE OF FAIR GROUNDS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The citizens of Peterborough have shown conclusively by their attendance at the recent Fair that they not only want, but demand a bigger and better Fair. It is an open secret that comparatively few farmers attended the exhibition, the thousands present were, in a large majority people of this city. Without any disparagement to the local Fair there is no denying that the present exhibition building is a disgrace to a city of the population and progress of Peterborough. The exhibition directors have a five years' option on the 30 acres, one year of which has expired. I understand that the price of the option costs the directors a trifling rate of interest. I would suggest, nay, I would urge, that the city fathers submit a by-law to the people to secure these grounds for the city. As I understand conditions, nothing in addition for four years yet, i.e., until previous to expiration of the present option. The purchase of these grounds contains more than appears on the surface. There are farms of this county who own valuable horses and cattle who hesitate to exhibit such animals in the present ramshackle sheds. Again, the old shed yclept an "Exhibition Building" is enough to scare off people from showing valuable exhibits. Even if such be shown the surroundings are enough to damn them. There are five gentlemen connected with the local Fair who would quickly relieve the directorate of their option. They could easily cut the northern ten acres into building lots and dispose of them at a price that would give the purchasers the remaining twenty acres gratis. I am aware that my proposal may, and probably will be decried by certain people interested in selling property for exhibition purposes, further to the south, for financial and selfish reasons. My idea is to have a Peterborough Fair with grounds and buildings that will result in bringing to this city thousands of exhibitors and patrons who now go to some of the surrounding villages.

FALL ASSIZES OPENS

The following members of the bar were present: Mr. N. F. Davidson, K.C., Toronto, brother of Canon Davidson of this city, Mr. D. O'Connel, Mr. S. T. Medd, Mr. J. H. Burnham and Crown Attorney Wood.

After being out one hour and thirty minutes the Grand Jury returned a true bill against Edward Leal.

Prisoner entered a plea of not guilty and was represented in court by Mr. D. O'Connel. The Crown counsel, acting for the prosecution is Mr. F. N. Davidson, K.C., of Toronto

After the evidence was all in, His Worship in his address, said the five charges justified the Crown in asking for a commitment. The case had been very ably presented to the jury. Leal and his wife had been quarreling and used language improper to use to a woman, let alone a wife. Why did he shoot that gun off? There could be no denying of the shooting. Both the plumbers swore they heard the woman ask the man not to load the gun. Why did she say this? "If you find, I direct you as a matter of law, that the prisoner fired at the woman, it was attempted murder. If you think the prisoner did not intend to kill her, it does away with the first two charges. He he did not see her, but fired not knowing where she was, there was shooting with intent to do grievous bodily harm."

The jury retired at 9.15 to consider the verdict. At 10.15 the twelve good men and true sent out for the gun with which the shooting was done—a Flobert, No. 22 rifle.

Up to the time of going to press nothing could be learned of jury's deliberations.

Health and Beauty Hints

MRS. MAE MARTYN.

R. M. S.—Sallow complexion, liver-blotches, pimples and other eruptions of the skin indicate the need of good blood-tonic and liver-regulator. Dissolve one ounce of kardene in one-half-pint of alcohol, (not whiskey), add one-half cupful of sugar and enough hot water to make a full quart. Take one table-spoonful five minutes before each meal. Kardene purifies the blood, arouses the liver, clears the skin, restores lost appetite and tends to strengthen and build up the entire system.

Mrs. D.' Those ugly hairs can be quickly banished from your face with a paste made with powdered delatone and water. This paste should remain on the hairy surface two or three minutes, then rub off and wash the skin and every trace of hair has vanished. The delatone treatment never fails and leaves the skin free from spot or blemish.

Annette: The affliction of over-fatness is to be deplored at any age, but it is a positive calamity to a young and pretty woman to become too fat these days when fashion decrees the slender figure the only correct one. You can reduce your weight almost at the rate of a pound a day until you reach normal if you will dissolve four ounces of parnotis in 1½ pints of hot water and take a table-spoonful before each meal. You can buy parnotis from any first-class druggist. It is a harmless, fat-dissolver, and those who take it marvel at its wonderful effect. It makes one look and feel younger brighter, more buoyant and energetic.

Fannie R.: To be sure a face-lotion is far better than face powder, but you will have to be careful what you use as most "liquid face powders" contain injurious ingredients that are likely to ruin your complexion. Try this inexpensive one which is all right: Dissolve four ounces of spurmax in a half-pint of witch hazel or hot water and add two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Rub this on your face, neck and arms, and it will give your skin a very pleasing, delicate tone. This lotion does not show or rub off like powder and will remove that shiny, sallow look from your skin. This preparation is a wonderful skin-beautifier and I find it excellent for rough, red or sallow skins, freckles and skin-pimples.

Mrs. David O.: The only reason why many hair and scalp-specialists advise against frequent shampooing is the danger that comes through the use of soap and inferior shampoos which contain "free" alkali or other ingredients injurious to the hair. If your hair is thin, very dry or oily and looks so dull, "stringy" and unkempt a few days after shampooing, try cleansing with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water, then rinsing thoroughly with clear water. You can use this shampoo as often as you like, as it will benefit your hair and scalp wonderfully. It will relieve that itching sensation and make your hair beautiful, fluffy and appear twice as thick. This shampao dries quickly without any danger of streaking or discoloration.

Miss H. L.: If you only knew what was in the cheap, greasy cold creams you have been smearing on your face, you would never use them again, as they are really harmful. Never use anything but a greaseless cream if you don't want hair on your face. At a small expense you can prepare an excellent complexion cream-jelly by stirring together and allowing to stand over night two teaspoonfuls glycerine, one ounce almozoin and one-half pint cold water. Use this regularly and it will clear up your complexion wonderfully by removing all dirt and oil. It will also remove quickly those blackheads and other effects of hot weather such as freckles, tan and roughness of the skin of which you speak. This is the only reliable cream I have ever found for removing wrinkles without leaving the skin rough and flabby after massaging and for reducing the size of large, dirt-collecting pores.

Victoria: Your scalp needs a good stimulating quinine hair-tonic to remove the dandruff, stop irritation and falling hair. Get from any drug stare one-half pint alcohol (not whiskey) and one ounce quinzon and mix it with one-half pint water and you will have a much better tonic than any of those ready-prepared tonics you have been buying. Brush you hair daily and twice a week apply this tonic to the scalp, rubbing it in gently. This will do wonders for your dull, lifeless, falling hair, and put your scalp in a healthy condition. This tonic will make your hair soft, silky and lustrous. Keep the scalp clean by frequent shampoos with canthrox and you will not have further trouble with your hair.

Enid S.: Your headaches and generally despondent feeling very likely come from your weak, inflamed eyes. You should attend to the matter immediately or you may have to wear glasses permanently. Get an ounce of crytos and dissolve it in a pint of water. Put a few drops in each eye two or three times a day and I am sure it will strengthen your eyes wonderfully and remove your eye troubles generally. I find this a splendid remedy. It does not smart the eyes and is fine for dull, tired eyes, sore eyes that have that overworked feeling.

Children's Books In Olden Times.

The earliest books for children were schoolbooks pure and simple. The titles of some of them suggest entertainment and refreshment, but the arid pages belie the promise. For instance, an old Latin grammar, published in 1570, had for sub-title, "A delycious Syrupe newly Clarified for Yonge Scholars yt thurste for the Swete Lycore of Latin Speche," but the "Lycore" is a very turgid, confused flow of pedantry. A different style is suggested by the name of another schoolbook written by one Elisha Coles in 1675, "Nolens Volens, or you shall learn Latin whether you will or no," a title which suggest a vigorous application of the birch.

ADVERTISE in The TIMES

The Judge and "Barmaids Blush."

Judicial ignorance is generally assumed, but there are occasions when a judge is honestly lacking in knowledge. The other day a witness in an Australian court casually mentioned that a certain thing occurred just after he had a "barmaid's blush." Judge and counsel were for the moment "stuck up" by this hitherto unheard of phrase, but the fact was gradually elicited that it meant a drink compounded of beer and raspberry vinegar.—London Chronicle.

Ladies' Orchestra.

"The English Ladies' Orchestral Society is a full band of women only, consisting of wood, wind, and brass instruments, as well as strings. It plays for charities, and has handed to them considerably over $10,000 since its foundation in 1893. It is an amateur society."

Handicapped.

"Ah tell yo'," said the negro who was working on the man's shoes, "woman is a peculiah thing. Yo' gotta know just how to handle huh or yo' goin' to git the worst uf it. Lots of times she'll git mad at yo' an' then yo' gotta talk to huh. Talk to huh—that's the way to mastah huh. She won't stand fo' no beatin' or nothin' lak that. Talk to huh. That's the way Ah handle ma wife."

Another negro working next to him looked up. "Whah did yo' git that black eye yo' got, Rufe?" he asked.

"Well, ma wife done it, but"—

"Why didn't yo' talk to huh?"

"How could Ah?" came from the first. "She had me by the throat wif ma wind shut off."—New York Telegraph.

He Is "Shod With Silence" and Is as Quick as Lightning.

Most wild animals are specialists—that is to say, they are highly developed in one particular direction. The tiger is great as a stalker. His feet seem to be "shod with silence." R. H. Elliott, for many years a resident of India, cited an experience of one of his neighbors illustrative of this point.

He had been much annoyed by tigers and at last tied a bullock out in a clearing and took up his own position in a tree to wait till the tiger should come after the bait. The ground was covered with dried leaves, which in hot weather are so brittle that even the walking of a bird over them can be heard for a good distance.

In no very long time a large tiger slipped out of the forest and slowly edged toward the bullock. His method was so elaborate and careful that the man who saw it used to declare that it would have been worth 1,000 rupees to any young sportsman to have witnessed it.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Sept. 21.—The foreign demand for wheat was much quieter, and the prices bid were away out of line. The local oat situation is very strong, owing to the increasing scarcity, as fully 75 per cent. of the stock in store is held for export account, of which there is about 150,000 American. The local demand is good, and there is still a good enquiry from European sources for supplies. Demand for flour is good and prices are steady. EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hull up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or to-morrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

NELSON'S PERPETUAL LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia and Research Bureau is approved, adopted and used in the—

Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia is used in all parts of the civilized world. Also by the King of England, Premier of Canada, Premier of Ontario, Mikado of Japan, and State Departments throughout the world.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—

"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not up-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—

"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wyer, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Literary and Scientific Institute writes:—

"The name of 'Nelson,' and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia.

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

COLORS OF BUOYS

Spell the Same Words of Warning In All Our Waters.

DAY GUIDES FOR MARINERS.

The Simple Code That Governs These Valuable Aids to Navigation—How the Whistling Buoy and Bell Buoy Fog Signals Are Operated.

As everybody knows, there are black buoys and red buoys, buoys with horizontal black and red stripes, buoys with black and white vertical stripes, not to speak of bell buoys and the much larger buoys that lie well out at sea and are called "mammoth buoys."

Each of these aids to navigation has, of course, its own particular meaning. The place that each occupies is carefully chosen for it, and its arrangement is governed by a careful system.

Buoys are called "day marks," in contradistinction to the "night marks"—the lights and beacons.

For the purposes of the lighthouse board the coasts of the United States, including the lakes and navigable rivers, are divided into various districts, each district being under the charge of an officer who sees that all buoys in his district are properly cared for.

For obvious reasons similar buoys in all districts mean the same thing. In other words, a buoy of a particular distinguishing color off the coast of Maine carries the same significance that a buoy of that same color has off the coast of Florida. So the mariner who enters the New England port is guided and directed in precisely the same way as the mariner who enters a southern port, and the same is true of all other parts of the country.

The government publishes coast charts showing the colors and positions of the buoys. The lighthouse board publishes, in addition, a yearly list, distributed gratis for the benefit of navigation, in which each one of the thousands of buoys is located and described.

The passenger standing at the rail of the liner coming in from sea will probably first notice a "mammoth buoy." These buoys are used only in special cases—as, for example, to mark the approaches to channels over bars or shoals that lie some distance from the coast.

Red and black buoys designate the channel. They lie on either side. The red buoys, which have even numbers, must be left on the starboard or right hand in passing in from sea. The black buoys, always with odd numbers, must be left on the port hand.

When there are two or more channels these are distinguished by a difference either in the size or in the shape of the buoys.

An isolated rock, wreck or any obstruction that has a channel on either side of it is shown by a buoy with red and black horizontal stripes.

Buoys showing white and black perpendicular stripes and lying in midchannel indicate that they must be passed close to avoid danger.

As an indication that there is a turning point in the channel we see buoys surmounted by triangles, cages, etc.

There are buoys which are also fog signals, such as the bell buoy and the whistling buoy. The latter is used off the coast to show dangerous outlying shoals or other obstructions. It is surmounted by a locomotive whistle made to sound by the rushing through it of air admitted and compressed by the rising and falling motion of the buoy itself. It has been found that these buoys are particularly adapted to turbulent waters, inasmuch as the more violent the sea is the louder the sound given out by the buoy. The whistling buoy, a most unpleasant neighbor, may be heard a at distance of about ten miles. Under very favorable conditions it has been heard fifteen miles.

The bell buoy consists of the bottom section of a buoy floating in the water on which is mounted a framework bearing a bell which, instead of the ordinary tongue and clapper, shows a small cannon ball supported on a platform just beneath the bell's mouth. This ball rolls to and fro with every motion of the sea.

Bell buoys are employed in harbors and rivers where the water is smoother than in the roadsteads and where it is not necessary that their sound shall be heard a great distance.

The ordinary buoy, not of the whistling or the bell variety, is made either of wood or of iron. Those of iron are hollow with air tight compartments and are of three shapes, called respectively nun, can and ice buoys. The nun buoy is almost conical in shape, the can buoy approaches the cylindrical form, and the ice buoy is very long and narrow, somewhat resembling the spar buoy in form.

The wooden or spar buoys are sticks ranging in length from twelve to sixty feet and painted according to the uses to which they are to be put. The lower end is fitted for a mooring chain.

Buoys have many vicissitudes and are exposed to many dangers. Passing steamers run down the iron buoys and rip them open or cut off big pieces of spar buoys with their sharp propeller blades. As the iron buoys are made in compartments, they are seldom sunk by such collisions, but their line of flotation is often so lowered that they have to be replaced.—Harper's Weekly

SHE'S CHANGED.

Though Dorothy's put up her hair
  That late was hanging down her back,
She still is young, and she is fair—
  She not a single charm doth lack—
But now there's distance in her eye
  And introspection in her smile.
I look at Dorothy and sigh,
  And then I muse a little while.

Here was a careless, happy child
  Who romped and laughed so frank and free.
She ran, she climbed in pleasure wild.
  She'd even come caressing me.
Her wind blown curls then swept her cheeks,
  Where tan—ah, that's the proper wear!—
Would show in long vacation weeks.
  Now Dorothy's put up her hair!

That is a sign to one and all
  That Dorothy's a woman grown.
On her sweet youth I vainly call,
  And, sitting here, I now make moan.
I'm pushed aside—I'm old, forsooth.
  My leaping heart's not old, I swear!
But now will come some conquering youth
  Since Dorothy's put up her hair!

'Tis an Ill Wind—

The western farmer with all his interests devoted to grain-raising very often is able to boast bigger crop returns to his old neighbors in the east who have continued to follow the rule of farming that gives live stock raising, fruit-growing, dairying and crop-growing each a place, but occasionally disaster visits his part of the prairie, and he is forced to look east for relief. This spring, when many western farmers found themselves with thousands of bushels of frozen wheat on their hands, the folly of "carrying all their eggs in one basket" must have struck them forcibly, if not painfully. The damaged grain could only be used in one way at a profit. An Ontario farmer, who owns farms both east and west, was one of a number to appreciate the situation. He had the manager of his eastern farm buy up several hundred hogs from the Barrie district and ship them to the prairie to convert the frozen wheat in high priced pork. Why did he not ship the wheat east? The reason is plain. There are so few mixed farmers in the west that the Winnipeg market maintains the highest price for hogs in the Dominion.

For Summer Frocks.

Lingerie collars when made of fine lace and linen are expensive luxuries of the wardrobe, but if one has the least knack about putting materials together a smart collar may be easily made by the amateur seamstress. The sailor collar illustrated is of fine handkerchief linen and cluny lace.

SAILOR COLLAR OF LACE AND LINEN.

Do It Now!.

"Have you forgotten that $10 you borrowed of me some time ago?"

"Oh, no; I still have it in mind."

"Well, don't you think this would be a good time to relieve your mind?"

Kitchenettes.

To open a stubborn fruit jar invert the top of the jar in hot water (boiling hot, but not boiling), taking care that the water is not deep enough to touch the glass. The principle is to expand the metal top. Then open as usual. A minute or two is sufficient. Should it remain too long the glass would also be expanded.

Do not throw away vinegar in which homemade cucumber pickles have been preserved. Keep it and use it in salad dressing instead of the ordinary vinegar. The flavor is delicious and one that cannot be gained in any other way.

To use sour milk for griddlecakes never add baking powder, but instead an even teaspoonful of baking soda to each cup of milk.

Potato balls which are salted in butter after being boiled are delicious. They should be served with a generous sprinkling of minced parsley.

Stale macaroons, which can be bought cheap at the baker's, make the most delicious addition to pudding and custards if pulverized and sprinkled over the top.

WEALTHY CHINESE IN SLAVE TRAFFIC

Cleveland Police Make Raid On Alleged Clearinghouse.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—An after-midnight raid on a Prospect avenue house, constituting a portion of police war against the alleged white slave "clearinghouse" here, resulted in the arrest of Ida Phelllips, early this morning on a white slavery charge. Blanche Vernon, an eighteen-year-old girl, is held as a witness. Two other women escaped by jumping from upper story windows.

The police say they have discovered a wealthy Chinese of Cleveland and Pittsburg to be at the head of an organized clique which is working in the interest of the white slave trade. They say, too, that a Cleveland banker is implicated in the ring.

FELINE WHISKERS.

Delicate Sensitive Hairs That Record the Slightest Touch

We are apt to think that the cat's ability to see in the dark is due entirely to its eyes, but competent authority assures us that the feline's power in this respect is due almost as much to its "whiskers."

These delicate hairs that project from the muzzle of the cat family are wonderful mechanisms. Each one grows from a follicle, or gland, nerved to the utmost sensibility. Its slightest contact with any obstacle is instantly felt by the animal, though the hair itself may be tough and insensible. The exaggerated whiskers on the muzzle often project to such a distance that from point to point they indicate the exact width of the body of the beast.

Consider the lion stealing through the jungle at night in search of prey, when the least stir of a twig gives alarm. The lion's whiskers indicate, through the nicest nerves, any object that may be in his path. A touch stops him short before pushing through some close thicket where the rustling leaves and boughs would betray his presence. Wherever his head may be thrust without a warning from the vibrissae there his body may pass noiselessly. It is the aid given him by his whiskers, in conjunction with the soft cushions of his feet, that enables him to proceed as silently as a snake.—Harper's Weekly.

A MAGIC MIRROR.

Experiments With the Moon and Stars and a Hand Glass.

A pretty experiment can be made with a hand mirror any night when there is a full moon. Hold the mirror so that the moon's image will be seen in it and you will be surprised to see four moons instead of one. One moon will be very bright, but the other three will be in a straight line and quite dull, one dull image on the side of the bright moon and the other two on the other side. Turn the mirror round slowly, still holding its face to the moon, and the reflections will seem to revolve round a common center.

You can make the same experiment with one of the very bright stars, such as Sirius, Venus or Jupiter, but with these there will be three images instead of four, as the number seen depends on the breadth of the object. The explanation is quite simple. There are two surfaces in the mirror, one in front and the other where the quicksilver is. The brightest reflection comes from the object itself, the others are what are known as secondary images reflected from the front to the back of the mirror and thence to the eye. The magic mirror never fails to excite a good deal of wonder, and is an interesting experiment as well.—London Chronicle.

Lovely Landscape.

George IV. on one occasion casually entered a private apartment at Windsor castle and encountered, somewhat to his surprise, his valet, who was seated at a table loaded with viands and eating with great avidity.

"Ah!" exclaimed the king. "I was always fond of scenery, and here is a lovely piece of landscape spread out before me."

The valet smiled feebly, but politely intimated that he did not understand the king's allusion to landscape and scenery.

"Why," replied the first gentleman of Europe, "do I not see before me a smiling valet with a magnificent gorge?"

The valet thereupon rose and retired, excusing himself to the king on the ground that he had turned suddenly "hill."—London Tit-Bits.

Dublin Book Pirates.

Dublin is rich in literary associations and during the eighteenth century was a busy publishing center. Some of its enterprises, however, were not of a very reputable kind. Ireland was then outside the copyright laws and English books were "pirated" in Dublin as freely as afterward in America. Some Dublin publishers are said to have kept spies in the London printing houses and by this means were able to issue "pirated" editions of important books coincidently with and sometimes even before the appearance of the authentic issue.—London Chronicle.

Defining a Fathom.

"A fathom," explained a schoolteacher to her class in mathematics, "is a nautical word used in defining distance. It means six feet. Now, I want some little girl to give me a sentence using the word 'fathom.'" Instantly a hand shot up. "Well, Mary, you may give your sentence." Mary stood up proudly. "The reason flies can walk on the ceiling," said the observant child, "is because they have a fathom!"

Tact.

Hostess (after presenting fan to prize winner at whist drive)—Really, I'm afraid it's hardly worth accepting. Winner (appraising its worth)—Oh, thank you so much! It's just the kind of fan I wanted—one that I shouldn't mind losing.—London Punch.

Black and White China Vogue.

Along with the vogue of blue and white draperies and garden furniture has come the fashion for using blue and white china. For breakfast the chatelaines of country homes are using plates, cups, saucers, toast racks, porridge bowls, salts and peppers of German porcelain decorated in delft designs, and one easily carried outfit for serving breakfast in the bedroom consists of a round tray supporting a toast rack and flanked by depressions for milk, salt and pepper.

Afternoon tea sets of blue and white Japanese china are in dragon pattern. These sets, which may as well be used for breakfast as for luncheon, consist of plates in one size, cups and saucers, a sugar bowl, cream pitcher, teapot, chocolate pot, bowl for nuts or fruit and accompanying dishes, a pair of cake plates and a square shaped, good sized clock to warn loitering guests of time's flight.

A Minus Quantity.

Editor—I wish you had asked the distinguished visitor how our street car manners impressed him.

Reporter—I did, sir, and he replied that he hadn't seen any manners on our street cars.—Boston Transcript.

BATTLE OF MARATHON.

The Most Decisive Day in the History of the World.

The single day in the world's history which was fraught with the most tremendous consequences to mankind was the day on which the battle of Marathon was fought. The handful of tiny states that inhabited Greece had developed faculties which indicated that man had advanced another stage toward the highest ideals.

Foremost among those little nations was Athens, which state, too, contained the germs of human freedom. It was the forerunner of the democracies of the world. But the very existence of Athens and Greece was threatened by the huge barbaric empire of Persia. Darius had sent out his hordes of warriors to add the Grecian states to his vast dominions. Face to face his forces met the Athenians on the plains of Marathon.

Hitherto invincible in the field, the Persians looked upon the little army opposed to them with contempt. The Greeks themselves hesitated to hazard a battle with the conquerors of the world. Their generals debated the question, and the decision to fight the Persians was caused by the eloquence of the immortal Miltiades. He led his 10,000 Greeks against the Persian host and gained a decisive victory. The glorious day of Marathon beat back the advancing tide of eastern despotism and barbarism and saved the freedom and civilization of the western world.—Pearson's Weekly.

Seventeenth Century Grocers.

Department stores would have fared hard in the seventeenth century unless their proprietors could have induced parliament to grant more privileges than were allowed to other shopkeepers. The articles that a grocer might sell were definitely prescribed. They were "raysons, currants, sugar, spice, sope, candle, molasses, gunpowder, shot, match, tar, pitch, rosin, tobacco, cotton yarn, starch, bluing, prunes, figs, linseed oil, lead, olives, figs, Spanish white alabaster, alum, almonds, brimstone, lampblack and candle rushes.

No Money, No Marriage.

"A fortune teller told me that you are going to marry me," said the young man with the prominent socks.

"Did she also tell you that you are going to inherit a very large fortune?" inquired the girl with the matinee hair.

"She didn't say anything about a fortune."

"Then she is not much of a fortune teller, and you had better not place any reliance in anything she says."—Washington Herald.

Maternalism.

Kind Gentleman—What are you going to do, Johnny, when you become a man? Johnny—Nawthin'. Kind Gentleman—What? Not going to do anything? Johnny—No. Just as soon as I started something me would tell me to stop it.—Judge.

RIDDLES OF THE UNIVERSE.

A Scientist Says Science Really Knows Very Little.

I have been asked to define the word "energy." I cannot. Suppose that I should be asked, "What is the cause of light moving with the incessant specific speed of 186,283 miles during each successive second of time?" I would be utterly unable to reply. First, I cannot think of the cause of this unthinkable velocity. How answer? The fact is, science does not know what anything really is.

Electrons are the vanishing points. They are on the limit of knowledge, of even hope, of thought. All are agreed that they are electricity, but that does not help in the solution of any riddle of the universe.

It does not seem possible that science will come to an end in any attempt at explaining. Some new discovery surpassing all others may yet be made. Really, such a discovery must be made or science will come to an impenetrable wall, for we cannot at present think of mind, life or an electron. How progress or advance in search of anything if we are unable to think of it? This is a gloomy outlook, but just now it appears to be hopelessly impossible to discover any fact as to what mind, life and electricity are.

I have printed during thirty years that the human mind is illimitable in its powers, but I may be obliged to finally admit that it cannot find what itself is.—Edgar Lucien Larkin in New York American.

An Artist's Feat.

One of the most remarkable and most artistic of twenty-four hours' records stands to the credit of Sir Edwin Landseer, who had promised a picture for the spring exhibition of the Royal British institution in 1845. On the day before the opening he was found standing in front of an untouched canvas. "I shall send that to the institution tonight, a finished picture," he declared to the astonished messenger who had been sent by the hanging committee to see if the promised picture was ready, "and have consequently given orders not to be disturbed." True to his word, Landseer put the finishing touch to his canvas and dispatched it to Pall Mall that very evening, and as "The Cavalier's Pets" it was one of the greatest successes of the exhibition.

Where They Don't Use False Scales.

The name of Irkutsk, Russia, will not impress many of us, yet in that district he who is caught using false scales is deprived forever of the right to trade.

Queen Bess and Coal Fires.

Queen Elizabeth so disliked the smell of coal fires that the brewers of London decided not to use coal in their breweries near Westminster.

Japan In the Eighth Century.

As early as the eighth century a university had already been established in Japan that included such modern divisions as schools of medicine, ethics, mathematics and history, and some of the textbooks employed at that remote period dealt with materia medica and veterinary surgery, types of textbooks which appear to have been unknown in European countries until about 1,000 years later.

FRENCH TOBACCO TESTERS.

Men Who Find Smoking Anything but an Agreeable Task.

The French government's official tasters of tobacco form a category of civil servants of whose activity little is known outside their own department.

Tobacco is a state monopoly in France, and these experts are employed under the ministry of finance to report on all classes of tobacco that are permitted to be sold in France. The men are mostly superannuated inspectors of tobacco factories.

Their hours of business are from 9 to 5. As a rule, it is the lower grades of tobacco that need the most careful attention. They have to report not only on the cigars, cigarettes and pipe tobaccos put on the market by the French Tobacco Regie, but also on all imported tobacco.

Smoking when compulsory is anything but an agreeable duty, these employees say. They are in constant danger from ills caused by the excessive use of tobacco, and they combat these by taking large quantities of black coffee, which is also said to assist them to differentiate between the various kinds of tobacco on which they have to give their opinion.—Exchange.

English Money Slang.

Slang names for money offer a bewildering variety. Henley and Farmer in their slang dictionary give twenty terms for money in general, most of them, such as "coliander seeds," "oil of angels" and "king's pictures," being pretty well obsolete. The slang of specific sums is interesting. A sovereign has been known as a glistener, a goldfinch, a mouse trap, a remedy, a stranger and a new hat. The names for a shilling include blow, generalize, northeaster, Manchester sovereign and peg. A sixpence, now called in slang little else than a tanner, has been a tester, a tizzy, a lord of the manor, a bender and a cripple.—London Standard.

Liquid Cough Mixtures Can't Cure Bronchitis

But the Healing Fumes of Catarrhozone, Which are Breathed to the Furthest Recesses of the Bronchial Tubes, Being Quick Relief and Sure Cure.

Every sufferer from coughs, colds, bronchitis and all throat and chest ailments needs a soothing, healing medicine which goes direct to the breathing organs in the chest and lungs, attacks the trouble at the source, disperses the germs of disease, and cures the ailment thoroughly. And this medicine is "Catarrhozone."

The germ-killing balsamic vapor mixes with the breath, descends through the throat, down the bronchial tubes, and finally reaches the deepest air cells in the lungs. All parts are soothed with rich, pure, medicinal essences, whereas, with a syrup the affected parts could not be reached, and harm would result through benumbing the stomach with drugs.

"I have been a chronic sufferer from Catarrh in the nose and throat for over eight years. I think I have spent four hundred dollars trying to get relief. I have spent but six dollars on Catarrhozone, and have been completely cured, and, in fact, have been well for some time. Catarrhozone is the only medicine I have been able to find that would not only given temporary relief, but will always cure permanently.

Yours sincerely (Signed), WILLIAM RAGAN, Brockville, Ont."

For absolute, permanent cure, use Catarrhozone. Two months' outfit costs $1.00; smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A Barber's Wise Rooster.

A barber living on Union street, has a rooster which must have a well developed bump of caution. Under the shed floor this wise young bird crows and crows all day long while the older cocks strut round the yard vowing vengeance.

A Huge Edible Fungus.

On Sunday afternoon as Mr. Sam. The fungus he found, while closely resembling the edible mushroom, proved to be an edible puff-ball. This fungus growth which is fully 18 inches in circumference was taken into Matthews' pork shop, corner Brock and George streets, yesterday and weighed. It turned the scales at two pounds three ounces. The finders look forward to a banquet fit for any epicurian.

The gymnasium classes of the Y.M.C.A. opened last night with a good attendance.

A special train will be run from Lindsay on October 1st for those coming here to listen the sophistries of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

The Hotel St. Lawrence at Port Hope, has been purchased by Mr. Spellman, of Hastings, and he will take possession next week.

One of the first guns fired in the Lindsay Local Option campaign was fired Sunday evening, when Rev. Dr. Shorey delivered a sermon on that subject.

Special session of the police court were required in Lindsay to attend to the drunks in that burg last Friday. That Scugog river should be filtered.

Lindsay Fair was invaded by pickpockets and many of the Fair visitors "touched." The Fair directors should have had an appropriation from a dry nurse in attendance to guide the guileless townsmen.

Mr. James McGrath, 141 Hazlett street, will try another ascent in his glider next Saturday, when he has the machine fully tightened up.

The Laurier meeting will be held on October 1st, in the Brock street rink. This roller rink is a great place for sliding and recalls a landslide of about a year ago.

Pretty fair weather here yesterday in view of the Equinox.

The water in Stoney Lake to-day is 5 feet 8 inches deep on the sills at Young's Point. A year ago today it was 4 feet 2½ inches.

FORMER TIMES EMPLOYE NOW HOLDS COMMISSION

Lieut. Arnott, of the Strathcona Horse, is revisiting Peterborough. This young man certainly deserves a small niche in the pillar to be erected to Canadian boys who have made good through brains and enterprise. As little Titus L. Arnott, when a small boy peddled The Times through the streets of Peterborough, few would or could have prophesied that he would later on hold a commission in the "regulars" of Canada. Still to such a height has this young man's ambition and enterprise carried him.

As a boy Mr. Arnott entered the Collegiate Institute Cadets. Here the military fever caught him. He then, at great sacrifice, attended the Royal Military College at Kingston. As a result Mr. Arnott now holds the responsible position of lieutenant in the Strathcona Horse at Winnipeg with good chances for early promotion to a captaincy. Lieut. Arnott is the guest of his parents at 575 Bethune street.

MUSIC & DRAMA

THE CONSERVATIVE ENGLISH BARS AND BARMAIDS.

The average Englishman believes that what was good for his grandfather is good enough for him, and we find ample proof in this in many ways—the old coinage, the ancient methods of weights and measures, the horse tramcars which still may be found flourishing even in some parts of London City, and one shibboleth he does believe in is the pretty server of drinks in bars. From end to end of England one seldom sees any other man than the owner himself behind the bar, all bartenders there are smartly dressed and attractive young women. Therefore Peterborough playgoers, this week will not be surprised to find the one of the chief characters in the new and up-to-date musical comedy, THE NEW BARMAID, with Manager Judge is offering us, is a bright and attractive girl who dispenses the liquors at the Owlett's Bohemian Club where the first act of the play is laid. THE NEW BARMAID is said to hold the record for continuous run in musical comedy, and ever Alexander Loftus produced it at the Avenue Theatre, London, W., he has been closely associated with the play — in every part of Great Britain, in Australasia, and in South Africa. This will be its first visit to North America and Mr. Loftus is bringing us an "All-English" company direct from London City per Allan Liner "Sicilian."

This "All-English" company is exceptionally strong and includes Misses Edne Mollon, Lilie Leslie, Beatrice Curroe, Claire Townshend, Beatrice Lane, Phyllis Park, etc.; Messrs. Vincent Erne, Arthur Geary, James Wilson, R. N. Cory, Stephen Stevens, Arthur Loman, Richard Freeman, Reginald Thomas, Travers Thorpe, and Alexander Loftus himself in his original role of "Bertie White," supported by a chorus of twenty pretty English girls and an augmented orchestra under the baton of Basil Horsfall. Grand Opera House, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 27th and 28th. Matinee, Saturday at 2.30.

BRITAIN MADE MISTAKE IN NOT TAKING UP GERMAN CHALLENGE

So Says International Jurists Taking Part In Anglo-German Arbitration on Minor Matter—Germany Made as Big Mistake By Repeated Bluff Which Failed To Scare

The Hague, Holland, Sept. 24.—"Define a situation and it loses its terrors," once said Bismarck of a peculiarly difficult and threatening phase of the European situation which developed along innocuous lines after the Great Chancellor had started along its hidden intricacies with his blunt and outspoken commonsense methods. Much the same thing, according to the opinion of an International jurist, is taking part here in a minor arbitration of an Anglo-German situation. "They are in the position," he said, "of having defined to one another the conditions on which they would go to war. Both have made absurd blunders, but blunders which make for world peace. German diplomacy, at one moment blatant at another timorous has made the fundamental mistake of thinking that England could be scared by the bogie of German Dreadnoughts into giving way in Morocco, in Palestine, in West Africa, in China, in a word at all points where the colonial interests of these two great Empires clash. On the other hand Britain made the mistake of not at once taking up that challenge by force of arms rather than by inspired utterances of her Lloyd Georges and Winston Churchills. She should have struck hard and definitely as soon as there was a squadron of German Dreadnoughts to be destroyed. It would have been a defensive act and so regarded by the civilized world, despite the sentimentalism of her politicians who masquerade as statesmen. A lioness does not wait to defend her cubs until they have been snatched from her one by one.

"But," went on this informant who will not permit his identity to be disclosed, "the result has been that both countries have now sized up the situation and see that neither can come out complete victor without making tremendous sacrifices, which would be little better than defeat. It is all very well for Mr. Churchill to talk big and say that Britain can afford to lose ship for ship with Germany, and yet come out conquerors. As regards Germany certainly, but at a cost which must reduce the first naval power to fourth or fifth, for the time being at least, a very poor solace for victory in the North Sea. Likewise Germany sees that so long as France remains true to England she can gain nothing by forcing a struggle. Her recent manoeuvres did not encourage her. There are a thousand powerful reasons why she should not force a conflict, and Britain will not.

"What, the, will happen?

Germany less even than Great Britain can sustain long the doubling and trebling of the cost of naval armaments. The time approaches when it will be cheaper to fight. But it is not clear to every student of history that these two countries are making a final effort to frighten one another with bogies before coming to terms on a sensible basis." The negotiations at Chiasso, he added, are to be taken as seriously as the Turko-Italian war itself, that is to say according to the disposition of the individual to view this opera bouffe of the Mediterranean.

CASH GRAIN 12 CENTS HIGHER THE FALLACY OF RECIPROCITY

Ottawa, Sept. 24.—In his address to the Canadian Manufacturers' Association this afternoon President Curry said:

"We were told that reciprocity was the salvation of the west. Wherein, may I inquire, would it have benefitted the west this year, with cash grain ruling at from 5 to 12 cents a bushel higher in Winnipeg than in Minneapolis? As I pen these lines, the market report of the day is before me and I find No. 1 hard (American) standard quoted at 90 cents in Minneapolis, while No. 1 Northern (Canadian standard) is bringing 98¼ cents in Winnipeg, the same grade of wheat to all intents and purposes, yet to the farmer on our side of the line it is worth 8¼ cents a bushel more than to the farmer on the American side of the line. Lower grades vary in about the same proportion; the Minneapolis quotation on No. 1 Northern (American classification) is 87¼ to 89¼ cents, as against Winnipeg's quotation of 94¼ cents on No. 2 Northern, the corresponding grade in the Canadian classification. "Had reciprocity carried a year ago, the Western grain growers would plainly have been the loser. One cannot wonder in view of the easy indifference with which treaty obligations have been violated in the case of the Panama Canal, how long a reciprocity treaty would have lasted, once it began to operate to the advantage of the United States."—President Curry, of the C.M.A.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT DEAD SUCCUMED TO AN OPERATION

Lapsed Into Unconsciousness And Expired Shortly Before Noon

Kingston, Sept. 24.—(Special)—Sir Richard Cartwright died at 11.25 in the General Hospital this morning, at the age of 77. The cause of his death was from heart failure following an operation last Thursday morning for strangulated hernia. He passed a bad night and death came after a hard forenoon's fight for life. Dr. Cartwright, son of the statesman, and Lady Cartwright were in attendance at his bedside.

Sir Richard was operated on last Thursday for strangulated hernia, and it was thought that the venerable politician would be able to leave the hospital in a couple of weeks. The patient spent a bad night and the physicians were in constant attendance.

End Was Peaceful.

Kingston, Sept. 24.—Sir Richard Cartwright died with great suddenness at 11.25 o'clock this forenoon. He was an inmate at the general hospital. At ten o'clock a consultation of doctors decided that his life was rapidly passing and they proved to be right. The venerable statesman lapsed into unconsciousness prior to his demise. Lady Cartwright and other members of the family were present. His end was peaceful. The funeral will be private.

HOTEL CLERK DISAPPEARS

Herbert Robbins, of the King Edward, Missing Since Thursday

Toronto, Sept. 24.—Mental aberration of some form is said to be responsible for the disappearance of Mr. Herbert Robbins, for years Chief Cashier of the King Edward Hotel. He has been missing since last Thursday, and the hotel authorities have no clue as to his whereabouts.

Robbins is a man of about 30 years, unmarried, and little is known as to his private life. It was learned at the hotel this morning that he has been suffering of late from nervousness and pains in the head, and it is suggested that he may be wandering around somewhere in a crazed condition.

His friends in the hotel deny any knowledge of what was oppressing the unfortunate man. His assistant does not even know Robbins' address as the latter recently changed his boarding house and was uncommunicative as to his private affairs.

Robbins was a trusted employee of the hotel and his books are said to be in a perfectly satisfactory condition.

THE BALKAN SITUATION HAD SOME INFLUENCE

London, Sept. 24.—Money and discount rates were quiet to-day. The stock market was quiet, pending the settling to-morrow. The mining carry-over to-day was arranged at unchanged rates. New business was small. Consols declined and foreign securities were unsettled, owing to the Balkan situation. Home rails and Kaffirs advanced in the afternoon, and Canadian rails were in quiet demand throughout the session.

American securities were quiet and a fraction above parity during the forenoon. Then prices eased off on light selling, but the market improved in the latter trading and closing

SAYS ENGLISH ELECTIONS ARE POSSIBLE IN NEAR FUTURE

London, Sept. 24.—The Yorkshire Post affirms confidently that the general elections will be held almost immediately. The paper states that the only real difference is whether it will be before Christmas or after.

"It is possible," says the Post, "that we are on the eve of a Liberal split regarding Home Rule, which may not equal that of 1886, but which will still be very serious."

LOCAL OPTION MEETING.

A meeting was held last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlors, as to the advisability of the launching of a Local Option campaign this year in this city. Nothing, however could be obtained as to the outcome of the meeting, excepting that a decision had been arrived at. The committee absolutely refused to devulge what had transpired, and said they had nothing for publication.

POWER FOR THIS CITY CAN BE HAD AT $15.95 PER H.P.

Means Cutting Price of Light in Two—By-Law To Acquire Hydro-Electric Power To Go To People At Once—Debentures For $88,000 Will Need to Be Issued

The Council is going to ask the ratepayers to vote on a by-law to borrow $88,000 with which to furnish the city with municipal electric power and lighting systems on the Hydro-Electrir plant.

In brief, of the estimated figures submitted below, the proposition under consideration is the acquisition of 2,750 municipally owned horse power to be distributed under a 24 hours latest approved system at a cost to the consumer of $15.95 per horse power. The more power distributed, the less its cost will be. Taking the experience of other cities as a basis, it is estimated that this $15.95 per horse power will when applied to lighting—street, domestic and otherwise—cut the present prices thereof in two. The city would be illuminated similarly to Toronto.

Last night Council received from Hon. Adam Beck a letter in which he stated that his estimate of 1911 for municipal power stands the same to-day, and should it be found impossible to furnish power at the prices thus estimated, the Commission would not enter into a contract with the city without giving the rate payers opportunity for further consideration.

THE FIGURES.

The prices at which municipal power acquired through the Hydro-Electric Commission could be sold to the consumer is estimated by Hon. Adam Beck as follows:

For a 24 hours' service—
2,500 horse power at $17.55 per horse power.
2,750 horse power at $15.95 per horse power.
For a 10 hours service—
3,000 horse power at $14.65 per horse power.
3,500 horse power at $12.55 per horse power.

As estimated, it would cost to acquire the Peterborough Light & Power Company's plant and distributing system, together with extensions and improvements would be approximately $58,000. To construct an underground system on George from McDonnell to C.P.R., on Charlotte street, from George to G. T. R. station, would cost $30,000. This means that a by-law will have to be passed by the ratepayers, authorising the Council to issue debentures for $88,000 to permit of accepting the Hydro-Electric Commission's proposition to arrange for municipal ownership of electric power for street lighting, manufacturing and domestic purposes.

The foregoing is based on a scheme to expropriate the Peterborough Light & Power Co's system, and improving and extending same, although the Otonabee Power Co's franchise expires a year from next January.

Mr. Beck is prepared to stand by his statement that the cost of lighting would be cut in two by the above schedule.

Moved by Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Buller,—That a by-law be submitted, asking the people's authority to issue debentures for $88,000 with which to acquire, improve and extend the Peterborough Light & Power Co's plant.—Carried.

This by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers at an early date.

It appears that the estimated figures given above are as definite as can be arrived at until the power plant is actually acquired.

BOARD OF WORKS WILL BE ABOUT $3000 IN A HOLE

Due To Alderman Buller's "White Elephant," the Romaine Street Sewer, and Other Expenditures Not Provided For in the Estimates—A Deficit This Year, Sure

The City Fathers met in special session last night. There were present his worship Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Graham, Duffus, Johnston, Gordon, Duncan, Buller and Gillespie.

SANITARY REQUIREMENTS.

The Board of Health recommended that a sewer be constructed on Dalhousie street, from Reid to Rubidge streets, as a local improvement on sanitary grounds. Council will give notice of its intention to undertake this work.

SUCCESS OF FAIR.

On motion of Ald. Duffus and Gordon, the directors of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition were congratulated upon the success of this year's fair.

WILL DEMAND DEED.

Mr. D. O'Connell addressed Council in the interests of the Peterborough Cereal Co., who are interested in the proposed diversion of Simcoe street, at the water front, to permit of the C.P.R's new sidings and freight sheds to be constructed in that locality. The Peterborough Cereal Co's land at this point was originally Government reserve property, and seven years ago Council passed a by-law, subsequently ratified by legislation, agreeing, subject to conditions, that the company could at any time within ten years demand from the City Council and City Trust, a deed of the land in question upon payment of $1,000. The Peterborough Cereal Co., Mr. O'Connell argued, do not intend waiting 10 years before requesting a deed of this property, and now that the C.P.R. is seeking diversion privileges at Simcoe street, which may encroach upon the Cereal Company's interests, he would like representation from the City Council, the railway people and the Cereal Company to meet him with a view to a mutual understanding being reached, pending an early request by the Cereal Co. for a deed of their land. This matter was referred to the Manufacturers' Committee to meet Mr. O'Connell and other representatives interested, and report back to council.

COST OF BRIDGE.

Ald. Buller reported that City Engineer Hay estimates the cost of a new bridge at Dalhousie street, without provision for street railway traffic, at $60,700. As regards a foot bridge across the C.P.R's bridge, Ald. Buller reported, as at the last Board meeting, that when the Company construct their new bridge they will agree to provision for a footway the city to pay cost of same.

DR. KING'S CASE.

On division of Council, the report of the Board of Works, that no action be taken in regard to Dr. King's claim for damages by reason of his horse taking fright at the concrete mixer and material on Charlotte street, was allowed to stand. Consequently the city will contest any action the doctor may take.

BOARD OF WORKS OVERDRAWN.

Ald. Buller reported that the Board of Works has no funds and some work during the remainder of the year is necessary; consequently money will have to be forthcoming from some source. "I for one," he said, "will not go on spending what we have not got."

Ald. Buller here submitted a statement prepared by the City Engineer, giving in detail the monies expended on streets and bridges so far this year. This totalled up to $20,896.28, against the appropriation of $19,000. "But," said Ald. Buller, "$2,334.35 additional expense has been incurred not provided for in the estimates, including $777 for filling in where the street railway was extended to Byersville. Apart from this, the unanticipated efforts made to correct the alleged faulty construction of the Romaine street sewer has cost the Board so far (the end not yet in sight) $2,188.68, for which this Board of Works is not responsible. The Board's chairman then went on to say the money expended so far had been well applied, although it included several thousand dollars not allowed for in the estimates. "We found the streets run down, and concluded it necessary to build them up for once in a few

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly; Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 66 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario Manager, 45 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

Flies That Kill Spiders.

Flies are the natural prey of spiders, yet, strange to say, there are in Brazil some flies which prey on spiders. These daring little insects do not differ much from ordinary flies. They are hymenoptera, and Pepsis ornata is a typical insect of this kind. They usually come upon the spiders when the latter are unprepared and sting them to death. A spider after being stung once has generally sufficient strength to hide in a tuft of grass, but his shelter proves only of temporary service, for the pitiless fly soon returns and completes its work by stinging the helpless victim twice in the lower part of the thorax.

Pens in the Tropics.

The ordinary steel pens used in temperate climates, particularly those used in Canada, are not adaptable to the tropics on account of rusting. This is especially true during the rainy season and at seaports. Bronze or brass pens or those coated with bronze do not seem to be thus affected. Ink deteriorates very quickly in tropical climates and often has the consistency of gum. On the ordinary steel pens this aids the rust and is hard to wipe off if left for a short time. With the bronze or brass pen or with a pen coated with bronze, the coated ink is easily wiped or burned off.

Legend and Reality.

Legend tells how Napoleon, while Moscow was in flames, found time to draw up a decree organizing the Theatre Francais. Alas, the story is not true. Napoleon was in Poland when he received the decree ready to be signed. He there signed it and sent it back to Paris, but in the margin wrote the following: "To be forwarded when the army will be at Moscow. It is his majesty's intention that the decree should be dated from that town."

NAVAL DISCIPLINE.

Punishments That Are Meted Out to British Sailors.

For infraction of regulations some curious punishments are meted out in the English navy. It is an every day occurrence, says the London Tit-Bits, to see half a dozen sailors lined up on deck facing the paint work, holding their hammocks on their shoulders. At first the hammock isn't heavy, but after an hour or so it drags on one's shoulders like lead. Besides, it is not at all entertaining to stare fixedly at a square foot of painted woodwork for an hour or more at a time.

Another punishment that Jack despises is bailing with a spoon. He is placed upon the deck, with two large wooden buckets, one filled with water and the other empty. With a spoon he must dip all the water from one bucket and transfer it to the other, being meanwhile the butt of his comrades' jests and jeers.

Sometimes a delinquent is made to walk slowly backward and forward along the deck, nursing in his arms a six inch projectile, weighing a little over 100 pounds. Once a sailor who laughed at the stammering speech of his commander was made to stand upon the forebridge in full view of the ship's crew and laugh for an hour and a half.

Spitting upon the deck of a man-of-war is strictly prohibited. Cuspidors are placed at intervals along the deck, and these must be used. Upon some ships when a sailor is caught spitting upon the deck a small tub is strapped to his chest, and he is made to wear it. Any one who chooses may use this walking receptacle. The offender thus punished rarely repeats his offense.

BALZAC'S BACK DOOR.

It Was Convenient When Creditors Became Too Insistent.

In the year 1848 or thereabout, being worried by duns in Paris, Balzac took lodgings in Passy, then a village in the environs, at a house in the Rue Basse. There is little remarkable about the front of the house. It is just a plain, white, two storied French dwelling of a hundred years ago or of today for that matter.

But at the back is a garden, and at the bottom of the garden is a doorway leading into one of the oldest lanes in the world, from the look of it. Truly, this ruelle, with its crumbling walls of stone and plaster, its ivy and its shade of overhanging trees, is as happily devoid of suggestions of modern "improvements" as anything to be found within the suburbs of Paris.

By means of this byway Balzac, when insistent voices from within the house reached his ears as he worked in his little pavilion at the end of the garden, could avoid the unpleasantness of an interview with any holder of the overdue bills which throughout his life were the only tangible results of his experiments as a printer and typefounder.

It needs but little imagination to see him hurry off down the lane, hatless and in slippers, to await events, while he dreams of exploiting the jewels of the Golconda or the silver mines of the new world.

Nature's Carvings.

There is a rock profile to be seen on Mount Wilson, California, which is more striking than the famous formation in the White mountains, although the former is said by some to be the most perfect of all of "nature's carvings." The features are strong and full of expression and the contour of the head of correct proportions, the forehead lofty, the eyebrows jutting and the aquiline nose is exceedingly vigorous. The mouth is hard and set but complete in detail, and even the line from the nostril to the corner of the mouth and the rugged modeling of the cheek are distinctly marked. The chin and jaw are correctly sculptured and even the line of the high collar and old fashioned coat may be seen on this remarkable bowlder.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Again the death notices warn those wishing long life not to become an oldest graduate.

These eleven-dollar steers are turning the thoughts of men to noodle soup and horn pout.

Laurier qualifies as the high line optimist of 1912 by predicting that reciprocity will win the next time it comes to a vote.

"The promoters of the new farmers' union in Maine carefully explain that they are simply seeking to regulate the business, not to form a trust.

It is sad to think that the new President of Peru, who was inaugurated last Tuesday, probably never heard of Armageddon.

There were 47 applications for the position of a female cop in Edmonton. And yet we hear that the west is yelling for wives.

Col. Roosevelt would like the recall to apply to Presidents also. Meanwhile he is doing what he can with the means at hand.

A local contemporary describes the fining of dealers who sold deceased meat. This may be a typographical error and certainly did not apply to oysters on the half shell.

The United States national league of postmasters now assembled at Richmond is giving Uncle Sam straight tips on how to make his postal service still more of a luxury.

From the manner in which Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the east is pleading for the west, a suspicion arises that in the coming redistribution of Parliamentary representation the West will get about a hundred new seats.

In Kansas, a Democratic candidate for public office has retired rather than enter a contest with the Republican nominee, a woman. Peaceful suffragette methods have their triumphs no less renowned than those of the militant variety.

Boston Herald wants Thanksgiving Day celebrated at a more seasonable time of the year. Whilst local government office holders are willing to celebrate the event any old time, November is the month, fit and proper.

Either local drivers should not tie their horses to the electric light poles on George street, after a rainstorm, or provide them with gutta-percha shoes. With the driver in rubbers and his horse in goloshes it might be reasonably safe to make harbor near one of these poles.

POLICE GRAFT.

The New York police investigation following in the wake of the murder of the gambler Rosenthal, has afforded some of the London papers an excuse for moralizing upon the conditions prevailing in the political circles of the great American metropolitan city. Though most of the London papers content themselves with general observations, the Standard goes to the root of the matter and in an editorial that is as full of common sense as it is of philosophy finds the solution of the mystery of police corruption in the system under which the force is organized. To infer from the facts elicited in the murder case that the standard of morality is on a low level throughout America the London paper thinks would be as ridiculous as it would be unjust. Every travelled man knows that the typical American is by no means deficient in the qualities which it is pleased to call "distinctively English," and it then proceeds to enumerate some of these. "His treatment of women is chivalrous to the extreme; he is kind-hearted to a degree; and all his instincts are averse to treachery and furtive wrong-doing." The people who live on the American continent will not be pleased to learn that these characteristics are distinctively English. Some of the Anglophobes of the United States will immediately eschew these characteristics when they learn that they are so distinctive. But it is not with that phase of the criticism that we are concerned.

You Can't Cure Catarrh By Swallowing Drugs

Cough Syrup, Tablets and Sprays Sicken the Stomach, But Don't Reach the Germs of Catarrh, Hence Their Failure to Help.

To cure an ailment in the throat or chest, to rout out Catarrh or Asthma, it is essential that the medicine be conveyed direct to the affected parts.. This is why no other remedy has achieved such world-wide success as Catarrhozone, which alone can be breathed in one second to every air cell in the breathing organs. The healing vapors of Catarrhozone mix with the breath and descend through the throat down the bronchial tubes to the deepest air cells in the lungs—all parts are saturated with the rich piney essences that ease, heal and cure.

Catarrhozone has entirely displaced the old-fashioned remedies, such as cough syrups, sprays, tablets, and sedative powders. It contains none of the opium, chloral and drowsy narcotics so commonly found in liquid cough and catarrhal remedies.

Couldn't Breathe—"Catarrhozone" Cured.

"No one ever contracted a more obstinate attack of nasal Catarrh than I suffered a month ago" writes Mr. G. E. Root, a well-known resident of Bridgetown, W.I. "My head ached terrifically, I sneezed about every three minutes, but still my nostrils were entirely closed and I couldn't breathe through them. Ten minutes inhaling Catarrhozone gave me a little relief, so I continued to use Catarrhozone every hour, and before the day was out I had improved. Catarrhozone quickly cured me. I am well ever since."

There is no remedy so certain and safe as Catarrhozone, but being a good remedy, it is imitated. Beware of the substitutor. Large Catarrhozone lasts two months, price $1.00; smaller sizes 25c. and 50c. All reliable dealers or the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A NEW WHEAT

Seager Wheeler, of Rosthern, Sask., who last November won the thousand dollar prize at New York, for the best wheat grown upon this continent, wrote to the Farmer's Advocate, of Winnipeg, not many days ago, telling of a new wheat which is showing great promise. His prize wheat was of the Marquis strain, and carefully selected strains of this variety showed signs of ripening a week earlier than the ordinary Marquis. But the new wheat, which he called the Prelude, sown side by side with other wheats on the same say, was harvested on August 1st, almost three weeks earlier than Marquis, Preston, and Early Red Fife. The straw was short, the head small, and the berry of good shape and fair size, but the yield was not as high as is expected from the other sorts. The fact of its extreme earliness, will, however, be greatly in its favor. It is, of course, too soon yet to speak very positively of the new arrival but if other experiments agree with those of Mr. Wheeler, it is probable that there will be a vigorous demand for Prelude wheat in the very near future, especially in the sections where earliness in ripening is all important.

JAPAN AND BRITAIN

English public opinion tends to the view that Japan, under the newly enthroned Emperor Yoshihito, will continue the same policy which in its international features has done so much to gain for that empire the good will of the nations of the world and coupled with their highest admiration for the venerated monarch who has just passed away, a full recognition of Japan's commanding position on the Pacific. The London Times believes that under the successor to Mutsuhito "the Japanese Empire will pursue its high destinies unchanging in those principles of which the late emperor was the highest repository, faithful to its friends, determined to maintain the place it has won for itself, but slow to commit aggression or to precipitate fresh conflicts." In his tribute to the late Emperor, Premier Asquith after remarking on how he did not recall the name of any ruler in history within the limits of whose single reign progress so vast and so much needed to his own subjects and to mankind had been attained, added on the part of Great Britain a special acknowledgement of what he termed this supreme and perhaps unexampled achievement. He said: "Ten years ago Japan became bound to us by a treaty of alliance. Twice since then that alliance has been renewed and extended, and after a testing experience it rests to-day upon a firm and, as I hope and believe, upon an enduring foundation." It was under the auspices of the late Marquis Komura, counted one of the ablest diplomatists o. this generation that Great Britain entered into the first alliance with Japan, the treaty being signed in 1902. In 1905 it was renewed in a more extended and definite form, and in 1911 once more renewed with modifications which had received the assent of Canada with other self-governing Dominions of the British Empire. Canada has, therefore, much interest in the confident assurances of the statesmen of the Empire that under the new regime, Japan and Great Britain will continue to work side by side for the promotion of peace and civilization in the Pacific world, and that in Emperor Yoshihito the British Empire will continue to have a faithful and trusted ally.

LANGUAGES AND THE CONGRESS

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, urges that "we must revolutionize our methods of teaching modern languages before we can hope for further profitable intellectual and commercial intercourse with Europe." In uttering this opinion he did not have in mind the Fifth International Congress of Chamber of Commerce soon to meet in Boston, but that gathering might appropriately have served him for text had he so chosen. Its official programme just issued in over a dozen European and several oriental languages makes a formidable showing of the lingual barriers which retard our communications with the rest of the world. The fact that an all-English programme would have failed to meet the needs of the congress is evidence that the desirable bond of intelligibility will not always unite the speakers with their audiences. Turkish is remote for us who dwell in this longitude; Japanese and Chinese are out of the question. How many even of our travelled business men are there who can turn a comprehending ear to an address delivered in Hungarian, Norwegian, Swedish or Dutch? Doubtless French and German—English as well—will come in to save the assembly from becoming a tower of Babel. But how far will that resort avail for enjoyment of "discussions from the floor"? It is here that Dr. Murray's plea for more effective methods of teaching finds its application. Mere book knowledge of foreign tongues, dwindling away after the passing of school years into a vague memory, goes for nothing when the listening test is imposed. So efficient commercial intercourse with another people implies ability to address them in their own language. Among all the sixteen tongues to be spoken next week not one voice is to be raised in mitigation of the barriers of speech. Yet that aspect of the proceedings can hardly fail to impress itself, and a congress called for the promotion of international commerce and good will may also function as an educational object-lesson.

A FATAL YEAR.

This promises to be the railroads most fatal year. In 1910, according to the interstate commerce commission's statistics, the railways of the United States killed 3,604 passengers and employes and injured 82,374. In 1911 the passengers and employes killed numbered 3,519 and the injured 60,235. But in the first three months of 1912, the commission has reported no less than 2,383 persons were killed and 20,499 injured.

It can scarcely be argued that January, February and March were winter months when railroad operation was specially hazardous and that their ghastly record will not be maintained through the remainder of the year. Train operation is not particularly dangerous in July, yet last month brought a series of shocking train wrecks whose rolls of killed and maimed will figure in the 1912 totals. At the rate of the first quarter these will reach the appalling aggregate of 9,532 killed and 81,946 injured.

When 1,600 lives were lost in the Titanic disaster, the world was horrified and insisted on action. Inquiries were conducted on both sides of the Atlantic, laws were framed, improvements in marine architecture and operation were devised and steamship companies vied with each other in announcing precautions voluntarily adopted to reassure and attract travelers.

But six times, 1,600 lives may be lost on American railroads in a year—to say nothing of 50 times 1,600 persons hurt or crippled — and nothing is done because the horror is spread through 12 months, instead of concentrated in one awful day and because the American public is so used to railroad wrecks as to consider them unavoidable.

That they can be and are avoided in European countries much more successfully than in America is well known. That travel by rail has not yet become equally safe on this continent is undeniably due to the indifference of the public. It overlooks the ever recurring disasters as commonplace; it accords no effective support to the countless laws proposed to better conditions; in astounding disregard of its own safety it goes on patronizing lines and trains proved perilous by fresh disasters.

RAILROADS OF FRANCE

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—To settle an argument, will you kindly let me know the amount of business done by the railroads of France.

—J. R. Watson.

Reply—The latest available returns of the traffic carried by French railroads is for the year 1910, which amounted to $45,920,000, and net revenue was $9,740,000, the operating ratio being 78.8 per cent.

WHY NOT AN ELECTRIC PEAL?

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I see that Sr. Patrick's Church, in Montreal, has installed an electric plant to operate its peal of five bells, this innovation being the invention of a young French Canadian of that metropolis. Peterborough is justly called the "electric city." Why not have an electric attachment applied to the "People's Chimes" in St. John's Church? We have got the finest peal of bells in the country so why not have them right up-to-date?

A COMPANY

Which has Won The Confidence of the Investing Public by its Progressive Business Methods.

We refer to the Campbell Realty Co., the head offices of which are 745-749 Somerset Building, Winnipeg, Man. Mr. W. B. Campbell, the head of the Company, who has had many years practical experience in handling real estate, is conceded to be one of the best informed brokers on the value of such investments.

When the Campbell Realty Company recommends a property, their clients may be assured that it has been thoroughly investigated from all points, and that it represents a sound and profitable investment. To win the confidence of a large clientele of satisfied investors is the policy of the company, investors, who having taken advantage of past advice, will be ready to consider future propositions presented to them.

The Company does not handle any proposition that does not conform to the high standard of excellence demanded by them, and a property must have solid ground on which to base its worthiness before the Campbell Realty Company will consider the advisability of placing it before their clients.

By this guarantee of success in every proposition they offer to the investing public, the Company is bound to win the fullest confidence possible.

The company handles a general line of Canadian investments and lots in several of the most prosperous Western cities and towns, among which are Young, Estevan, Camrose, Battleford, Brandon, Biggar, Entwistle and Cranbrook Orchards.

Estevan presents a remarkable example of development and growth. "Royal Heights," although only put on the market a few days ago, is selling rapidly, over two hundred lots having been already taken up by eager buyers. Estevan has just passed a by-law to raise $25,000, for the purpose of securing additional industrial enterprises. Estevan will continue to advance with strides that nothing can stop, and is destined to become one of the largest manufacturing cities of the West.

Battleforh, now on the eve of the great era of growth and development, and of whose future there is no doubt will become the industrial capital of Northern Saskatchewan.

The company's property—"Brokhurst"—situated in the path of Battleford's growth, with the C.N.R. and G.T.P. intersecting it diagonally, only part of which has lately been offered to the public at very low prices, has met with general approval and is being disposed of in a manner which shows the appreciation of the investor.

The company is also offering some very fine property in the Town of Canora, the future railway and commercial centre of Saskatchewan, situated only four blocks from the business centre. With the railway development at Canora and the opening of one of the richest agricultueal districts in Canada, there will be but one result, Canora will become one of the most important cities in the West.

We would call the attention of our readers to the company's announcement on page 5 of next Saturday's issue.

RETURN OF COW TESTS FOR JULY MONTH

It will no doubt be a source of pleasure to the members of the Peterborough Dairy Record Centre to learn that in the month of July the average production of the cows in this centre was the highest in Canada being 824 lbs. milv and 27.1 lbs. fat.

As in the month of June, the Norwood Association, took the lead with an average production of 928 lbs. milk, 31 lbs. fat. The Central Smith Association was a close second with 959 lbs. milk and 30.1 lbs. fat, being higher than the Norwood Association in milk but slightly lower in fat. To these two associations belongs the distinction of having the highest average production in Canada for the month of July.

The outlook for profitable dairying in the Peterborough section is certainly very bright at the present time as a large number of farmers are availing themselves of the information secured by testing their cows, this centre at the present time having the largest membership in Canada.

A point which members should not forget is the importance of securing a record for the full milking period, as a record for four or five months is of little value. This is due to the fact that many cows while milking well for a few months, are not able to keep up the flow, while other cows which may not have given so much milk at any one time are able to give more milk for the season as they keep up well to the last.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER having consented to give a Meeting in this District, you are Cordially Invited to be present at the OPERA HOUSE on TUESDAY NIGHT, October the First, at Eight p.m., to hear him and other leading Liberals.

Children's Books in Olden Times.

The earliest books for children were schoolbooks pure and simple. The titles of some of them suggest entertainment and refreshment, but the arid pages belie the promise. For instance, an old Latin grammar, published in 1570, had for sub-title, "A dulcetous Syrupe newly Clarified for Yonge Scholars yt thurste for the Swete Lycore of Latin Speche," but the "Lycore" is a very turgid, confused flow of pedantry. A different style is suggested by the name of another schoolbook written by one Elisha Coles in 1675, "Nolens Volens, or you shall learn Latin whether you will or no," a title which suggest a vigorous application of the birch.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 23.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ended Sept. 21 were 1700 cattle, 2100 sheep and lambs, 2000 hogs and 650 calves, while the supply on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1100 cattle, 2600 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 300 calves.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the market for really choice steers, owing to the continued scarcity of such, but the offerings of all other grades were ample to fill the requirements, and prices ruled steady. The quality of the stock coming forward is far from being up to the mark, owing to the fact that farmers thruout the country are disposing of all their young cattle on account of the high prices ruling for feed. The gathering of buyers was fairly large, and, as they all wanted some beef, the demand was good, and an active trade was done. A few choice steers sold as high as $7 to $7.25, while full loads of good cattle brought from $6 to $6.50 per 100 pounds.

An active trade continues to be done in lambs, owing to the fact that butchers and packers are now putting them away for their winter requirements, but, as supplies are coming forward freely, the tone of the market was easier than a week ago, and prices ruled 25c per 100 pounds lower, with sales of Quebec stock at $5.25 to $5.75, and Ontario at $6 to $6.25 per 100 pounds. There was also a weaker feeling in the market for sheep, and prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds. The demand for calves was good at firm prices.

EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hull up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or to-morrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

NELSON'S PERPETUAL LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia and Research Bureau is approved, adopted and used in the—

Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia is used in all parts of the civilised world. Also by the King of England, Premier of Canada, Premier of Ontario, Mikado of Japan, and State Departments throughout the world.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—

"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not up-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—

"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wyer, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Literary and Scientific Institute writes:—

"The name of 'Nelson,' and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia.

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

years. And it's time we had permanent roadways—at considerable more initial cost, it is true, but eventually saving expense in their life of 30 years. The quicker we get away from the old patchwork system of maintaining our roads the better, it is utterly impossible to create good roads out of limestone, and we have no gravel. What this city needs is street paving at the earliest possible date."

Ald. Anderson asked if he could find some more cash for the Board of Works, replied that he had no nest egg whatever, and in going over the accounts he could not hope for any surplus from the several departments that might be applied to the Board of Works' needs. "Better close up all street work as soon as possible," urged the Finance Committee.

Ald. Johnston advised creating a moderate overdraft rather than abandoning needed work.

Ald. Buller pointed out that the Romaine street part of the south city sewer has been practically put into shape; but should the Aylmer street section not be repaired this fall, before next spring the Romaine street section will again be plugged up, entailing another expenditure of several thousand dollars next year, which might be guarded against by a reasonable present outlay. It would be foolishness, he urged, to neglect this important matter to avoid a small overdraft.

"That's all right," replied his worship, "but I'm not going to set here with a big deficit at the end of the year, created by the Board of Works"

Ald. Buller replied that whatever overdraft arises will be no fault of the Board of Works, who have had to shoulder outlays entirely unlooked for when its appropriation was struck.

Ald. Anderson—"I don't wish to stop any work that is imperative; but cut out expenditure where not absolutely necessary. It appears we must face an overdraft, but let it be as small as possible."

Ald. Duncan was of the same opinion, and suggested that the Board of Works be allowed to exceed its appropriation by $1500.

Ald. Anderson—"I might point out that the Board is nearly overdrawn to that amount now."

Ald. Duncan—"Well, let them have another $1500. That Romaine street sewer must be put into shape without delay; otherwise the whole work will have to be done over again next year."

Moved by Ald. Duncan, seconded by Ald. Johnston,—That the Board of Works proceed with such work as is necessary only, but not to exceed $1500, dating from September 21st last.—Carried.

Ald. Duffus—"I don't see any sense in running that road roller at this time of the year; such work will only have to be done again next spring."

A LAST RESOLUTION.

Moved by Ald. Gordon, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the City Solicitor prepare a by-law extending the westerly fire limits to and along the easterly side of Stewart street, and southerly to and along the north side of Dalhousie street—Lost, only the mover and seconder being in favor.

THE FIRST PAVING.

A by-law to authorize the construction of a cement pavement along Chambers street as a local improvement, passed its several readings.

Moved by Ald. Anderson, seconded by Ald. Graham,—That the Council be supplied with the names and the number of patients treated in the Isolation hospital, and the cost of running that institution, from January 1st, to August 31st.—Carried.

Ald. Anderson is anxious to know what the Isolation hospital is costing us.

DISPOSAL OF SEWAGE.

Moved by Ald. Gillespie, seconded by Ald. Duncan,—That the Board of Works be authorized to employ a man to prepare plans for the disposal of sewage.—Carried.

THE BRIDGE QUESTION.

A Rash Awakening.

Sleeping on a mat under the moon in a cannibal country is a pale adventure compared with a lodge in an old-time Irish inn at the height of the tourist season.

A certain Master of the Galway Hunt arrived at a small inn where all the beds were already taken. A kitchen table was requisitioned, a heterogeneous collection of bedclothes being arranged upon it, into the exact nature of which it was perhaps not well to inquire too closely, as it seemed to be composed of contributions from the wardrobes of the hotel help, and the sportsman turned in.

The pillow was an odd-shaped substance, emitting a faint and strangely familiar odor; but the Master of the Galway Blazers was too weary to concern himself over such trifles, and he slept as soundly on his makeshift couch as if it had been a canopied bed of state.

He was awakened in the morning by a gentle fumbling at the wrappings beside his couch, and started up to see a gleaming knife suspended above his head.

"I'm sorry to be disturbin' ye, sir," said an apologetic voice, "but sure th' house was out iv pillows intirely, an' we put th' side iv bacon undher y'r honor's head. I was just conthrivin' to get a few rashers off for the quality's breakfast without disturbin' ye, whin y'r honor woke up."

Quaint Oaths.

The first appearance in an English Divorce Court of the Chinese form of oath by breaking a saucer recalls other quaint forms of swearing.

In Assam the oath is taken by standing within a rope circle, to imply a wish to rot as the rope does if the swearer does not tell the truth. In lawsuits between Russians and the Ostiaks of Siberia a bear's head is brought into court, and the Ostiak, making the gesture of eating, calls on the bear to devour him if he lies.

There are tribes of India that swear by the head of a tiger, while others chop a dog in two as emblematic of the fate of the perjurer. But the simplest method is that of the Quaker, who swears not at all, but just tells what he thinks.

Let It Stand.

While going by a meat store yesterday Fogg noticed a sign in the window: "Rib roast—no waist." Of course he had to go in and correct the meat man in his spelling. "Thanks," said the proprietor, "you're the fourteenth person who dropped in to set me right on that sign, and I sold ten of 'em cuts of meat. I guess I'll let the word stand as it is."

When Fogg came out he had a package under his arm.

Marriage Bargains.

Mr. Geo. A. Birmingham, the well-known English writer, says there is no country in the world where marriage, at least in the peasant class, is more a matter of bargaining, and yet shows a higher average of stability and content, than Ireland. Sometimes the man has never seen the woman before they are brought together, the precise number of pounds, cows, or pigs to be handed over having been by that time settled.

This is illustrated in personal recollections just published by an Irish lady. She was visiting with an aunt a cottage in the neighborhood, and admired a fine mahogany chest of drawers.

"'Twas for that I was married," said the mistress of the cottage. "A young farmer had also seen and admired. A bargain was struck. There was no money, but the bride was to have a couple of sheep, a yearling bullock, and the chest. The prudent young man measured it, and then turned and asked:

"An' which o' thim little girls is it?"

She as the oldest unmarried—"nixt the doore," as the phrase was. "An' so I wint," she said, "and was happy ever afterwards."

WEALTHY CHINESE IN SLAVE TRAFFIC

Cleveland Police Make Raid On Alleged Clearinghouse.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—An after-midnight raid on a Prospect avenue house, constituting a portion of police war against the alleged white slave "clearinghouse" here, resulted in the arrest of Ida Phillips, early this morning on a white slavery charge. Blanche Vernon, an eighteen-year-old girl, is held as a witness. Two other women escaped by jumping from upper story windows.

The police say they have discovered a wealthy Chinese of Cleveland and Pittsburg to be at the head of an organized clique which is working in the interest of the white slave trade. They say, too, that a Cleveland banker is implicated in the ring.

LIVING MILK CARTS.

The Goats of Athens and Their Tenders With Their Tin Cups.

The bootblacks and newsboys of Athens are numberless and omnipresent, yelling out in shrill tones the latest edition or inviting customers in equally strident tones to have a "shine." Hot chestnut men, with charcoal braziers and stock in trade of a hundred big nuts, done over their little fires or sell pistachio nuts, sesame seed or pumpkin seeds at the street corners. Much of the merchandise is carried by diminutive gray donkeys or by old women, who are almost lost under their huge loads of oranges or lemons or cauliflowers or brushwood.

The goats are a familiar sight of modern as doubtless they were of ancient Athens, and one sees them skipping over the rocks of Mars hill or the Pnyx or picking their way gingerly over the ruins of some ancient temple like chamois in their native wilds.

They are all muzzled and attended in flocks of ten or a dozen by a goatherd, who goes armed with three little tin cups, one holding about a pint, another a half pint and another a gill. When he finds a customer he stops a section of his living milk cart, milks it, hands over the diminutive amount of the lacteal fluid (it certainly is fresh milk) to the customer and receives his 5 or 10 lepta (1 or 2 cents) in return.—Christian Herald.

FIRST AMERICAN HEROINE.

Gunner Corbin's Widow, Who Fought at Mount Washington.

The first woman who fought for American liberty was Gunner Corbin's widow, at the capture of Mount Washington by the Scotch and Hessians. In the midst of the fight Gunner Corbin, struck by a ball, fell dead at his wife's feet as she was aiding him in his duties.

It was not an uncommon occurrence for Irishwomen (as at Limerick) to share the dangers of the bivouacks, as instance the deeds of that other heroine, Molly Pitcher. Instantly, without a word, she stepped into his place and worked the gun with redoubled skill and vigor, fighting bravely until she sank to the earth, pierced by three grapeshot! Though terribly wounded, she finally recovered, but was disabled for life.

A soldier's half pay and the value of a soldier's suit of clothes annually voted her by the Continental congress (but soon discontinued) were all the reward that the first woman who fought for American liberty ever received for such heroic love, courage and suffering.—E. F. DeLancy in Magazine of American History.

Last Words of the Great.

Half of the store of "last words" treasured by the curious are apocryphal. Pitt cried out not as the records have it as to the state of his country, but for a pork pie, and Napoleon III. uttered neither lamentation nor prophecy, but desired to know if one standing at his side had been at Sedan. The falling lips of the great are expected to frame some pious or patriotic aphorism, and if they fail then phrases are coined for them. "Deathbed avowals and moralizing," said Disraeli when his own end was in sight, "are a legacy counted upon by the English public." He did not contribute to the collection, but one phrase escaped him. "I have suffered much," he sighed. "Had I been a nihilist I should have confessed all." What lay behind those words no two critics can be found to agree.—Dundee Advertiser.

Salmon Loaf.

For a delicious salmon loaf use two cans of salmon and a loaf of stale bread. Reject the crusts of the bread and remove the bones from the salmon. Break the bread into crumbs and the salmon into flakes and mix them together. Moisten with two beaten eggs, a tablespoonful of melted butter and one or two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, with salt and pepper to taste. Add a tablespoonful of cream if not moist enough. Butter a bread tin and put the mixture into it. Bake the loaf for an hour or until thoroughly done. Serve with a cream sauce or a white sauce sprinkled with minced parsley.—New York Tribune.

A Lovers' Quarrel.

"Just a lovers' quarrel," he explained airily to his brother clerks—"a lovers' quarrel, that's all."

"But, Korter," cried the bookkeeper, "you don't mean to tell me that dainty Marie Lanigan did all that to you!"

"No," Korter admitted; "it was her other lover."—Exchange.

Gained in Weight, Digestion Restored, Health Renewed

Here Is More Proof of Quick Cure For All Folks That Are Weak, Ailing, Nervous.

More Praise for Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"For a period last summer the thought of food excited feelings of nausea," writes Mrs. C. A. Dodge, of Bloomsbury. "The heat had made me listless and the distaste for food reduced me to a condition of semi-starvation and brought me to the verge of nervous collapse. Tonics were useless to restore an active desire for food. The doctors told me my liver and kidneys were both at fault, but the medicines they gave me were too severe and reduced my strength so that I had to abandon them. At the suggestion of a friend who had been cured of blood and skin trouble, I began the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The differences I first noticed was, that while they cleansed the system, instead of feeling weaker I felt better after taking them. Indeed their activity was so mild it was easy to forget I had taken them at all; they seemed to go right to the liver, and in a very brief time not only did all source of nausea disappear, but I began to crave food and I digested it reasonably well. Then I began to put on weight until within three months I was brought to a condition of good health. I urge Dr. Hamilton's Pills for all who are in poor health."

Get this best of all medicines today and refuse a substitute for Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers, 25c. per box, or five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

EYE GLASS MOUNTING

With the curved top guards is the only mounting that will hold your lenses in place firmly with a slight pressure; and that is the better half of eye glass comfort. No matter how well-adapted your lenses may be, if the mounting is ill-fitting and hurts the nose, imperfect vision is certain to be the result.

Granam, we are informed that a gentleman from Toronto is trying to get possession of the Oriental when vacated by its present occupant. In reply to a question put by The Times yesterday, Mr. J. C. Shooks said there was "nothing as yet for publication" regarding the final disposal of the Oriental Hotel property.

Local Wild West Man Fined.

A young man from Peterborough, a former resident of this town, appeared in the police court this morning on a charge of pointing a firearm at Adam Koren on Sherbourne street He pleaded guilty and gave the excuse that he had been drinking. This was the young man who caused such a sensation about a week ago by shooting all along Augusta and Sherbourne streets. A fine of $10 and $11.50 costs or 30 days in jail was imposed. The money was paid.—Port Hope Guide.

Another Lindsay Innocent Touched.

Further reports are reaching the Lindsay police of innocents of that burg who were victimized by pickpockets at the Lindsay Fair. The latest victim is a Mr. Victor Hepburn, who was touched for $27.00 whilst standing near another man who detected a light-fingered gentleman with his hand in his own coat pocket, and struck the thief. Such guilelessness is touching and speaks volumes for the innocency and artlessness of residents of the Scugog town.

Leal Held on $2000 Bonds.

AUNT SALLY'S ADVICE TO BEAUTY SEEKERS

Lydia says: "I've tried most everything for my freckles, but can't lose them. What do you suggest ?" See answer to Stella. The treatment suggested I've never known to fail in any case of freckles or other cutaneous blemish.

P.J.K. asks: "Is there anything better than massage to remove wrinkles ?" Too much massaging may aggravate a wrinkled condition tending to soften and loosen the tissue. I advise bathing the face in an astringent lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. This is remarkably effective.

Stella writes: "My complexion is horribly muddy. What shall I do for it ?" Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggists. Apply this nightly like you'd use cold cream, washing it off mornings. This will cause the offensive cuticle gradually to make way, by a process of gentle absorption, for the clear, velvety, healthy-hued skin underneath.—Woman's Realm.

Sanitary Inspector Kept Busy.

To use a current slang expression Sanitary Inspector Spence seems "on his job." He recently and fortunately for the immediate neighborhood, found a case on Gilmour street where the sanitation and consequent health had been neglected by absence of the residents of that particular house at Stoney Lake. Garbage left during a few weeks' absence during the hot weather is apt not only to breed the pesky fly, but to raise an aroma calculated to make the planet Saturn jump her rings. The inspector intimates that throwing garbage out of windows, like confetti at a bride, is distinctly irregular, against all aesthetic principles and against the law.

Sir Wilfrid's Visit.

Mr. G. N. Gordon reports that he has received messages from all over the adjoining counties, where people are coming in parties from a half a dozen to a score, to the meetings of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, on Tuesday next October 1st. Lindsay has chartered a special train and over two hundred and fifty are expected from there. While from centres like Campbellford and Port Hope, arrangements have been made already for one hundred and fifty each. On account of the large numbers who have intimated their intention to be present, it is necessary to change from the theatre to the roller rink, which Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons are decorating.

REPORT OF MASSACRE OF U.S. BLUEJACKETS NOT CONFIRMED

Naval Officers Discredit Report From Nicaragua of Disaster to Force From the American Cruisers—People Resent Action of Washington

Washington, Sept. 25.—Naval officials have received no confirmation this morning of the report from Panama that 29 American marines had been killed at Leon. They were inclined to doubt the report.

The latest reports from Rear-Admiral Southerland, in command of the expeditionary force in Nicaragua, are that the number of marines at Leon was between 300 and 400.

While confirmation of the report is lacking, much uneasiness is felt since it is known anti-American feeling has been growing in Nicaragua for several days.

The town of Leon has been a rebel stronghold since the present rebellion broke out. It is about mid-way between Lake Managua and the Pacific Ocean, has a population approximating 35,000, and in connected by rail with Corinto.

UNITED STATES INTERFERED

Trouble began in Nicaragua in July with President Diaz's request for permission to go aboard an American warship as a vantage point, from which to dismiss War Minister Mena. He expressed the opinion that Mena would attempt a revolution and feared for his life if he remained on shore. His fears were justified. Mena raised the standard of revolt, and has been in arms ever since.

Bluejackets and marines were landed from American warships to protect foreign lives and property, and to police the railroads. The Nicaraguans deeply resented this, and according to latest messages from San Juan del Sur, the Washington Administration's explanation of its reasons only made matters worse.

DR. A. B. COOK GOES TO TRIAL FOR DEATH OF MISS ADAMS

Toronto, Sept. 25.—Dr. A. B. Cook who was remanded yesterday so that Magistrate Kingsford might peruse the evidence given at the inquest into the death of Miss Ruth Adams, was the first name called on the list this morning.

"I have read the evidence," said Mr. Kingsford, "and I shall commit for trial."

"But not on the charge as laid." amended Mr. Robinette, stating that he expected to have it reduced to one of procuring a criminal operation, without reference to the fatal consequences.

"Oh, no, I know the charge as laid and I am certainly going to commit on it as it now reads, and that implies the use of instruments resulting in death," said the magistrate.

"Very well, that means an application to the Attorney-General," was the reply of counsel for the defence, as the more serious charge precludes the possibility of bail.

"UNTRUTHFUL AND BOASTFUL" SAYS WITNESS OF DUNCAN

"Because of his lying I asked to be changed from the detective to the uniform branch."—Ex-Inspector Wm. Davis.

"I would not feel disposed to accept his statements."—J. Walter Curry, formerly Crown Attorney.

"I found him untruthful, generally boastful."—Detective Wm. Wallace.

Man after man they rose and swore against their leader. In many respects it was not a pleasant thing to watch the crying down of Inspector Walter Duncan, of the Detective Department; to see the revelation of the police friction which has finally reached the surface in the investigation now before the Board of Police Commissioners. Twelve police officials in all, in two days' hearing, have grimly taken the witness chair, kissed the book, and, willingly or under pressure, affirmed or implied that Inspector Duncan was not a man whose word was to be taken at par. Most of these men were his subordinates. With all of them he had worked at one time or another. Some have retired, but all seem united in the evidence they gave. Last on the list before the ten days' adjournment was J. W. Curry, formerly prosecuting attorney, and the remark which some made hesitatingly, others deliberately, he made quite calmly. It was, "He is not a man to be believed."

WEDDING BELLS.

Buck—Sawers.

St. Lukes Church was yesterday morning the scene of a pretty and particularly interesting wedding, Miss Marguerite (Daisy), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Augustus Sawers became the charming bride of Mr. Stuart Buck, M.A., son of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Buck af Port Hope.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frederick J. Sawers, M.A., brother of the bride. The church was artistically decorated for the occasion. Mrs. Greenslade, organist of the church, played the wedding music. The bride who was given away by her father, was becomingly attired in her travelling suit of tan serge, with a Paris hat of tan moire and black chiffon velvet, with willow plume and carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Maude H. Rush, gowned in a blue and gold shot silk dress, and large black hat, and carried yellow chrysanthemums. Dr. Harold Buck, Toronto, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were Mr. S. Dickson Hall and Mr. Harry Rush, manager of the Dominion Bank, Windsor. After the ceremony a reception was held at St. Luke's Rectory. Mr. and Mrs. Buck left to spend their honeymoon in Ottawa and eastern points, and upon their return will reside in Port Rowan.

Armstrong—Wood.

The home of Mr. James Wood, at Bensfort, was the scene of a pretty wedding yesterday, when Miss Amy Frances, only daughter of Mr. Wood, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. James Stanley Armstrong, eldest son of Mr. John Armstrong.

The ceremony, performed by Rev. F. W. White, of Fraserville, took place in the drawing room under an arch of evergreens, asters and ferns. The bride, who was given away by her father, was attired in a handsome gown of pearl grey satin with pearl ornament and trimmings, and wore a boidal veil caught with lily of the valley, and carried a sheaf of white asters and maiden-hair fern. She wore the groom's gift, a sunburst of pearls. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present.

After the wedding breakfast, the happy couple took the 4.38 train at Kendry for Toronto, and other points west.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong will reside at Balsam Grove, North Monaghan.

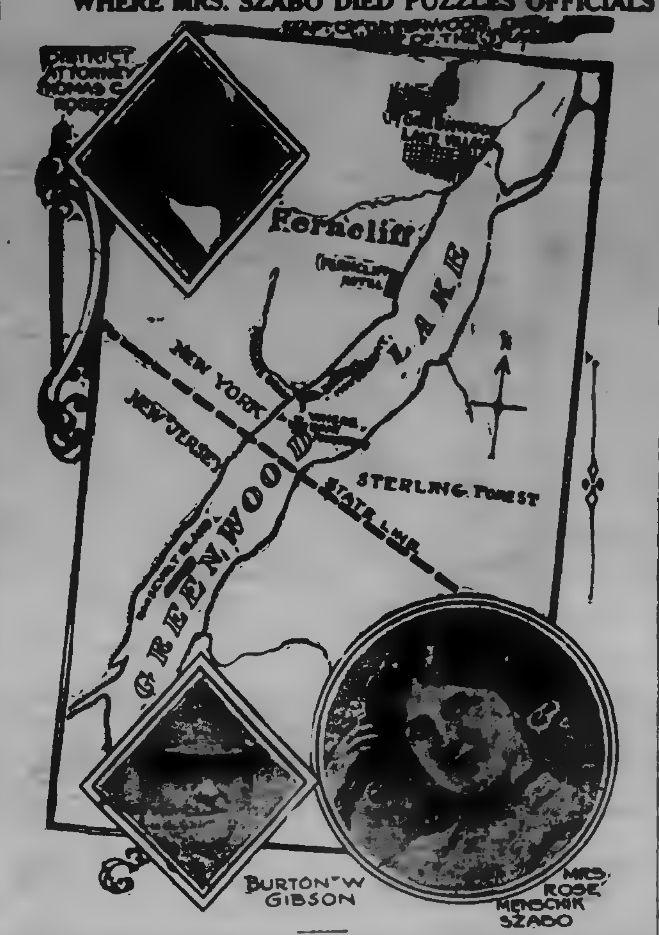
OBITUARY.

Mrs. Clement Gordon

The fall from a buggy sustained by Mrs. Clement Gordon, 120 Lock street, about a week ago, although she sustained no broken bones yesterday, sad to say, proved fatal. The deceased was born in Laprairie, Que. and was 63 years of age, coming to Peterborough and marrying Mr. Gordon about 42 years ago. She had lived here since. There are left to mourn her sad demise, her husband, Mr. Clement Gordon, and three sons Alex., Rollie and George, all of Peterborough, and five daughters, Mrs. Martyn Martin, Mrs. John Martin, of Peterborough, and Albina, Josephine and Eva at home. Three brothers, John, Noah and Thomas Laplante, and one sister, Mrs. A. Letellier, also survive her.

The funeral announcement will be made to-day.

MORE MYSTERY SURROUNDS THE GIBSON CASE; WHERE MRS. SZABO DIED PUZZLES OFFICIALS



Mystery is piled on mystery in the extraordiuary case of the State of New York against Burton W. Gibson, who is held without bail in the Orange county jail at Goshen and is charged with the murder of Mrs. Rosa Menschik Szabo, whose body was found in Greenwood Lake on July 16. The question now worrying the authorities is, Where did Mrs. Szabo die—in New York or in New Jersey? Greenwood Lake is shared by the two States, and the little thirteen foot rowboat which had borne Mrs. Szabo to her doom on July 16 is located after the two passengers had gone overboard as more than three hundred feet within New York; that is, to the north of the dividing line of the States where it crosses the lake.

HALF A MILLION WILL SIGN THE COVENANT

New York, Sept. 25. — A London cable to The Tribune this morning says: Three days hence the great loyalist campaign in Ulster against the passage of the Home Rule Bill will reach its culmination with the signing of the solemn league and covenant. The official programme announces solemn services in many churches on Ulster Day. Dr. McKenna, former Moderator of the Presbyterian Church of Ireland, assisted by clergy nominated by the Bishop of Down, will conduct a service in Ulster Hall, which Sir Edward Carson and other leaders will attend, and they will subsequently proceed to the City Hall in solemn procession for the signing of the covenant.

BUSY AT HEADQUARTERS

They will be met there by members of public bodies, and organized processions will march in later from the various districts.

The headquarters of the Ulster Unionist Council at the old town hall, Belfast, presented a scene of unwonted activity last evening. The staff is doing its best to meet the demand for books of the covenant and declaration forms, card texts of the covenant and parchment certificates.

What the demand is many be estimated by the fact that the number of orders far the covenant are approximately 500,000 and for the declaration 30,000. The covenant is to be signed by Ulster "men" over sixteen years old, and the declaration by Ulster "women" subject to the same age limit.

LORD TEMPLETOWN IS DEFIANT

Dromore, Ireland, Sept. 25.—Lord Templetown, representative Peer for Ireland, and founder of the Unionist Clubs of Ireland, declared last night "Once and for all, under no circumstances will the loyal people of Ireland consent to be governed by a priest-ridden parliament."

Lord Templetown spoke at a big demonstration of Ulster Day campaigners, and, in proposing an anti-Home Rule resolution, said that the movement was a spontaneous uprising.

MARRIAGES ARE FALLING OFF

So Is The Birth Rate in The British Isles

THE FAULT OF WOMEN

London to Honor Sarah Bernhardt—Kaiser Said to Be Contemplating A Private Visit to England—The War Scare Not Subdued.

London, Sept. 25.

THE official figures in the Register-General's returns, marriage is becoming rapidly unpopular. During the first three months of 1912 the marriage rate fell to 9.8 per 1,000 of the population, which is 1.5 below the marriage rate of the ten preceding firtt quarters, and is the lowest record of marriages since the establishment of civil registration in this country.

These alarming figures are rendered more significant by the corresponding decline in the birth rate of 2.9 per 1,000 below the mean birth rate in the ten preceding first quarters.

These figures are causing considerable discussion among scientists, and the belief that the falling marriage rate is due to the increasing love of pleasure and independence among young women is rapidly gaining ground in many quarters.

"I think the increasing unpopularity of marriage is undoubtedly due to the growth of independence among modern women, and I am sure there will be a still greater falling off in the marriage and birth rates in the future," said Dr. Ezekiel Boyd.

"Every year the women of Great Britain are taking a more active part in the business life of the nation. They are becoming perfectly capable of earning their own livelihood, which means that they have pleasures and pastimes of their own. This independent existence has its attractions, which are missing after marriage.

The German War Scare.

That war with Germany in the near future is bound to take place, is the belief of thousands of the best thinking men in England. The only way to avert it is for Germany to cease building battleships. There is no escape from the conflict in any other form.

Honors for Bernhardt in London.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will be fulfilling an engagement in this country at the time of her next birthday, October 23, when she will be 69. A number of her English admirers have decided that an address of congratulation shall be prepared and presented to her on the occasion, the signatures to be obtained from representatives of literature, the drama and art, and of the social life of the country generally. Blank sheets for signatures to be attached to the memorial are to be available at places of public resort, including theatres and clubs. The address, with the signatures, will afterwards be engrossed on vellum and bound as a volume.

ARMY TO OCCUPY BELFAST ON ULSTER OR COVENANT DAY

Mayor of City Is Notified That Several Battalions Will Arrive to Maintain Order When the Anti-Home Rule Protest Is Being Signed

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 25.—Large forces of troops are to be moved into Belfast in preparation for Ulster Day, September 28, when the anti-Home Rule Covenant is to be signed by the Unionists of that Province.

Orders were sent from headquarters at Dublin Castle to-day to Brigadier-General Count Gleichen, in command here, to that effect. He was informed that the first battalions would reach Belfast on the evening of September 27.

The Lord Mayor of Belfast, on whose requisition such steps are usually taken, has been informed that the troops are coming.

CANNON IN THIS PROCESSION

Portadown, Ireland, Sept. 25.—Rifles were carried by some of the battalions into which the members of the Unionist clubs were formed when they took part in a great procession this afternoon.

Two large cannons were also dragged along on gun carriages, while an ambulance in charge of sisters moved with the procession and carried a large supply of splints and bandages.

FEE FOR MR. FASKEN IS VERSION OF THE OWNER

Defendants Combat Toronto Barrister's Claim of 10 Per Cent. Commission

Toronto, Sept. 25.—David A. Dunlap, who, with John McMartin, Duncan McMartin, Louis Henry Timmins, is being sued for $600,000 commission by David Faskin, barrister, in connection with the La Rose flotation, was on the witness stand to-day, the seventh of the actual trial hearing before Chief Justice Falconbridge.

Mr. Dunlap said to Geo. H. Watson, K.C., for the defendants, that Mr. Fasken was to receive a fee.

"A legal fee?" asked Mr. Watson.

"I do not know that 'legal' was mentioned, but it was to be a fee."

"So much has been paid into court?" asked Mr. Watson, referring to the $50,000. "How was that arrived at?"

"We discussed it among ourselves near the end of the deal."

"The defendants say all along that Mr. Fasken was solicitor and counsel," observed the Chief Justice.

"In conversation did you ever acknowledge a commission?"

"No."

"It was a sale of shares?"

"Absolutely."

"Mr. Fasken says he was to be paid the 'usual' commission of 10 per cent. Would you have agreed to that?"

"No."

Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., for Mr. Fasken, cross-examined Mr. Dunlap.

Prof. Miller was given an option, said the witness.

"As to the commission to be paid to Prof. Miller?"

"Ten per cent," answered the witness, who added that he and his colleagues were willing to pay commission on a million-cash-down basis."

A COMMISSION MATTER

"So, on February 12, 1908, you were selling property and paying 10 per cent?"

"But the transactions were not similar."

"I may have overlooked that," explained Mr. Dunlap.

"Had Miller examined the property carefully?"

"Not at that time, but formerly for our benefit."

LOCAL BARBERS UNION ORDERS TWO MEN OUT OF A SHOP

Now that the recent Barbers' Union troubles in Toronto have attracted general attention, Peterborough is right in line with a small, but significant case of Barbers' Unionism. It seems that a Mr. Eggington, about a month ago started a cigar store and barber shop in the premises on George street familiarly known as Charles Legros. It is alleged that Mr. Eggington whilst employing two union barbers, duly supplied with necessary cards, has cut prices. The local barbers union demands 25 cents for a hair cut. It was reported to the union that this new arrival among local tonsorialists had framed up a little schedule of his own, whereby an "English" hair cut was done for 15 cents, whilst a "Canadian" hair cut cost the customer 20 cents. Either price being less than the union scale. Yesterday afternoon a committee of the local union got busy and Mr. Geo. Brousseau, the secretary, went to Mr. Eggington's shop and ordered out the two union employes. They left without demur, taking their cards along. Mr. Eggington, it is reported by Secretary Brousseau, said he would run his shop to suit himself and intimated that his employes and their cards might go. It seems that the local union is aware of a non-union barber shop operating on Water street. Still as the proprietors have kept the scale of prices and observe the union hours, nothing has been done to interfere in any way with the business referred to. It seems that the first of the union men ordered out is a newly arrived Scotchman. As soon as matters were explained to him, he said, "That's business, and business the way we do it in the old country." He left as quickly as though an automobile was at the door waiting to take him to the races.

FARMER IS NAMED AS TORY CANDIDATE

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 25.—Frightened at the last moment by the strength of reciprocity sentiment in Macdonald constituency, Sir Rodmond Roblin switched his candidate on the eve of the Conservative convention.—Sanford Evans, ex-Mayor, was already plumed and groomed for the candidacy, but the decision reached is to nominate Alex. Morrison, farmer, near Carman, whose farm adjoins that of Premier Roblin.

Morrison is nearing seventy. He was nominated last night.

LAMENTS THE LACK OF ENERGY IN THE EAST

Premier Matheson of Prince Edward Island Calls Attention to the Fact.

Winnipeg, Sept. 25.—Premier Matheson of Prince Edward Island, one of the best known public men in the Maritime Provinces, passing east today, said: "If we in the Maritime Provinces had a number of men who could realize the possibilities of those Provinces as you men in the West realize the possibilities of this great country, we would see more movement and advancement there than we have had yet. We have lost too many of our best, too much of that energy and courage has left the Maritime Provinces, and it is now engaged in building up the West. Perhaps in the West you have a little surplus of energy and courage, but in the East we have a large deficit, and we feel that we could do with some of that Western spirit, now that we are about to enter on a period of advancement and development."

FIREMEN OF LINER MAJESTIC STRIKE

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 25.—The firemen of the White Star Liner Majestic refused to go on duty when the vessel was on the point of departing for New York to-day. They declared the stoke hold of the vessel was undermanned and declined to sail unless more men were engaged.

The steamer was delayed for only a short time, however, as some of the men were induced to return and the vacancies caused by the strikers leaving the ship were filled by men from the quay side.

LORD KITCHENER WARNED

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 60 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario Manager, 46 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 10c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, cleanses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 380 George St. directly opposite Croesman's store.

London Has More Drunks.

Drunkenness seems to be on the increase—especially in London.

"For the first time since this series of statistics began," says a blue-book for 1911, issued recently, "the total number of convictions for drunkenness in England and Wales shows an increase over the previous year—and an increase which takes the total to a height which has not been reached since 1906."

The figures rose from 161,992 in 1910 to 172,130 in 1911—an increase of 10,138, or 6.26 per cent.

Although women shared in the general increase for drunkenness in 1911, they did so at a lower rate and show a lower proportion to the total than in previous years.

Some interesting relations between drunkenness and the weather are touched upon in the report.

Fine outdoor weather is inimical to drinking, for the fine and warm months of July and August, 1911, when heat, one might think, would naturally beget excessive thirst, show a sharp fall in convictions for drunkenness.

In December, on the other hand, which was exceptionally wet, the returns were exceptionally high.

Point Worth Noting.

Although Sir W. S. Gilbert has passed away it must not be assumed that his plays are everybody's property. An amateur dramatic club in Brisbane, the metropolis of Queensland, has just been prosecuted by Lady Gilbert for producing "Pygmalion and Galatea" without permission. She was awarded $100 and costs. The defence was that "the play was so old that it was thought the copyright had run out," and that the proceeds of the performance were given to charity. Governor Lord Chelmsford, Chief Justice Sir Pope Cooper, and other prominent persons gave their patronage to the performance, and there was laughter when the judge called them "aiders and abettors."

THE REWARD OF ART.

Sometimes It Is Munificent and Sometimes It Is Pitiable.

In art, as in most other professions, the "plums" fall into the hands of the few. A Sargent or a Herkomer may make his $25,000 in twelve months by his brushes. Mr. "Dauber," who started his career with equal promise, may barely earn the check that pays his frame maker's bill.

Jean Francis Millet lived and died a peasant, though he could wear the ribbon of the Legion of Honor. It was the proudest day of his life when he received $300 for the "Angelus," which a generation later was sold for $116,130 at the Secretan sale. John Crome was glad to pocket a dollar apiece for pictures, any one of which would be snapped up to-day for hundreds of dollars. George Morland parted with many a masterpiece for the price of an evening's carouse, and Rembrandt's canvases are valued to-day at $20,000,000, yet he left nothing to his heirs beyond his clothes and his paint brushes.

And who will say that these magicians of the palette were less skillful than the Orchardsons and Alma-Tademas of later years, whose canvases, with the paint scarcely dry on them, were exchanged for $10,000 or $15,000 each; than Frank Holl, who painted $100,000 worth of portraits in a single year; of Landseer, whose estate was sworn at $800,000?

To-day the painting of pictures for nineteen artists out of twenty is a costly hobby, which leaves little margin for even such a modest luxury as marmalade. For every score of canvases that are fit to adorn the walls of Burlington House there is barely one purchaser, and he has a keen eye to a bargain.

Take two typical cases known to the writer. Both men are highly trained artists, whose academy pictures are seldom branded with the fatal "R." One of these men confessed that he had barely $500 to show as the net result of 2,000 hours of industry last year. The other who had a canvas "on the line" before he saw his twenty-first birthday, was glad to sell his latest picture, the fruit of six months' work, for less than its frame cost.

Meal and Flour From Bananas.

There are in Jamaica six factories manufacturing figs, chips, meal and flour from bananas. During the season at which the fruit is cheapest all of these plants are run at their maximum capacity. The methods of drying the fruit are different in different plants, though all resort, I believe, to a hot air process. It takes about 400 to 500 pounds of the fruit to manufacture 100 pounds of meal.

The banana fig is as palatable as the natural fig and resembles it closely in color. It has replaced the natural fig in many markets in which it has been introduced. The chips are sold principally for breakfast foods, being made into a porridge.

A SCARE IN MIDAIR.

Thrilling Incident in the Early Career of a Steeplejack.

Bill Dodson is a steeplejack. He has steeplejacked for a long time. He learned the business from his father, who steeplejacked before him. And he really likes his dangerous profession.

"Don't you ever get scared, Bill?" he is often asked.

"Sometimes," replies Bill truthfully. "But not often. I used to get good and scared, though, when I was a youngster and just breaking in. I remember one of my first jobs.

"I was working with my father on the roof of a big church in a city of some size. It was a big job, but we were handling it together—just the two of us. The flag pole needed repairing and there was a big gilt cross that was loose and had to be fixed. It was some ticklish job.

"As I worked away up there in the air I got to thinking. I didn't become frightened or anything like that, exactly, but I just began to reflect on things. I considered possibilities and consequences and results, you know, and that sort of thing. Then, without thinking to alarm my father at all, I called out quite casually:

"'Say, dad, do you ever feel like jumping off?'

"I simply wanted to know, that was all. But my father was alarmed. He took mighty good care not to let me know it, though.

"'You just sit there a minute and hold on tight,' he said soothingly. 'I want to see you for a minute. I'll be down in a minute.'

"Well, sir, he shinned down the pole faster than I'd ever seen him slide before. Then he grabbed up a coil of rope, which he had lying across the roof ready for use, and came over to where I sat, close to the edge. He never let on what he wanted until he was close up on me.

"Then he made a spring and grabbed me. I thought for a minute we'd both go over. By Jove, but he was excited after he'd nailed me. He wrapped that rope around me and tied me up against the base of the flag pole until I couldn't move.

"Then he went back to the pole and as he climbed he called back:

"'Now I guess you're all right. Just keep right on looking down. It's a long way, isn't it? A fall wouldn't be very nice. Well, you're going to stay right where you are, my boy, trussed up like a turkey, until you don't feel like jumping off. And if necessary you'll sit there all night.'

"By evening I was convinced that I would never jump off a building, and I am still of that opinion. It was the best lesson I ever had."

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

This great family journal has reached the conclusion that all that can be said of September is that it happens to be the month when huckleburries get ripe.

It is said that sixty people were injured in a football game in Ireland. Evidently the players and the spectators forgot all about the ball and began kicking each other.

Our local Liberal friends are preparing to make the welkin ring on the occasion of Sir Wilfrid's visit on Tuesday next. They should see that the welkin is in good running order.

London Daily Chronicle calls the Unionists of Ulster "cowards." Some twenty thousand people were in Peterborough that 12th of July to see the same class of "cowards" march through our streets

Now that Premier Borden has announced that parliament will be called together in November, to pass the Government's naval bill, the opposition press will keep on insisting that there is no naval policy to deal with.

The Indians of Peterborough district will join in extending a welcome to their big white chief, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was made a member of the Indian tribes of Quebec many moons ago. Perhaps the fierce manner in which he wields the political tomahawk may have something to with it.

Instructor McKay recently gave the Times a short description of his experience in the English Army in India. He noted that a detachment of privates is sent, at regular intervals to "test the beer" to be furnished to the troops by government contractors. Even this free beer need not cause an exodus of thirsty souls from Peterborough to India. Instead of pink snakes with purple wings and golden eyes usually seen by topers, the beer testers are liable to meet with the genuine cobra, the spectacled death who, whilst usually trying to escape an argument, means business and death when he strikes.

A CITY WITHOUT FLIES.

According to a report of Consul J. J. Brittain, who represents the United States in Prague, a fly-swatting campaign is not necessary in that city, because great care is taken to prevent the breeding of flies that may serve as carriers of disease germs.

Mr. Brittain says the buildings are all constructed of brick, stone or concrete, while the docks along the river front are of granite. The pavement and sidewalks are made of granite blocks, and no decayed animal or vegetable matter is openly exposed to flies. The streets are frequently cleaned during the day, and there are no open drains to attract and breed flies.

The absence of flies noted by all strangers is the result of persistent and intelligent efforts to keep the city clean. In consequence, three or four flies in a season is the maximum number of the insects that ever visit a dining room, although wire screens are not used. Prague, of coursem is a poor place for dealers in flypaper or fly-screens, but it furnishes a good example of what to do to eradicate the fly pest and the disease caused by it.

Are You Droopy, Tired, Worn Out?

Here Is Good Advice To All Who Feel as if Their Vigor and Life Had All Oozed Away.

This Condition Can be Quickly Cured By a good Cleansing Medicine.

Your experience is probably somewhat similar to that described by Mr. J. T. Fleming, in the following letter from his home in Lebanon: "I think I must have the most sluggish sort of a liver. In the morning my mouth was bitter, and that foul, soft feeling that tells you 'No breakfast needed here this morning.' A cup of coffee would sort of brace me up, but in two hours I was disposed to quit work, all energy having oozed out of me. Supper was my only good meal, but I guess I didn't digest very well, for I dreamt to beat the band. A friend of mine put me wise to Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I think they must have taken hold of my liver, perhaps my stomach, too, because at the very start they made things go right. Look at me now—not sleepy in the day-time, but hustling for the mighty dollar and getting fun out of life every minute. That's what Dr. Hamilton's Pills have done for me—they have rebuilt, and rejuvenated my entire system."

To keep free from headaches, to feel young and bright, to enjoy your meals, to sleep sound and look your best, nothing can help like Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, five for $1.00 at all druggists and storekeepers or postpaid from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

THE AGONY OF THE OYSTER!

A celebrated and humane scientist has recently printed in eloquent and melodramatic colors the agony which the oyster suffers when he is served on the "half shell." He intimates that if we could conceive of the suffering that the bivalve undergoes when put before the epicure, we would in the spirit of Christian charity, banish them forever from our menu. Now, we don't want to be unreasonable or cruel about this matter, and, especially, we do not wish ever to seem to antagonize that most admirable organization, the S.P.C.A. which is doing such kindly work in ameliorating the condition of our "poor relations." We are willing to give an anaesthetic to the fly and the mosquito before "swatting" them. But we firmly and politely draw the line at the "blue point." We meekly accept the comprehensive doctrine of evolution. We have no doubt that the oyster is a "progressive," that in time, he will climb the dizzy heights of intelligent being and obtain the organs and distinct vocalization. Possibly he may, in the dim future, recall the story of the sufferings he has endured at the hands of his human brother. But we are skeptical as to his ability now to convey to this astute scientist, or any of his brethren, the present story of his wrongs.

How does this gentleman know that the oyster regards himself as a martyr to the human appetite! Who ever heard him murmur or saw him wriggle? Possibly the bivalve philosophy may be pure altruism. Each individual oyster may be instructed from infancy that it is his highest privilege to be sacrificed for the superior race. Look at the bees and learn wisdom. A whole mass of gentleman bees are born who have no apparent occupation except to sit around and wait till the queen selects her husband. And then the lady bees throw them out of the hive. They could put up a pretty stiff fight if they were so disposed, but they are carefully instructed in the doctrine of female suffrage, and made to understand that it is their chiefest privilege to be sacrificed to the aristocracy. Who can confidently assert that the humble and submissive oyster may not be a disciple of the same school of altruism! Besides, these scientific gentlemen do not consider that the oyster may be endowed with social ambition. Born in the lowest and humblest sphere of life, he may rejoice at the distinction of being taken out of the mud, served on the finest china by obsequious waiters and surrounded by all the magnificence that wealth can command. Think of what social humiliations some of our nouveau riche are subjected to when climbing the ladder of European social distinction. Think of the snubs they meekly accept; the social recognitions for which they pay the price of solid coin. The gratitude of the oyster on the half-shell when he first finds himself a recognized factor in aristocratic society may resemble that of the gentleman who was held up by footpads. The paper said that he had just deposited $50,000 in the bank. So he lost nothing but his life.

THAT PRISON FARM.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I read your article about the jail farm, as proposed by you and think your suggestion is well worth practical adoption. As you very properly say most of the prisoners in the Peterborough jail are there for minor offences. Why keep them cooped up in a company that may include some "black sheep." A poor fellow addicted to drink who may be sent to jail for his own ultimate good, would recover the health, snap and vigor to fight temptation if he were enabled to work in God's fresh air on a farm. The farm as you say would soon become self-sustaining, if not a little better.

"THE POPE IS KING."

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The Times will confer a favor on a large number of its readers if it will publish the following, which appeared in last week's issue of the Orange Sentinel:

"The other night a Masonic Preceptory and a lodge of the Knights of Columbus were meeting in different rooms of the same building in Toronto. The members of both societies wore somewhat similar uniforms. During the evening a uniformed man advanced to the Masonic tyler and whispered in his ear, "The Pope is King." "Not by a —— sight," said the tyler. "The Pope isn't King here You're in the wrong stall." The incident caused much amusement in the corridors.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space. I am, etc.,

THE MIDWAY TROUBLE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The fall fair is over and was a success. The financial part of its success was due in no small part by money paid by concession holders. These men make the midway and the midway is what attracts many of the people of the city, thus, again helping the fair. Did it not look rather picayune and trifling to fine those men who sold "throws" or rings for a cent each? Any boy or man going to the midway of the fair, with a few nickles in his pockets to spend on fun, does so in the "carnival spirit." He does not expect to win a gold watch or an automobile. He is simply out for an afternoon's fun and could not get it cheaper than a cent a ring. The fear is that, whilst the prosecution of the concession holders was not the fault of the fair directors, the report will spread that Peterborough is too straight laced and the class who make the midway will be scared off next year.

TELLS OF DICKENS' CHILDREN

Times' Dictionary a Treasury of Literary Knowledge.

A HELP AT EVERY TURN.

Just now the centenary of Charles Dickens, the great English novelist, is being celebrated in various ways. Stamps are being sold for the benefit of his children's children, and the children born of his wonderful imagination and knowledge of human nature are being discussed more than ever before.

In this instance THE TIMES DICTIONARY will be found a timely aid. If you hear or read of a Pecksniff, a Pickwick, or a Pinch, and do not understand the reference, look the name up in the Treasury of Facts at the back of the Webster's New Illustrated Dictionary and you will be enlightened by the clear and concise statements found there.

The Times is passing out hundreds of volumes of this valuable work from the DICTIONARY DEPARTMENT hourly in exchange for six consecutive coupons clipped from issues of "THE ONLY" and a small expense bonus. You can choose your binding from all silk cloth to the fine limp leather book that looks like a Bible.

YOU CAN UNDERSTAND WHAT YOU ARE READING.

A SPLENDID CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT

A GRAND CHANCE TO INVEST

The phenominal growth of Calgary, Alta., is too generally known to require comment. Calgary seems to have an extraordinary future. Already it is practically impossible to rent a residence at any figure within reach of the average man's pocket. This means that a demand exists and will rapidly grow for building lots near the city. Attention is called to the advertisement of Dundurn Park lots, contained in this issue.

These lots, sold at the small sum of $100 and upwards, are most advantageously located and must increase in value rapidly. Since first insertion of the advertisement, a jockey club has been formed in Calgary, with large capital. This company has an option on land adjoining Dundurn Park. Here they will erect a modern and expensive grand stand and complete other improvements. This will naturally advance the price of the lots mentioned. Those seeking a safe and lucrative investment should write to Mr. D. Hope, manager, Dundurn Syndicate, Room 5,

It is said that the German Emperor retains very pleasant recollections of his stay at Highcliffe on Christchurch Bay a few years ago, and he is inclined to repeat the experiment. A peculiarity of that pleasant seaside resort is the fact that, owing to the nature of the subsoil, rain water drins off as if by magic. Half an hour after a storm, if the sun breaks out the roadways are quite dry again. The scenery is in the neighborhood of the New Forest is of a delightful nature, and, as a motoring centre, Highcliffe can hasdly be excelled.

New British Uniform.

The new uniform to be worn by officers has now been passed officially. The existing collar of the field service dress jacket has been abolished in favor of the open front and step-collar that is already worn by the Brigade of Guards. The whole contrivance is very much on the same lines as the collar of an ordinary civilian's lounge jacket, save that the opening is less deep. Badges, such as collar badges and gorget patches, will be worn on the lapels of the step-collar. The skirts of the coat are lengthened and a slit introduced at the back.

Martyrdom of the Bride.

A peculiar and barbaric marriage custom of the Kabyle women of Africa consists in the martyrdom of the bride, who, clad in her wedding finery, stands through an entire morning against a pillar in the village square, her eyes closed, her arms pressed to her sides and with only the narrow base of the column for a foothold, the while a ring of villagers criticise and comment on her appearance.—Argonaut.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Increasing stocks of wheat proved too much of a burden today for prices. The market for the cereal closed weak, a shade to ½c net lower. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅝c down; oats off ⅛c to ⅜c, and provisions varying from 2½c decline to 2½c advance.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 25.—On the wheat market today trading was active in futures and prices generally stronger. October and December oats futures unchanged to ⅛c higher, while flax for October was stronger, but closed unchanged.

Receipts were heavy, 630 cars in sight for inspection.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable was dull, as the prices were one cent to two cents out of line, but the demand for Duluth wheat is fairly good and a steady trade is being worked. The condition of the market for oats is unchanged, prices being strong and supplies limited. A fair business is doing in Manitoba barley over the cable. The local and country demand for old crop spring wheat flour is increasing, and the market is more active at steady prices. Millfeed is scarce and firm, with a good demand. Butter is stronger, and prices are tending upward. Cheese is fairly active and firmer. Exports for week, 64,564 boxes, against 77,597 last year. Demand for eggs good. Dressed hogs advanced 25c to 50c.

DULUTH, Sept. 25.—Close—Wheat—New, No. 1 hard, 91⅜c; No. 1 northern, 90⅜c; No. 2 northern, 88⅜c; September, 89⅜c to 90⅜c; December, 89⅜c asked; May, 93⅜c asked.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ended Sept. 21 were 1700 cattle, 3100 sheep and lambs, 2900 hogs and 540 calves, while the supply on the market this morning for sale amounted to 1100 cattle, 2400 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs and 300 calves.

A firmer feeling prevailed in the market for really choice steers, owing to the continued scarcity of such, but the offerings of all other grades were ample to fill the requirements, and prices ruled steady. The quality of the stock coming forward is far from being up to the mark, owing to the fact that farmers thruout the country are disposing of all their young cattle on account of the high prices ruling for feed. The gathering of buyers was fairly large, and, as they all wanted some beef, the demand was good, and an active trade was done. A few choice steers sold as high as $7 to $7.25, while full loads of good cattle brought from $6 to $6.50 per 100 pounds.

An active trade continues to be done in lambs, owing to the fact that butchers and packers are now putting them away for their winter requirements, but, as supplies are coming forward freely, the tone of the market was easier than a week ago, and prices ruled 25c per 100 pounds lower, with sales of Quebec stock at $5.25 to $5.75, and Ontario at $6 to $6.25 per 100 pounds. There was also a weaker feeling in the market for sheep, and prices declined 25c to 50c per 100 pounds. The demand for calves was good at firm prices.

EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hull up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or to-morrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

NELSON'S PERPETUAL LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia and Research Bureau is approved, adopted and used in the—

Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia is used in all parts of the civilized world. Also by the King of England, Premier of Canada, Premier of Ontario, Mikado of Japan; and State Departments throughout the world.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—

"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not up-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—

"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wyer, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Literary and Scientific Institute writes:—

"The name of 'Nelson,' and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia.

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

Why He Sees Double.

The reason that a man sees double who has gazed too long on the wine when it is red is that the nerve centres are changed by the action of the alcohol. There is a want of harmony in the action of the muscles which move the eyeballs. Consequently instead of both eyes being focused simultaneously on an object one eye receives an impression independently of the other. The two impressions are communicated to the brain, and the object is therefore seen twice. The inflamed condition and loss of energy in the brain centres from overdoses of alcohol also account for the staggering gait of an intoxicated man.

HENRY BELL'S COMET.

The First Steamer That Plied For Hire in Great Britain.

Among the curiosities of advertising may surely be placed the first advertisement of the first steamer that plied for hire in Great Britain—namely, Henry Bell's Comet. Thus ran the advertisement in the Glasgow Courier of 1812:

"Steam passage boat, the Comet, between Glasgow, Greenock and Helensburg. For passengers only. The subscriber having at much expense fitted up a handsome vessel to ply upon the river Clyde between Glasgow and Greenock—to sail by the power of wind, air and steam—he intends that the vessel shall leave the Broomielaw on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays about midday or at such time thereafter as may answer from the state of the tide and to leave Greenock on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays in the morning to suit the tide. The elegance, comfort, safety and speed of this vessel require only to be proved to meet the approbation of the public, and the proprietor is determined to do everything in his power to merit public encouragement. The terms are for the present 4 shillings for the best cabin and 3 shillings for the second, but beyond these rates nothing is to be allowed to servants or any other person employed about the vessel."

What would poor neglected Henry Bell have said could he have seen his humble little Comet, of whose elegance, comfort and speed he was so proud, alongside a modern ocean racer or one of the latest palatial river steamers of the Clyde or Thames, all so well advertised?—Chambers' Journal.

THE GOLDFINCH.

Changes In Plumage That Are Puzzling to the Novice.

Most every one in America is acquainted with the goldfinch, but many people know the bird by the name of lettuce bird on account of its bright yellow color. Goldfinch is a very appropriate name, as the bright yellow of the male when he is in breeding plumage is like burnished gold. The female goldfinch is more modestly dressed than her mate. The changes in plumage of the male are very interesting and to the novice somewhat puzzling.

Until the student becomes acquainted with the bird he may wonder why he sees no males during the winter. The truth is at this season the flocks of supposed female goldfinches are really of both sexes, the male bird having assumed in the previous fall, usually by the end of October, a plumage closely resembling that of the female and young bird of the year. The male retains this inconspicuous dress until late in February, when one can notice a gradual change taking place in some of the birds.

This renewal of feathers is actively continued through March and April, and by May 1 our resplendent bird is with us again. The song period with the male goldfinch continues as long as he wears his gold and black livery, for it commences as early as the middle of March and ends late in August.

A Successful Interview.

The late Arthur McEwan when he was working on a San Francisco newspaper was attracted by the activities of a politician who was vulgar, illiterate and hideously ungrammatical in his method of expression. McEwan looked up this man and had a talk with him. Then he went back to the office and wrote the interview in the most perfect English, brilliant, polished and crammed the story full of classical allusions, quotations and big words. It was a most scholarly production, and McEwan considered the entire great. Next day McEwan had a call from the politician. "I wanter thank yer for that interview," he said. "It's bully. Just what I said. You must be a grand shorthand reporter."—Saturday Evening Post.

A Rash Awakening.

Sleeping on a mat under the moon in a cannibal country is a pale adventure compared with a lodge in an old-time Irish inn at the height of the tourist season.

A certain Master of the Galway Hunt arrived at a small inn where all the beds were already taken. A kitchen table was requisitioned, a heterogeneous collection of bedclothes being arranged upon it, into the exact nature of which it was perhaps not well to inquire too closely, as it seemed to be composed of contributions from the wardrobes of the hotel help, and the sportsman turned in.

The pillow was an odd-shaped substance, emitting a faint and strangely familiar odor; but the Master of the Galway Blazers was too weary to concern himself over such trifles, and he slept as soundly on his makeshift couch as if it had been a canopied bed of state.

He was awakened in the morning by a gentle fumbling at the wrappings beside his couch, and started up to see a gleaming knife suspended above his head.

"I'm sorry to be disturbin' ye, sir," said an apologetic voice, "but sure th' house was out iv pillows intirely, an' we put th' side iv bacon undher y'r honor's head. I was just conthrivin' to get a few rashers off for the quality's breakfast without disturbin' ye, whin y'r honor woke up."

Quaint Oaths.

The first appearance in an English Divorce Court of the Chinese form of oath by breaking a saucer recalls other quaint forms of swearing.

In Assam the oath is taken by standing within a rope circle, to imply a wish to rot as the rope does if the swearer does not tell the truth. In lawsuits between Russians and the Ostiaks of Siberia a bear's head is brought into court, and the Ostiak, making the gesture of eating, calls on the bear to devour him if he lies.

There are tribes of India that swear by the head of a tiger, while others chop a dog in two as emblematic of the fate of the perjurer. But the simplest method is that of the Quaker, who swears not at all, but just tells what he thinks.

Let It Stand.

While going by a meat store yesterday Fogg noticed a sign in the window: "Rib roast—no waist." Of course he had to go in and correct the meat man in his spelling. "Thanks," said the proprietor, "you're the fourteenth person who dropped in to set me right on that sign, and I sold ten of 'em cuts of meat. I guess I'll let the word stand as it is."

When Fogg came out he had a package under his arm.

Marriage Bargains.

Mr. Geo. A. Birmingham, the well-known English writer, says there is no country in the world where marriage, at least in the peasant class, is more a matter of bargaining, and yet shows a higher average of stability and content, than Ireland. Sometimes the man has never seen the woman before they are brought together, the precise number of pounds, cows, or pigs to be handed over having been by that time settled.

This is illustrated in personal recollections just published by an Irish lady. She was visiting with an aunt a cottage in the neighborhood, and admired a fine mahogany chest of drawers.

"'Twas for that I was married," said the mistress of the cottage. A young farmer had also seen and admired. A bargain was struck. There was no money, but the bride was to have a couple of sheep, a yearling bullock, and the chest. The prudent young man measured it, and then turned and asked:

"An' which o' thim little girls is it?"

She as the oldest unmarried—"mind the doors," as the phrase was. "An' so I wint," she said, "and was happy ever afterwards."

WEALTHY CHINESE IN SLAVE TRAFFIC

Cleveland Police Make Raid On Alleged Clearinghouse.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—An after-midnight raid on a Prospect avenue house, constituting a portion of police war against the alleged white slave "clearinghouse" here, resulted in the arrest of Ida Pheillips, early this morning on a white slavery charge. Blanche Vernon, an eighteen-year-old girl, is held as a witness. Two other women escaped by jumping from upper story windows.

The police say they have discovered a wealthy Chinese of Cleveland and Pittsburg to be at the head of an organized clique which is working in the interest of the white slave trade. They say, too, that a Cleveland banker is implicated in the ring.

The Chief Whip.

A Ministerial Chief Whip has plenty to do in these days, but one duty of his office has disappeared. Under "wooden spoon" Hotten's Slang Dictionary quotes from The Illustrated Times: "Every year at the close of the session, as our readers know, the Ministers dine together at the Trafalgar. Well, after dinner, the Chief Whip produces his account and reads it aloud; and it is said that the man whose name appears in the division list the smallest number of times has a wooden spoon presented to him. When the Derbyites were in power last, Sir John Pakington, it is asserted, was the successful candidate for the spoon, Mr. Whiteside presenting it to the right honorable baronet with infinite humor and fun." Obviously the idea was borrowed from the wooden spoon bestowed upon the last junior optime in the Cambridge Mathematical Tripos.

Sir Herbert's Wit.

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, the famous English actor-manager, has a reputation as a wit also.

When he appeared at the Palace recently, a fellow variety artist, given to hailing everybody by Christian name, saluted him with "Hallo, Herbert!" Sir Herbert, who was accompanied at the moment by Lady Tree, responded by shaking hands and asking leave to introduce "My wife, Maud."

One day, at rehearsal, Sir Herbert asked a youthful actor to "Step back a little." The player did so. Tree eyed him critically—and went on rehearsing. After a time he repeated the request. "A little further back." The youth obeyed. Surveying him, Tree went on with his work. Shortly afterwards he again asked him to step still further back. "If I do," expostulated the youth, "I shall be right off the stage." "Yes," said Tree, "That's right."

Afraid of Spies.

British pilots are strongly opposed to a new bill which allows foreigners to serve as pilots on English ships. They consider this a danger in case of war, referring to the cases of several Germans who, after learning all about the English coasts as pilots, subsequently became officers on German men-of-war.

No Children Allowed.

Under the new coal mines act in Great Britain boys under fourteen cannot be employed in coal mines.

THE STREET PERFORMER

DEAN OF LONDON'S PAVEMENT SHOWMEN TELLS STORY.

William Burton, Aged Eighty-Four, Is To Be Seen In All Weathers Giving His Performance In the West End —He Was Wealthy In the Days of the Australian Gold Rush — His Wife Helps Him In His Show.

A small bamboo table, a perforated box containing a trained guinea-pig, a pack of cards, a few needles, an old army sword, and an inexhaustible flow of patter—these form the stock-in-trade of London's oldest showman, Mr. William Burton, who, in spite of his eighty-four years, is usually to be seen in all weathers giving his performance in the streets of the West End of the metropolis.

"It is not exactly affluence," he remarked the other day to a newspaperman, who had stopped to admire the intelligence of his guinea pig and the clever thought-reading and card tricks of Mrs. Burton, and had afterwards drifted into conversation with the old showman. "But I suppose I have had my innings, although it has not been a very bright one of late years. However, we must learn to take the rough with the smooth. I seem to have started life in the rough.

"As a boy I was apprenticed to a Thames lighterman, but the hardships of the life were such that I determined to run away, and stowed myself aboard the Essex, a sailing ship bound for Melbourne. Stowaways were not treated very considerately in those days, but fortunately the captain of the Essex, when I was discovered a few days after the ship had been at sea, proved a kindly man, and allowed me to earn my food by doing odd jobs for the cook. After seven months' voyage I landed in Melbourne with a few shillings in my pocket, and ultimately fell in with a man who was traveling with a small circus.

"A showman's life had always attracted me, and as I was rather clever at doing acrobatic tricks and riding horses he allowed me to join the circus; and it as thus, at seventeen years of age, that I entered upon the showman's business, and I have been at it ever since—sometimes up, sometimes down."

"There was, however, money to be made at the showman's business in those days?"

"Plenty of it—particularly among settlers on the goldfields. Indeed, I saved enough when I was twenty-four to start a small circus of my own, with two riders, six horses, a clown, and some acrobats, and with this circus I toured the goldfields round about Ballarat, Bendigo, and many other places. But those were rough days. Transportation was still in force. Australia was flooded with convicts, and many a time when I was on the road I witnessed strange and violent scenes.

"Nevertheless, I got on very well until I was induced to put my money into various speculations, with the result that I lost it all. I managed to get together another circus, however. I went to Japan, and came back with a troupe of Japanese wire-walkers and tumblers, and also got together some eighty horses, a dramatic company, and some acrobats. It was a splendid show, and with it I traveled with a partner all over Australia, New Zealand, Tasmania, and Queensland, sometimes taking as much as $1,250 a night.

"But it was too good to last. Dame Fortune seemed to have a grudge against me, and one night, while doing some trick riding, I fell and broke my leg. This seemed to be the commencement of a series of calamities. I was unable to attend to the business properly through ill-health, and the upshot of it all was that I was obliged to sell up everything and come back to England.

"That was some thirty years ago. Then I went into the variety business and secured some lucrative engagements as a conjurer and acrobat, but, of course, I was no longer a youngster. However, I toured most of the countries on the continent, but gradually engagements became few and far between; the showman of the old days apparently was not wanted, and—well, I dropped out."

"But not to give up?"

"Oh, no. I felt that I was still good for a number of years, and looked around for some odd jobs. Friends in the music hall profession helped me, but I have always felt that there are so many more deserving cases than my own that I have hesitated about accepting their help."

"The profession is not what it used to be, then?"

"Far from it. I know scores of young men, clever artistes in their way, walking about the streets to-day who are unable to obtain engagements. What do they do? Same as myself—give a performance in the street and live on the coppers of passers-by. It is mainly owing, I am afraid, to cinematograph shows, which have taken much money from the music halls. But what a wonderful show you can get in some of these picture palaces! When funds permit I pay my penny and go into a picture palace in South London. And when I think of the entertainment I get for my penny and compare it with what we used to give in the old days for sixpence and a shilling, I don't wonder that the old showman's days are over.

"I find it more difficult to get a living every day. But then, as I have said before, I am getting old. I can no longer perform the tricky sword feat of cutting an apple placed on my wife's forehead, but must content myself with cracking a few of the old wheezes and making my little guinea pig stand on its hind legs."

Mrs. Burton, it might be mentioned, contributes one or two interesting items to the program. In one of these tricks she appears to swallow a number of needles and a tiny ball of cotton, and then draws the needles from her throat already threaded; while for another trick she is blindfolded and then tells the cards you have drawn from the pack.

Why He Sees Double.

The reason that a man sees double who has gazed too long on the wine when it is red is that the nerve centers are changed by the action of the alcohol. There is a want of harmony in the action of the muscles which move the eyeballs. Consequently instead of both eyes being focused simultaneously on an object one eye receives an impression independently of the other. The two impressions are communicated to the brain, and the object is therefore seen twice. The inflamed condition and loss of energy in the brain centres from overdoses of alcohol also account for the staggering gait of an intoxicated man.

BIG SHIP BUILDING

The Planning and Constructing of an Ocean Liner.

FIRST A MINIATURE IS MADE.

This Small Model Is Then Thoroughly Tested, and the Story It Tells When Perfected Will Be the Story of the New Vessel When Launched.

Building a modern ocean liner is an interesting and complicated operation. The ship's plan is first prepared in sections from owners' specifications, on a scale of a quarter or half an inch to the foot. One set of drawings, called the "sheer draft," is a plan of the ship's skeleton or framework without the plates, the internal deck, bulkhead and hold arrangements being indicated by a series of detailed drawings.

Follows then the experimental stage. A wooden block or casting of paraffin wax is first made to scale from the ship's plans and tested in a large tank about 800 feet in length and eight feet deep. The model, weighted to the load line, is towed to and fro by an overhead traverser at varying speeds.

Delicate instruments register the exact "pull," the displacement, the stability and a host of other information. The shape of the model is altered again and again, pieces being shaved off here and others there. The final results are carefully tabulated, and from this ship in embryo the builders complete their plans.

Inside the central shed, 250 yards long and 150 feet in height, the ship's berth has meantime been prepared. Thousands of wooden piles, about thirty feet in length, have been driven by pile drivers deep into the ground. On these are laid huge beams and the floor completed with stout planks. Then in the center the keel blocks, surmounted by oak caps in groups of five, are assembled on a falling gradient to the river of about half an inch a foot.

All is now ready for the reception of the ponderous keel. This—the backbone of the ship—is of huge strength, measuring four feet across, and is three and a quarter inches thick. Parallel with the keel, but above it and attached by angle bars, is the central girder, five feet high, the space between forming the double bottom. On each side, at regular distances running lengthwise, are seven other girders, the outer one called the "margin plate."

The water tight chambers are formed by vertical partitions of plates extending above and beneath the floors up to the margin plate on each side.

After the great cast steel stern frame and the stem bar for the bows have been attached the plating begins. The steel strips of varying sizes, but averaging thirty-four feet in length and about three tons in weight each, which form the skin of the ship, are laid on in strakes like the bricks in a wall. Fitting these strakes to the shape of a ship is a critical business. A thin wooden pattern or template is first prepared for each plate and clamped in position on the ship's side. With minute care every detail is marked on it—the size and shape, the overlap and the rivet holes.

It is then transferred to its prototype, the steel plate, which is cut, punched and bent by wonderful machinery that slices steel strips, punches rivet holes and bends steel plate as easily and cleanly as though the material were paper. Nimble traveling cranes on gantries under the roof pick up the huge plates when ready and convey them to their appointed place, where the hydraulic riveter—a mechanical marvel—with irresistible force and rapidity drives each rivet home. In the building of a modern liner over 4,000,000 rivets are used. Each joint is rendered water tight by calking.

The outer shell finished and the inside work far advanced, the builders turn their attention to the problem of the launch, the weight of the vessel at this point on the keel blocks being something like 15,000 tons. The launching ways, sloping gently to the water, are prepared, and cradles, fore and aft, to guide the ship, are erected with huge wooden beams, the whole being finally lubricated by tallow and train oil.

Amid acclamation the ship receives its baptism and, whether for weal or woe, takes to its element. Still helpless, though, its motive power lacking, it is afterward moored to the works wharf under a 150 ton titan crane, whereby its boilers—twenty-five of them—are lowered into the abyss of the hold and a multitude of fittings connected with the engines.

Dwarfing all else for size come next the four funnels, towering 150 feet above keel level and large enough for two tramcars to be drawn through abreast. These are fixed on the gigantic "uptakes," connecting with the boilers by a network of flues.

A host of auxiliary machinery for lighting, ventilating, pumping and steering the ship, as well as the passenger lifts, is being installed at the same time as a swarm of men work day and night on the internal decorations. Electricians encircle the ship with a girdle of light and install a telephone and electric call service with 800 stations.

In the chart room is fitted a wonderful clock, which controls, synchronically, fifty other clocks in different parts of the ship. The lofty Marconi mast is linked up with the mysterious instruments in the wireless cabin. Then, at last, after many months of toil, comes the welcome day when the great ship, pride of her builders, sails forth upon its trial trip.—London Answers.

Mr. Lloyd-George's Head.

Mr. Lloyd-George's head, according to an expert in phrenology, has increased in size from 23 inches to over 23 1-4 inches during the last eight or nine years. The circumference of M. Paderewski's head is 23 1-4 inches; that of Kubeli is 23 1-4 inches; Mark Hambourg, 23 1-2 inches; George Robey, 23 1-2 inches; Harry Lauder, 23 5-8 inches; Robert Blatchford, 23 1-4 inches; and Sir Robertson Nicol, 23 1-4 inches.

Sir George Alexander and Sir Hiram Maxim each claim 24 inches; Sir Ernest Shackleton, 22 3-4 inches; Dr. Russell Wakefield, Bishop of Birmingham, 23 1-2 inches; Dr. John Clifford, 23 1-4 inches; Sir Henniker Heaton, 24 1-2 inches; Ranjitsinhji, 23 inches; C. B. Fry and the Rev. R. J. Campbell, 23 1-2 inches.

Many of the best literary types of head vary from a little under 23 to 23 1-2 inches, and beyond this measurement and up to 24 3-4 inches are found men of powerful intellects.

Docks Rich In Gold.

An important discovery was reported at Cape Town by Mr. C. H. Tearman, of Mowbray, who handed in at the Civil Commissioner's office, Cape Town, in accordance with the Precious Minerals Act, a declaration stating that he had found rich gold at Cape Town Docks. It transpires that on a recent visit to a quarry at the docks, where stone is being crushed for certain work, he inspected some of the stone from the crusher, and formed the conclusion that it was gold quartz. An examination of the face of the coarse granite at the quarry itself convinced him that there was a rich reef there, apparently about 30 feet wide and 1,000 feet long. The quarry, which come under the administration of the Minister of Railways and Harbors, is situated at the back of the docks location, and the reef, as far as Mr. Tearman has been able to ascertain, runs back beneath private property in the neighborhood. What rights may fall to the discoverer is at present a matter for conjecture.

Friends Even In Death.

Two lifelong friends, Frank Washington and James Farrell, both of Hove, England, have just been buried side by side in Hove cemetery. Born in the same year, 1866, they were educated at the same school and remained close friends ever after. Both were taken on the same day to the Sussex County Hospital for operations, and both operations took place on the same day. Both died on the same day, and both were buried on the same day in the same plot of ground.

Overtures have been made to the pope, and if he is willing to sanction extension of Catholic missions in that part of Peru efforts will be made to secure sufficient funds through popular subscription.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered is so Beneficial to Public Speakers, Ministers, Singers and Teachers as Catarrhozone.

Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhozone cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes huskiness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhozone keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—unfitness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhozone, and credit in no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhozone.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as Catarrh.

"Being a professional singer you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill.

"One year ago I read in the Progress a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your God-sent invention, Catarrhozone.

"Believing in the merits of Catarrhozone, I tried it.

"Catarrhozone cured me and has been the means of my success.

"You are at liberty to use my name, if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain.

"Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.S."

Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces. Everyone knows him, and his testimonial for Catarrhozone is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhozone is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh.

Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging to last two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists, or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., or Kingston, Ont.

EYE GLASS MOUNTING

With the curved top guards is the only mounting that will hold your lenses in place firmly with a slight pressure; and that is the better half of eye glass comfort. No matter how well-adapted your lenses may be, if the mounting is ill-fitting and hurts the nose, imperfect vision is certain to be the result.

Lindsay Vag With Bank Account

John Ward has money in the bank at Lindsay, at least so John said yesterday in the police court, when charged with vagrancy. John had been found walking on the railway track and "pinched." He was allowed to go to Lindsay presumably to look after his bank account. A local man who claimed to have neither a bank account in Peterborough or Lindsay, nor to be laying up treasure for the future was assessed $2 for being drunk in a public place. This is the second time the young man has paid $2 within a short time for indulging too freely.

Lindsay ratepayers, by a majority of 611, voted to loan $12,000 to the Fitzsimmons Automobile Co., to grant a free site and exemption from taxes.

Rev. Mr. Wallace, of Lindsay delivered an impressive address in Knox church last night, taking the budget scheme as his theme.

A Lindsay man explained to the police there that he had been among those "touched" at the Lindsay Fair. His pocket book had certainly gone. However, the police discovered a hole in the pants' pocket, where the money had disappeared from.

In a local shop yesterday under displeasure of the barbers' union, it is said that an "English" hair cut costs but 15 cents, whilst a "Canadian" hair cut demands 5 cents more. Besides the nickle involved, what is the difference?

A measily stubbed tailed cat yesterday had some sport. It was seen chase two squirrels in Victoria Park. The little rodents, however, climbed an oak tree and chattered defiance at tabby, whose claws did not seem equal to the ascent.

WHY NOT A JAIL FARM FOR LOCAL PRISONERS

The question suggests itself, "Why not a jail farm for this city and county?" Fortunately, owing to the prevailing sobriety and moralty of this city, comparatively few prisoners are confined in the local jail. Still, there are and always be some unfortunates, who, whether from trivial crimes or drunkenness are or will be detained in durance vile. In many of the commitments appears the words "with hard labor." This in itself is something of a farce. The hardest work, as we understand it undertaken by local prisoners, now that there is no wood to saw consists in regretting their lapse from virtue and counting the days before they will get a fresh start as free men. In the case of an unfortunate addicted to alcohol, such a man cannot regain the health and strength necessary to combat temptation on his release, whilst cooped up in a small corridor of the jail. Would it not be a good financial investment, as well as helping to build up weak manhood, to have a small farm as an adjunct of the Peterborough jail? There are many sites available for such purposes within easy reach of the city, which could be procured at moderate cost and which could, by prison labor be made a little more than self-sustaining.

Health and Beauty Hints

MRS. MAE MARTYN.

Mrs. J. S.: Wrinkles and other marks of approaching old age which now worry you are very common. However, you will not have to worry if you will follow this simple treatment! Apply to your face every night a greaseless cream-jelly made by mixing two teaspoonfuls glycerine and one ounce almozoin into one-half pint cold water. Stir and let stand several hours before using. Massage frequently with this cream. It will remove all dirt and excess oil from the skin pores and in time you will not have a rough, wrinkled face, but a fresh, smooth, clean-looking skin of velvety texture. I also find this precaution excellent for removing tan, sunburn, blackheads, freckles and large pores in the skin.

Juliet: Yes, any one afflicted with superfluous flesh is always at a big disadvantage, whether married or single. To get rid of that annoying fat, stop at your druggist's the next time you are down town and get four ounces of parnotis. Dissolve this in 1½ pints hot water and take a teaspoonful three times a day (five minutes before each meal), and your burdensome flesh will soon become cut down. The effect of this harmless remedy is generally noticeable within a week, and you will feel much better.

R. P. N.: To whiten and beautify your face, neck and arms, dissolve four ounces of spurmax in half-pint witch hazel or hot water, adding two teaspoonfuls glycerine. Apply this lotion freely and it will tone up your skin wonderfully and quickly. It maves the skin soft and smooth, and will remove that shiny, "muddy" look which is so annoying to you. You will find this lotion much better to use than face powder, as it does not rub off easily like powder nor does it give one a face that "powdered look." I find this spurmax lotion excellent for removing and preventing freckles, chapping and roughness of the skin.

Mrs. R. P.: If your hair is getting so thin that you have to wear false hair, you should begin at once a treatment to rid your scalp of dandruff which is the direct cause of all scalp and hair-troubles. If you will mix together an ounce of quinzoin, one-half pint of alcohol, (not whiskey) and one-half pint of cold water, you will have a dependable remedy for your hair-troubles. Rub this gently into the roots of the hair twice a week, and it will destroy the dandruff, stop your falling hair and in time promote a new growth of hair. This quinine-tonic applied regularly will make your hair soft, lustrous and keep it from splitting at the ends.

Maid: The quickest and surest way to remove hair or fuzz from the skin is with a delatone paste. With water mix enough delatone to cover the hairs, apply and in two or three minutes remove and wash the skin. This removes every particle of hair and leaves the skin smooth and clear.

Minnie H.: As you do not like the idea of wearing glasses since they make you look so much older, why don't you try treating them first with a good eye-tonic? If you will get an ounce of crystos, dissolve it in a pint of water, you will have an eye-remedy that will prove very refreshing and strengthening. Drop a few drops in each eye two or three times a day, and I am sure it will do your eyes a world of good. It will not smart the eyes. I find it excellent for dull, tired, watery eyes, and a great aid even to those who have to wear glasses.

Victoria: As long as your blood is loaded with impurities, those impurities will be forced through your skin, and the application of external remedies will do no lasting good, for they do not reach the reach the cause. Dissolve one ounce of kardene and one-half cupful of sugar in one-half pint of alcohol, (not whiskey), then add hot water to make a full quart and you will have enough inexpensive, old fashioned remedy to rid your blood of impurities, stimulate your liver and correct your digestion. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and your sallow skin will again take on that beautiful color nature intended you to have. Your circulation and general health will improve, and the sores, blotches, redness and other eruptions will cease to trouble you. No better general system-tonic can be made than by following this kardene recipe. Try it and get rid of that "run-down" feeling.

Josephine: In treating your scalp for dandruff, it is necessary to keep it as clean as possible. Shampoo freely and as often as you need it, but never use soap or a soap-jelly, as the "free" alkali will make your hair dull, lifeless and your scalp harsh. Shampoo with a teaspoonful of canthrox dissolved in a cup of hot water; then rinse in clear water. You will find this a wonderful shampoo; it will put new life into your hair and cleanse your scalp as no other shampoo will. It lathers freely, dries quickly without streaking, and leaves the hair lustrous, fluffy and easy to do up. After the hair is dry apply the same tonic recommended to Mrs. R. P.

VOL. XXXIX, NO. 39. PETERBOROUGH, ONTARIO, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27, '12 PRICE, TWO CENTS.

A YOUNG GIRL TELLS OF WOE

Forced to Lead Life of Shame Complained to Police

Hamilton, Sept. 26.—Complaining to the police that she was lured away from her home and held captive in a house of ill-fame for two days, where she was forced to lead a life of shame, a pretty eighteen year old girl, who belongs to one of the most respectable and prominent families in Dunnville was rescued by the authorities following a raid on a disorderly house owned by Maggie Smith, in this city.

In the police court the girl stated she had been invited to the house by another women on the understanding that it was a friendly visit.

In spite of the protest of Mrs. Smith and her counsel that she had not intimidated the girl, the magistrate found her guilty and sentenced her to serve six months in jail.

On hearing the sentence, the unfortunate woman shrieked "My God, My God, have mercy on me," and with the threat that she would kill herself tied a knotted handkerchief around her neck and almost strangled before court officers could remove the tourniquet-like handkerchief.

Before being taken to the cells, the woman's hat, with two large stiletto like hatpins, was taken from her, and she was removed from court in a hysterical condition.

MUSEUM THIEF GOT BY A GIRL

Believes Daniel Lavery Solved Secret of Spring on Case of Miniatures

Boston, Sept. 26.—Daniel Lavery will be arraigned in the municipal court to-day, charged with stealing miniatures from the Boston Museum of Fine Arts. How many miniatures are missing the authorities of the museum will be unable to determine exactly until the catalogues have been examined. At least four have been found in art stores on Boylston street, where they had been sold for paltry sums. These will be restored to the museum.

Lavery's arrest eas brought about through a young woman employed in the room where the miniature case is located. She saw Lavery on Huntington avenue Saturday afternoon, and certain that he answered the description of the young man she remembered as acting suspiciously around the miniature case, followed him and then notified police headquarters.

What puzzles museum attaches is how the operation of the secret spring on the miniature case became known to Lavery.

HOW MONKEY BIT BOY

Now Father Seeks Damages—Judgment Was Reserved—Animal Was Property of Theatrical Troupe.

Boston, Sept. 26.—The fall session of the county court concluded yesterday afternoon when Judge Snider reserved his decision in the action of Connor v. the Princess Theater Company, for the recovery of $2500 damages for injuries inflicted on a child by an alleged ferocious monkey which was with a troupe at the popular North street playhouse. The defendant company claimed that the monkey was not on its property nor in its charge when the nearly-man beast attacked the child. It was on these points that judgment was reserved.

'GYP THE BLOOD' AND 'LEFTY LOUIE,' CHARGED WITH ROSENTHAL CRIME, ARRESTED

Harry Horowitz, alias "Gyp the Blood," and Louis Rosenzweig, called "Lefty Louie," wanted on an indictment charging them with the murder of Herman Rosenthal on July 16 in front of the Metropole Hotel, New York, were arrested on September 14 in a dingy little flat at No. 756 Woodward avenue, in the Brownsville part of Brooklyn, where they had been living with their young wives for more than a month.

They had just set up housekeeping on the instalment system, and, although they had been sought by the police in all the cities of the East and aboard every outgoing steamship, they had come and gone very much as they wished for five or six weeks. They are charged with murder in the first degree.

These arrests are considered by the police the most important in connection with the murder of the gambler. They are now in prison awaiting trial.

PEACE OF WORLD CENTRED IN THE BRITISH NAVY

Principal Peterson, of McGill University, Montreal, Says Britain Must Be Strong

Montreal, Sept. 26.—"The peace of the world centre in the British navy, which everyone knows exists not for the purpose of aggression, but to defend every part of our world wide empire," said Principal Pererson, of McGill, who to-day returned to the University after an absence of about three months, during which time he travelled through England, Ireland, Scotland, and on the Continent.

"Britain's greatest and best desire is to be left alone, and to be candid I personally regret and am ashamed of this military and naval madness, which I must designate as simply shocking, but under the circumstances it is absolutely necessary that Britain be the 'strong man armed.' While other nations are building we must go on doing the same thing, for we must face the menace of the German nation which quite obviously is making a bid for the mastership of Europe.

"I am not an alarmist, but must say that it does not pay for anyone who has the interests of the Empire at heart to go ahead and say that it is nonsense to think that British Empire is threatened—these people are altogether too optimistic, I am sorry to admit.

"Britain has offered to stop building ships, as everyone knows, but the Germans refuse to do this, and are getting their estimates slowly but surely through their governing houses. In this connection I might point out that in doing this the Germans are remarkably silent while in cases where our own estimates are concerned the whole world knows what we are doing through the fuss made in Parliament.

SHOULD ACT IN CONCERT.

"Taking all these things into consideration," said Principal Peterson, "It is imperative that Britain and the overseas Dominion should act in concert. If we show that we are all going to stand shoulder to shoulder in any trouble that may be in store for the Empire the fact would give serious thought for any foreign power which may possibly be cherishing wrong headed ambitions.

Principal Peterson made the trip to Europe principally to attend the Universities Congress held in London last July, which was attended by fifty-three universities in the British Empire. He also attended the 300th anniversary of Trinity College, Dublin, and the 250th anniversary of the Royal Society.

"No university in the Empire took precedence over McGill," said he, "and everywhere I found evidence that among colonial universities McGill was the best known not only to educationalists but to people generally.

"Premier Borden made a decided hit in England," said the Principal. Mr. Borden and his colleagues went to London gladly and went into conference freely and frankly with the ministers of the Crown of England. They made no reservations as to the subjects to be discussed, they did not state that certain topics were to be outside the range of deliberation, or that Canada needed no advice in any particular connection. As a result, a complete change of temperature has taken place. People in London feel that a real partnership is in sight."

ON THE PANAMA QUESTION.

On the Panama question, he stated that in England, people were scarcely able to understand the position of the American Government.

"If," he added, "it is conceivable that arbitration on such an issue should be refused by the American Government, some of us, who, like myself, belong to all the arbitration societies which the United States has ever formed, will have to seriously consider our positions.

INVENTOR MARCONI IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Spezia, Italy, Sept, 26.—William Marconi, the inventor of wireless telegraphy, passed an absolutely restless night as a result of injuries suffered by him in an automobile accident yesterday near Borghemo.

He complained of pains from a slight wound in the head, while the injury of his right eye and many other bruises caused considerable irritation.

Mrs. Marconi who was not hurt in the collision sat up nursing her husband through the night. King Victor Emmanuel will visit him to-day.

ANOTHER PROTEST IS MADE AGAINST BILINGUAL POLICY

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—What is claimed to be the first step in a movement which will shortly spread over the whole of eastern Ontario as a result of the stand taken by the Ottawa Separate School Board against the enforcement of the new regulations of the Ontario Government bilingual school will be a public meeting held to-night in L'Original, Ontario.

At this gathering, according to the statements of members of the Ottawa Separate School Board, a separate school board will be formed in L'Original, as a first step preliminary to refusing to enforce the new bi-lingual regulations.

Was Once English.

L'Original was at one time overwhelmingly English in population. Of late years, however, conditions have changed, and now the French tongue is the one heard on the streets. Consequently, until the new regulations were introduced, its residents were quite content to have their children taught in the Public schools, where most of the trustees were French. Now, however, they claim a Separate school Board is necessary.

A Wave of Approval.

Parents of French children in Ottawa have strongly backed up the action of the local board, 1,700 letters having been received in one week alone. The French Canadian Educational Association in Ontario has also endorsed the Board's stand.

SIR RICHARD CARTWRIGHT IS LAID AWAY TO REST

Kingston, Sept. 26.—This afternoon the remains of the Right Hon. Richard Cartwright were laid to rest in the family plot, Cataraqui Cemetery. At 1.30 the remains left the family home, "The Maples," attended by the mourners, the pall-bearers, the representatives of the Kingston Reform Association, Senator J. A. Lougheed, representing the Dominion Government, and others.

The immediate mourners were the four sons of the deceased statesman, Dr. R. C. Cartwright, Napanee; Mr. A. D. Cartwright, Ottawa; Capt. Frank Cartwright, of Winnipeg, and Mr. Henry Cartwright, of Toronto.

The pall-bearers were: Col. H. R. Smith, Col. S. C. McGill and Messrs J. B. Walkem, K.C., Francis Dobbs, John Dobbs, and F. C. T. O'Hara, Ottawa, for years private secretary for Sir Richard.

THE WEATHER.

To-day '—Fair and decidedly cool.

PLANNING THE SECOND LIBERAL EXPEDITION.

FOUNDER OF BELL PIANO CO. WAS KILLED BY G.T.R. TRAIN

A Man of Eighty Years, His Body Was Found Badly Mutilated on the Track—Had Suffered Paralytic Stroke—A Remarkable Career

Guelph, Ont. Sept. 26.—Grand Trunk section men this morning found the body of William Bell badly mutilated on the tracks about two miles east of the city. Identification was made by papers found in his pockets.

Mr. Bell was the founder of the Bell Piano and Organ Company, of Guelph, and was eighty years old. He had left home yesterday afternoon about 2.30. His family were under the impression when he did not return that he had gone to Toronto. Just how he met his death will probably never be known, as no person appears to have been a witness to the fatality.

Was Bank President.

Wm. Bell was prominently identified with the activities of Guelph and several other places. He established the Bell Piano Works in 1865. Besides his connection with this establishment, he had been president of the Guelph Junction Railway and was vice-president of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company when John A. Macdonald was its president. He had also been president of the Traders Bank of Canada. He leaves a wife, one son W. J. Bell, Guelph, and a daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) W. Kennedy, of Guelph. The Coroner Dr. Orton, has decided that no inquest is necessary.

Sold Out to Englishmen.

The Bell Organ and Piano Company of which William Bell was the founder, was for years the backers of the industrial life of the city of Guelph, the company employing about 800 hands.

EIGHT VACANCIES IN THE SENATE LIBERAL MAJORITY DOWN TO 31

Death Making Rapid Inroads—Five Other Appointments Since Government Came Into Power—May Be Conservative in a Year

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—The death of Sir Richard Cartwright leaves eight vacancies in the Senate which will in all probability be filled before the House meets in November. Four of these vacancies are in Nova Scotia, one in Prince Edward Island, and three in Ontario. Of the eight vacancies four were held previously by Liberal and four by Conservatives. Seven of the vacancies are due to death, and one through the illness of Senator Sullivan of Kingston. He has not attended the Upper Chamber for two years, which automatically renders his seat vacant.

There are eighty-seven Senators, and the standing of the parties now is 59 to 20. With the appointment of the eight new Senators, the Liberal majority would be reduced to 31.

ST. CLAIR CONVICTED, BUT SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Rev. R. B. St. Clair, secretary of the Vigilance Committee, was this morning found guilty on a charge of circulating and having in his possession for circulation, indecent literature. Sentence was suspended.

"I have come to the conclusion that the document published by Mr. St. Clair was indecent nd obscene, even filthy, and was printed and circulated by the defendant," said Judge Denton. "Motives are of importance. Our law especially provides for that. I will say there was no criminal intention, nevertheless he must be found guilty of the charge.

"As to the punishment to be meted out, perhaps I can now refer to matters of which I could not speak before with regard to the way in which St. Clair was treated by our police authorities. It is a matter of great regret that the officers of the law of this city should have regarded your case as one upon which a warrant should not have been issued, and that you should be placed in the cells, photographed, and your finger prints taken for the Rogue's Gallery.

"I am considering that now. But I want to tell you that the old maxim that you should not do evil that good may follow applies not only to the morals but also to law, and if you want to bring about reform you must do it in a legal manner, and not by such a document as this. I feel that the ends of justice will be met if you are allowed out onsuspendedsentence on a personal bond of $200 not to repeat the offence."

Mr. Raney: "Without any disrespect to the court, I shall require time to consider whether Mr. St. Clair will give that bond or not. As I see things at present I am inclined tothink that the defendant will not ask for any mitigation of any penalty which ought to be inflicted.

$5,000,000 FOR TITANIC LOSS

White Star Line's Heavy Liability For Loss of Life and Goods

New York, Sept. 26.—A cable from London says: The first bach of claims against the White Star Line arising out of the Titanic disaster, will come to trial during the approaching law sittings. They are being brought in behalf of the relatives of fourteen passengers who perished.

The terms of the contract under which tickets are issued oblige all claims to be brought in the English courts, where the Merchant Shipping Acts limit the liability of the shipping company to $75 per ton in case of loss of life and $40 per tonin the case of loss of goods. As the tonnage liability of the Titanic was 43,521 tons gross, the liability for the loss of life is $2,264,075 and for goods $1,740,840, making a total of $5,004,915.

PROMISES TO LEAVE CITY

Frank Griro Given Opportunity to Depart For Argentina

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Frank Griro, the Italian, who the police say has terrorized his fellow countrymen in the city for the past eighteen months and who was arrested by Constable Sullivan and Scott on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, made his appearance in Police Court this morning on a vagrancy charge. Magistrate Kingsford had previously expressed the opinion that the police had no right to search a man on the streets to ascertain if he was possessed of dangerous weapons. This morning he was assured, however, that a new act passed by the Legislature gave the police this right.

Griro pleaded guilty to the vagrancy charge and was remanded until Saturday on his own bail. He will be given the opportunity to leave for Argentina, and if found by the police after this date, he has been promised a heavy sentence.

CAREFUL DOCTOR
Prescribes Change of Food Instead of Drugs.

It takes considerable courage for a doctor to deliberately prescribe only food for a despairing patient, instead of resorting to the usual list of medicines.

There are some truly scientific physicians among the present generation who recognize and treat conditions as they are and should be treated, regardless of the value to their pockets. Here's an instance:

"Four years ago I was taken with severe gastritis and nothing would stay on my stomach, so that I was on the verge of starvation.

"I heard of a doctor who had a summer cottage near me—a specialist from N.Y.—and as a last hope sent for him.

"After he examined me carefully, he advised me to try a small quantity of Grape-Nuts at first, then as my stomach became stronger to eat more.

"I kept at it and gradually got so—as I could eat and digest three teaspoonfuls. Then I began to have color in my face, memory became clear, where before everything seemed a blank. My limbs got stronger and I could walk, so I steadily recovered.

"Now after a year on Grape-Nuts I weigh 153 lbs. My people were surprised at the way I grew fleshy and strong on this food." Name given by Canadian Postum Cereal Co., Windsor, Ont. Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the State's area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario Manager, 45 Cecil street, Toronto. D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are socalled Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 5c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St. directly opposite [illegible] store.

G. B. S. Again.

Replying to an invitation from the Playgoers' Club to be present at the inaugural lunch at the club's new premises, G. Bernard Shaw remarked: "I shall most certainly do nothing now or ever to encourage playgoers to move into new and comfortable premises. The theatres depend on uncomfortable clubs and unhappy homes, and my income depends on the theatre. No sane man would spend an evening in the theatre if he could find anywhere else to spend it without being bored or henpecked. Women drag men to theatres because they get so tired of housekeeping that, no matter how delightful they make the home, they desire nothing more than to escape from it as a cook desires to escape from the smell of roast fowl. But modern clubs provide a refuge from home life for both men and women, and the more comfortable the club is the sooner the members will cease to be play-goers. I know, of course, that the members of your club have long ago settled down and that to meet one of them in the theatre is almost as startling as to meet an actor at the Garrick Club, but still there are a few left, and as I do not want these few to be lured away from the box office, I must decline to give my countenance to your inaugural lunch. Besides, I have another engagement."

Hard on the Piano.

Good gracious, what on earth's the matter?" gasped the angry father. "Why is there such a row in the parlor?"

"Why, dear, that's Mary and Jane practicing their new duet on the piano," said mother proudly.

"A duet! What, both of 'em playing at once?" Father's voice was hard and cold.

"Yes, of course."

Father snorted with rage.

"Don't they think they can wear out that piano fast enough when they play on it one at a time, then?" he asked sarcastically.

LETTER-HEAD SWINDLERS.

Warnings to Tradesmen and Others in the Old Country.

The up-to-date swindler has to be something of a student of human nature, says London Tit-Bits. And one of the human weaknesses that he has discovered and made use of is the unreasoning confidence placed by the average business man in an imposing letter-head, especially if the letter-head is that of a firm of known respectability. One is apt to forget that a letter-head is an extremely easy thing to forge, with the result that one rarely suspects that the letter was not written by the firm whose name is printed on the notepaper.

Of course, the letter-head swindler is not so clumsy as to walk into a printer's and order the name of a firm to be printed on notepaper. The chances of detection would be too great. He goes to work much more subtly.

He obtains, by any of a dozen different ways, the letter-head of a business concern. This he takes to a printer in the neighborhood, and asks him to set up a proof of the letter-head. If satisfactory the printer is to receive a good order.

In due time he calls for the proof, expresses satisfaction, but states that, before giving the order, he must take it back to "the governor."

He has now a clean piece of paper inscribed with the name of a reputable firm. He immediately writes upon it an order to another firm in the same line of business, stating that the goods are required in a hurry, and that "our representative" will call for them at a certain time.

Before there is time for correspondence he calls, and, stating that he has come for the goods referred to in the letter, cooly takes them away and leaves his victim to find, perhaps some three months later, when an account is presented, that he has been duped, and that the firm to whom the goods were supposed to have been supplied have never even heard of the transaction.

When he is dealing with heavy and valuable goods this swindler, true to the principle that thoroughness pays, will frequently present himself with a cart which he has hired, and upon which he has invested a few shillings' worth of paint. And when the victim sees a substantial cart, with the name of his supposed customer on it, he is less likely than ever to request cash with order.

Another dodge of the letter-head swindler is to use this device as a means of persuading tradesmen to cash worthless checks. He will loaf about suburban districts and note the names of the tradesmen's carts that deliver goods.

He will then have expensive notepaper headed with the name of one or more houses. On this he will write a request to the tradesman to "cash a small check for my friend Mr. Cheatem." Armed with this, he will dress himself well, lounge into the shop in the earlier part of the morning, explain that he is staying at the particular house, drawl an excuse for being suddenly short of cash, and in most cases obtain four or five pounds for his worthless check.

The Banana.

The banana plant bears fruit every year. It is one of the most productive plants in the world and feeds more people than any other known to man. It has been estimated that more than a third of the human race depend almost wholly for their existence upon the banana. That the fruit is amply able to sustain life, and to sustain it in a very satisfactory manner, is demonstrated by the fact that the millions who live on practically nothing else get along very well with it and appear to be as strong and active as those who live on other kinds of food.

The Piano Case.

To restore polish on a piano case first dust it with a dry, soft cloth, then dip a piece of chamois skin of good size in clear, cold water and wring as dry as possible, rub over the piano with this and if the skin becomes soiled rinse well and use again, always wringing as clear of water as possible each time. When it is clean polish with a soft dry cloth.

Banish the White.

A statement which will be read with interest by every parent is made by a well-known London doctor, who has come out with the assertion that the use of the color white is so bad for young children that its almost universal employment on and around them is nothing short of cruelty. "Much of the irritableness and peevishness of babies and children may," he says, "be put down to their constant association with white.

"Banish white from your nurseries! See that everything about the children is colored, either green, blue or yellow—their clothes, cots, toys, nursery wall papers and even ceilings.

"It is sheer cruelty. It is just like placing anybody on the Alps, where he cannot escape from the monotonous dazzling fields of snow. Apart from the discomfort, white is extremely hurtful to the delicate retina of the eyes and may permanently disarrange the sight.

"Make the nursery bright and cheerful with soft colors. My own nursery is tempered a soft green, and my two children rarely wear only white clothes. Toys, cots, baby carriages—everything should be colored—never, by the way, a bright red, which is even more irritating than white."

Seventy-Two Years' Service.

Prizes for laborers who have been in the service of one employer or on the same farm for the longest period, offered in connection with the Hunts Agricultural Show in England, have disclosed some wonderful records. One man of eighty-three, named John Laxton, has a record of seventy-two years' service, and another man of sixty years has a record of fifty-three years. In the prizes fo sheep-rearing one shepherd had 153 lambs from 104 ewes, and another 118 lambs from seventy-eight ewes.

A Toronto paper asks: "What is the feminine of boss?" Suppose we say bossoress and let it go at that.

French dueling has gone forever. The police have ordered that future combats must be private

That Sir Wilfrid's foot-work is good is indicated by the easy way in which he is side-stepping the navy question.

The man who is weighed in the balance and found wanting nearly always complains that the scales are out of order.

The fact that "Gyp the Blood" and "Left Louie" have been captured after a long search leads us to hope that the man who struck Billy Patterson may yet be taken into custody.

Dr. Hastings, Toronto's M.H.O., advises pasteurization of all milk to be used as baby food. But as the cows have been grass-fed, isn't the milk already pasture-ized.

How to deal with the trusts is a question not nearly as widely discussed across the line as how T. R. did not deal with the trusts when he had a fairly good chance.

The fact that a New York housewife was put in jail for beating her husband to a frazzle is proof that woman is coming into her own and getting her rights at last.

A local teamster was slightly injured a few days ago by the explosion of a bottle of whiskey in his pocket. He ought to be very thankful, however, that it exploded before it reached his stomach.

A Gilmour street resident complained a few days ago of having been kept awake at night by the honking of automobiles. He forgets that this precludes the chance of his being caught asleep should the house catch fire at night.

People who complain about the man-killing football game should take a few minutes off and read of the opening of the Hungarian Parliament, where the rules do not prevent honorable members from kicking in the clinches.

The latest pronouncement is that woman should drink at least three glasses of beer a day. The significance of this, however, vanishes when one discovers that the statement came from the Brewers' Convention in Cleveland.

Middletown, Ct., Sept. 25.—George H. Careful treatment, physicians say, will bring him back to good health. His 26-cent diet has consisted of oatmeal and crackers, with pancakes for a treat now and then.

13 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED.

"As Catarrhozone has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that lasted thirteen years I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhozone was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always occasionally use Catarrhozone, as I prize it so highly.

WEALTHY BUFFALO PEOPLE AMBUSHED

Buffalo, Sept. 26.—Shot from ambush, by an assassin who escaped, George Hanner and his wife are near death to-day in a hospital in Niagara Falls. Neither Hanner, who is wealthy, nor his wife could supply the police with any motive for the shooting. The couple were en route to Buffalo in an automobile when the attack was made. As the machine turned into North Tonawanda, a suburb of Buffalo, a man opened fire from a clump of bushes. The first shot struck Hanner. The chauffeur then stopped the machine, the second shot striking Mrs. Hanner. Without stopping to investigate, the chauffeur drove at full speed to a Niagara Falls hospital. Physicians say Hanner will die.

KILLED WITNESS: LOVER ESCAPED

Cadiz, Sept. 26.—Dr. Jacinto Amaya, while acting as witness at a marriage ceremony here, was shot through the heart by a young girl.

A young milliner named Maria Perez rushed into the office of the notary before whom the marriage was taking place, and shouting, "Death to the traitor!" fired at the doctor.

On learning that her victim, who had jilted her, was not the bridegroom as she supposed, but merely a witness of his friend's marriage, she was attacked with violent hysteria, which later developed into insanity.

BULLET IN BRAIN, MAN MAY LIVE

Shot After Row Over Cards in Winchester—Alleged Assailant Is Held.

Boston, Sept. 26.—With a bullet lodged at the base of his skull after passing through the right eye, Giovanni Angelo was expected to recover by the doctors at the Winchester hospital last night. He was shot on the street in front of his home at 52 Harvard street, Winchester.

Pasquale Vozzelia of the same address was arrested on charge of the shooting. Special Officer Edward F. Shea heard two shots, ran to the scene and ordered Vozzelia to put up his hands. Vozzelia threw the revolver into the bushes and surrendered.

Angelo and Vozzelia quarrelled in a game of cards at North Woburn. When they reached home Angelo threatened his friend with a razor, the latter says.

WELL DONE ATONOBEE.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—I was pleased to read "Otonabee Ratepayer's" letter in the Times I am very glad that the school is not closed. It shows the spirit of sacrifice for ideals of faith, that distinguished our fathers has been inherited by their sons, and that the Protestants of Otonabee to-day are as determined to defend their beliefs as were the brave men and women who purchased our religious liberties for us in days gone by. There is a greater danger to-day of our religious freedom being taken from us in small pieces, unless, like the people of Otonabee, we are awake and vigilant and understand the tactics of those who by any and by all means seek to take from us our dearly bought liberties. While we have men to speak for us like Burnham, Weir and others, and men like the men of Otonabee, we will hold what we have. Well done, Otonabee.

A MOB FIGHTS WITH POLICE

Officers Charge on Red Flag, And Are Cut And Trampled On

Providence, Sept. 26. — During a demonstration held here this afternoon by the local branch of the Industrial Workers of the World in the interests of Ettor and Giovannitti the marchers clashed with the police on Knight street.

Capt. S. L. W. Merrill of the fourth precinct, Inspector Charles McSorley, Patrolman J. A. Coleman and Patrolman King were roughly used by the crowd. Capt. Merrill was cut about the head and face and thrown and trampled on, while some one slipped a knife into McSorley's thigh, making a painful though not serious wound. The two patrolmen were beaten and kicked, and only one arrest was made. The prisoner is Domenico Iaci, of 91 Almy street, a barber, who may be charged with assault.

When the parade started, Capt. Merrill requested the leaders who were carrying the red flag to take it down and keep it out of sight. They did so, but a moment later, he discovered that the Socialist group at the rear of the line, which included about 2000 men, were carrying the red banner.

The men massed about the flag and fought the officers who attempted to approach it.

CANDIDATES SCARCE FOR VIENNA PRIESTHOOD

Vienna, Sept. 26.—Although a heavy rain fell throughout almost the entire day, there was a large attendance upon the various meetings of the Eucharistic congress to-day. Dr. Pfeifer, of Vienna, in the course of a discussion on the subject of homes for theological students, deplored the scarcity of candidates for the priesthood in Austria and Germany, and the inadequate provisions for training candidates as compared with the excellent provisions made for the students in the colleges of the United States. Dr. Pfeifer declared that unsatisfactory facilities for boarding students in Vienna was largely responsible and argued that the erection of student homes on the lines already contemplated by the University of Vienna.

RE-NU-ED BY RE-NU-ALL

Clean Your House for 50 Cents

Do you believe it possible to clean your house thoroughly from top to bottom—and disinfect it, too—for 50 cents and a little trouble? It can be done, and we can prove it. Use

RE-NU-ALL

Go to your grocer and ask for a 25 cent bottle of RE-NU-ALL and experiment with one room—say your drawing room.

Prepare your duster as directed with the RE-NU-ALL and rub it over your piano. Watch the dust and smears vanish. RE-NU-ALL has absorbed them completely and the finish is absolutely RE-NU-ED, the same as when the piano left the factory.

RE-NU the hardwood floor—RE-NU the chairs—RE-NU the cabinets and all finished woodwork—painted or varnished—window frames, wainscotting—linoleum or oilcloth—door knobs of china or metal.

When we say RE-NU, that includes removing every speck of dust, dirt and grease—restoring the original brightness and disinfecting every thing it touches.

What you can do in the dining room can be repeated in every room in the house—including the bathroom—there is nothing like RE-NU-ALL for cutting the grease on an enamel bath tub or lavatory.

When you have discovered the merits of RE-NU-ALL you will either buy the 50 cent package or the $1 size containing respectively 3 and 7 times as much as the quarter package.

Cut down your housework to the irreducible minimum—RE-NU-ALL will do it and do the work better too!

POCKETLESS WOMEN CANNOT QUALIFY AS SUFFRAGETTES

Paris, Sept. 26.—One of the well-known writers on social events denies that any woman has the right to call herself a suffragette unless she boasts pockets—plenty of them. He says that men differ from animals by having pockets. A pocketless woman, therefore, he argues, is no full-fledged human being.

"A man," continues the writer, "has at least twelve pockets. When he wears an overcoat he has three or four more, yet the most strong-voiced suffragette runs around with a hand-bag, being unable to persuade her tailor or dressmaker to put a single pocket into her gowns."

The writer says that hand-bags are a nuisance and costs no end of money. Besides, they are an incentive to highway robbery. Let men unite to give no more pocket money to their wives and daughters until they have a receptacle other than the hand-bag to put it in, and the hand-bag will soon vanish from the face of the earth.

Manufacturers Hear Report On Workmen's Compensation—Some Oppose Drastic Steps Against Assessment Law

Ottawa, Sept. 26.—During the discussion at the meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association of the report of the Workmen's Compensation Committee, Mr. J. R. Shaw, of Woodstock, said: "We know that the Ontario Government is determined to pass workmen's compensation legislation at the next session, while the leader of the Opposition has stated that he will make it his business to see that the best possible Act is placed on the statute books."

The view of the Manufacturers' Association is that the employes concerned should be obliged to make some contribution. The Association is at variance with the various labor organizations who contend that compensation should be made part of the cost of production. Mr. F. W. Wegenast, Legal Secretary of the Association, will prepare a scheme of classification of industries and a draft of the proposed schedule of benefits, for the information of Parliament. The question has aroused a very great deal of interest and discussion.

"The manufacturers don't want women and children to suffer because a man is a fool," said W. K. George, who with other members of the Association favors compensation even when the carelessness of the employe is himself responsible for his injuries.

Making Use of the Law and Disaster to Draw Trade.

In an English city not long ago the junior partner of a dry goods firm applied for a warrant for the arrest of his partner on the ground that he was selling goods below cost and so ruining the firm. So great was the local interest in this case that the courtroom was as crowded when the case came up for trial as it might have been had a sensational murder case been the cause. Counsel for the senior partner moved for a postponement of the trial in order that he might have more time to prepare his case. The motion was granted. As the defendant left the courtroom the younger member of the firm stood up and angrily cried: "If he is released the sacrifice will go on!"

The consequence was that an hour later the shop was mobbed by bargain seekers, and eventually, when the case was called again, no plaintiff appeared, whereupon the case was dismissed. The whole affair was simply a ruse on the part of the firm to attract customers.

Following is an instance of how disaster was turned to good account by a French cloth manufacturing concern. This concern actually doubled its profits through a balloon disaster near Rouen. In this disaster the car of the balloon had broken away. The aeronaut and his elder son were thrown downward, but the son had been caught by a hook that pierced his coat. He was carried in this way for some miles and at last came safely to the ground. His coat was [illegible]

"Perhaps it will turn up in one of the sacks," suggested the friend, whereupon the miller was seized with a brilliant idea. He advertised his loss in the local papers, offering a reward to the finder of the gold piece. His sales trebled in a week or so, and he was paid many times over for the loss of his guinea.

Winnipeg Grain Market.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 25.—The slump in the premiums on cash wheat was the feature of today's market. For some time the premium for spot has been high, owing to the demand to fill lake and ocean tonnage which was contracted ahead. The heavy drop in premiums is due to the fact that any of those charters which were not switched to Duluth have been probably well filled. Options opened 1-8c to 1-4c higher, but weakened later in sympathy with American markets, and closed 1-8c lower for all months. Oats were in fair demand, closing 1-2c to 5-8c lower. Flax was strong for both months, October closing 1c higher and November [illegible] higher. Receipts 460 cars inspected, 360 in sight for tomorrow.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—There was a fair demand from foreign buyers for wheat, and, as early prices bid were unchanged from yesterday, sales of a number of loads of Manitoba and Duluth were made, but late cables came weaker at a decline of 3d. Some business was worked in oats for export, and there is a fair demand for old and new crop barley. Locally, oats are very strong, with a good demand, and sales of sample grades were made at 53c to 54c, ex-store. A sale of [illegible] No. 3 yellow corn was made at [illegible] f.o.b., Chicago, for November shipment, and other sales amounting to [illegible] were made for prompt and nearby shipment.

Foreign and local demand for flour good, and the market is active, with some millers away behindhand with orders. Demand for bran fair and shorts good. Butter and cheese rather quiet, but firm. Eggs active. Pork advanced 50c to $1, and pure lard ½c, while dressed hogs declined [illegible].

CATTLE MARKETS.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Sept. [illegible] were 1700 cattle, 2750 sheep and lambs, [illegible] hogs and 700 calves, while the offerings on the market this morning for sale were [illegible] cattle, [illegible] sheep and lambs, [illegible] hogs and [illegible] calves.

Owing to the increased supplies of common and medium cattle, an easier feeling prevailed in the market for such, and prices ruled lower, but choice steers were scarce. In fact, there were none on the market, while good stock met with a good demand. The attendance of buyers was large, and a fairly active trade was done, with sales of good steers at $6.25 to $6.50; medium at $5.25 to $5.75, and common at $4 to $5 per 100 pounds. There was considerable demand for choice butcher cows, which sold well at $5.25 to $5.50; medium at $4 to $5, and common at from the inside price down to $2.50 per 100 pounds. The quality of the bulls offered was common, and brought from $[illegible] to $[illegible] per 100 pounds. The tone of the market for lambs was steady at the recent decline in prices, owing to the fact that the offerings were much smaller than they have been of late, and the demand good, at $[illegible] to $[illegible] per 100 pounds, while sheep were quiet and unchanged at $3.50 to $3.75 per 100 pounds. The trade in calves was active at prices ranging from $3 to $10 each, as to quality. An easier feeling prevailed in the market for hogs, and inside prices were [illegible] per 100 pounds lower than on Monday, on account of the larger supply, but at the reduction the demand was good and sales of selected lots were made at $8.75 to $9.00 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—Cattle—Receipts, [illegible]; market, steady to 10c lower; beeves, $6.25 to $11; Texas steers, $4.65 to $[illegible]; western steers, $6 to $9.50; stockers and feeders, $4.50 to $7.70; cows and heifers, $2.90 to $8; calves, $8.50 to $11.75.

Hogs—Receipts, [illegible]; market, generally 5c up, but closed weak; light, $[illegible] to $[illegible]; mixed, $8.15 to $8.90; heavy, $7.95 to $8.80; rough, $7.95 to $8.15; pigs, $5 to $8; bulk of sales, $8.50 to $8.75.

Sheep—Receipts, [illegible]; market, steady; native, $[illegible] to $4.50; western, $3.50 to $4.50; yearlings, $4.75 to $5.50; lambs, native, $4.75 to $7; western, $5 to $7.25.

Deference to Royalty.

On the occasion of a visit by the King of Italy to Vesuvius an Italian newspaper announced that "the eruption had the honor of being witnessed by his majesty." It was a German paper which once stated that a certain royal prince "was graciously pleased to be born yesterday." Equally courtier-like was an army officer in attendance on the King of Spain. The King asked him what was the time. The courtier fumbled for his watch, but could not find it, then respectfully replied, "Whatever time your majesty pleases."

EDUCATION IS MOTION

THINGS ARE MOVING FAST THESE DAYS. Sciences change over night. Discoveries are of last week. Inventions of yesterday. The man or woman who is progressing is keeping abreast of the times. 'Tis not enough that you graduated from this University or that College. The world asks: "What do you know to-day?" Education is motion. You move with the tide of events or you find yourself hull up on the mud-flats. Encyclopaedias that served you well within the last decade are now practically obsolete. They know nothing of the Titanic disaster, the Discovery of the South Pole, the Monorail, Wireless Telegraphy, the Airship, the Turko-Italian War—or Hundreds of other subjects of to-day or to-morrow. The one Encyclopaedia that keeps up with you, and you up with the times, is built and perpetuated by Thomas Nelson & Sons on the Loose-leaf Principle.

NELSON'S PERPETUAL LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPÆDIA

Nelson's Patent Loose-leaf Binding Device has revolutionized the whole world of Encyclopaedia making. It has made possible a work that is right on the heels of history.

Nelson's maintain three permanent Editorial Staffs: European Editor, George Sandeman, M.A., Edinburgh, Scotland; Canadian Editor, Wm. Peterson, L.L.D., C.M.S., Principal McGill University, Montreal; American Editor, John H. Finley, Ph.D., LL.D., President of the College of the City of New York.

Nelson's contains upwards of 70,000 subjects, treating over 1,000,000 topics; has 7,000 illustrations and 500 maps. It is the only absolutely new and dependable reference work because the Loose-leaf Binding Device makes it possible to keep the work always up-to-date.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia and Research Bureau is approved, adopted and used in the—

Nelson's Perpetual Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia is used in all parts of the civilized world. Also by the King of England, Premier of Canada, Premier of Ontario, Mikado of Japan, and State Departments throughout the world.

Read these Letters:

J. A. Macdonald, Managing Editor of The Globe, Toronto, writes:—

"I have had occasion to resort quite frequently to your perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia for information of many sorts, and have found it exceedingly helpful. This remark applies especially to history and its allied departments of knowledge; Chronology, Biography and Geography. There is a decided advantage in the loose-leaf method of keeping the Encyclopaedia up-to-date over the yearly supplemental volume method, and one that is not up-to-date is worse than useless."

H. J. Silver, Montreal, writes:—

"In November last the Protestant Board of School Commissioners supplied a copy of Nelson's Perpetual Loose-leaf Encyclopaedia to each of its High Schools, to the Superintendent's office, and to one of its Public Schools. The Principals of these schools have expressed their hearty approval of the work and its usefulness to their pupils. Personally, I have found the work and the Bureau of Research particularly useful to me."

F. E. Wyer, Librarian Grand Trunk Railway Literary and Scientific Institute writes:—

"The name of 'Nelson,' and the list of editors and specialists, is sufficient guarantee to make us feel that we have a perpetual reference work in keeping with the demand for information desired by all who are interested in a progressive Encyclopaedia.

"Your Bureau of Research for Special Information will be of great help to the members generally."

CORK CUTTINGS.

And the Manifold Uses to Which the Bark Is Put.

The manufacture of a cork is a rather interesting process when watched from the beginning. Before use at the factory the cork bark in loose bales is boiled for about half an hour to render it pliant. Upon drying, it is sorted into at least ten grades of differing quality and thickness. This sorting is most important, if waste is to be reduced to a minimum, for corks are cut from the bark transversely and are hence limited in their diameter (rather than in their length, as might at first be supposed) by the thickness of the bark. After sorting, the sheets of bark are cut into strips and squares according to the length of the cork desired. Next the cork itself is carved out of the small square block, polished by a sandpapering machine, washed, sorted and disinfected. The corks are counted by an ingenious French machine and shipped in sacks of strong burlap containing generally 100 to 150 pounds.

Cork disks, for use in lining metal stoppers, are fast becoming an important article of trade in the cork industry. In their manufacture simple machinery is employed, operated in some factories by an electric motor. Among the other articles in the manufacture of which cork is increasingly used are insoles, life preservers, cigarette tips, instrument handles, polishing wheels, carburetor floats for automobiles and insulating for pipes. For the manufacture of such few cork articles as are produced in Barcelona, the local factories are, as a rule, fairly well equipped with machinery, when the very low cost of manual labor is considered. Many of the employees, especially of the machine processes, are women who attain a degree of dexterity. Electric power from the city supply has been installed in several plants.

The enormous waste of cork, which is inevitable in the manufacture of cork articles—approximately from one-half to two-thirds of the total material—is not in reality a loss. Naturally the best of the cork bark is utilized in cork products, and the refuse and shavings are exported to England, Germany and other countries to be used in such valuable by-products as linoleums, cork tiling and other composition articles.

House Built In a Day.

One of the chief buildings of Annan, England, is a cosy-looking cottage widely known by the title of "Built in a Day" and sometimes as "The House that Jim Built."

The house, which holiday-makers have shown to them, is on the fringe of the little town. Cut in the door lintel are the words, "Built on June 4th, 1819.—J. R." The initials stand for James Richardson, the first tenant, who, in very singular circumstances, found himself without a sheltering roof.

James Richardson, a mason by trade, acted as sheriff's officer. In the year indicated David Haggart escaped from Dumfries jail by killing the turnkey. A price was set on the criminal's head, and Richardson dogged his steps, and finally secured him in Ireland. Haggart was brought back, and in due course suffered the extreme penalty of the law.

When Richardson returned to Annan he was refused shelter on all hands. Full of sympathy, the brethren of his craft agreed to unite and build him a house. On the long June day the building was erected and taken possession of, when a substantial repast was served to the workmen.

Working the Oracle.

Sir William Bull, the popular member for Hammersmith in the British Commons, is always in great demand as an after dinner speaker. Though a solicitor by profession, he eschews the dry methods which are generally associated with the legal manner, and his sense of humor is very keen. Here is a story which shows Sir William in lighter vein.

The office boy of a stockbroker's firm was very resourceful.

"How'll you get off for the opening game?" inquired the boy who worked next door.

"I reckon I'll have to kill my grandmother off."

"You killed her off last season."

"That's so. I forgot. Well, I'll ask to get off for grandfather's wedding. What's the matter with the old gentleman getting married again?"

Relieved.

Cleveland Police Make Raid On Alleged Clearinghouse.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—An after-midnight raid on a Prospect avenue house, constituting a portion of police war against the alleged white slave "clearinghouse" here, resulted in the arrest of Ida Pheillips, early this morning on a white slavery charge. Blanche Vernon, an eighteen-year-old girl, is held as a witness. Two other women escaped by jumping from upper story windows.

The police say they have discovered a wealthy Chinese of Cleveland and Pittsburg to be at the head of an organized clique which is working in the interest of the white slave trade. They say, too, that a Cleveland banker is implicated in the ring.

OCEAN MAN-EATERS.

Some Facts About the Great Fish of the Seas.

It is perhaps not generally realized that some species of sharks are among the hugest of marine animals, yet it is a fact that certain of these creatures can be compared only with the whale. These giant sharks, however, are not well known, they are very rare, turn up in most out of the way places, and usually disintegrate before they can be carefully measured or studied. The largest species living at the present day are the great Whale Shark and the Basking Shark. The former is known from at various times at the Cape of Good Hope, on the coast of India, Peru, Lower California, the Pacific archipelagoes, and, most recently, Florida.

It is thus very widely distributed. It attains a length of over fifty feet, says Mr. Louis Hussakof, whose recent paper we quote. A specimen taken in the Seychelles in 1863 was measured and found to be over forty-five feet, and others recorded from the same locality by a reliable observer were over fifty. Fortunately, this monster is quite harmless. It has very small teeth, and feeds upon the minute organisms abounding at the surface of the sea, which it strains through its gill rakers. The same is true of the great Basking Shark, which is found especially in the Arctic Ocean. This species approaches the Whale Shark in size, and like it is an entirely harmless creature, feeding upon the micro-organisms of the sea. But if the largest sharks of today are harmless, the same is not true, Mr. Hussakof contends, of their congeners in the past. In Eocene times, the geologic age, during which mammals rose to their place of supremacy in the animal world, there lived in the sea a giant shark larger than any of the present day, and withal a most terrific monster. This shark has received considerable attention during the past year through the fact that the Museum of Natural History has procured several hundred teeth of this species which have been set up in a restoration of its jaws.

A word about these jaws; they are of sufficient size, opened up, to allow five or six men to walk abreast right into the mouth. The teeth are arranged in rows above and below, those in the middle of each row being the largest. One of them which was especially measured is four and one-quarter inches wide at the base of the crown and six inches high. There are twenty-four teeth in the upper front row and twenty-four in the lower; and back of each of these rows there are three more, not seen in a front view, which are intended to take the place of any teeth in the front row which may be lost.

The edge of each tooth are like sharp knife blades or to be more accurate, sharp saw edges, since they are separated. What a tremendous engine of destruction this jaw must have been in life. Fancy the millions upon millions of fishes that must have been guillotined by the snapping together of this gigantic mouth. Perhaps never was there involved an engine of destruction more terrible than this. And what manner of shark was this to whom belonged these jaws? Have we any data by which to picture its size and appearance? Fortunately, we have. There survives at the present day a closely related shark which gives us an idea of the appearance of its gigantic extinct relative.

This surviving species is the Great White "Man-eater," known to scientists as Cracharodon rondeleti. One of these sharks, a rather small specimen, ten feet long, received careful attention at the hands of Dr. W. G. Stevenson. Its teeth were one and one-fourth inches high, and if we compare the size of its jaws with those of the extinct shark (Carcharodon megalodon) we may safely conclude that the latter must have been in the neighborhood of seventy or eighty feet in length. It was thus as large as a Sulphur-bottom Whale, the hugest of all whales.

What a Letter Will Do.

A proofreader, anent the importance of trifles, read from his notebook these absurd sentences, each made by the omission of a single letter:

"The conflict was dreadful and the enemy was repulsed with great laughter.

"When the president's wife entered the humble sitting room of the miner she was politely offered a hair.

"A man was arrested yesterday on the charge of having eaten a cabman for demanding more than his fare.

"An employe in the service of the Government was accused of having stolen a small ox from the mail. The stolen property was found in his vest pocket."

A Freak In Nest Building.

Many birds that are shy and retiring in other respects show very little fear of the creaking and groaning of heavy machinery or the thunderous roar of heavy trains. I recall reading some years ago of a pair of courageous little sparrows that started a nest at one end of a large turntable in a round-house. This turntable was the same at both ends, and the birds built two nests—one on each end, working one day on one end, and the next day on the other, as the turntable was reversed. Here, in the midst of din and confusion, they finally selected one of the nests and raised a happy brood of young.

An Oddity In Toes and Digits.

There is one curious fact respecting the animal creation with which you will never become acquainted if you depend on your textbooks for information. It is this: No living representative of the animal kingdom has more than five toes, digits or claws to each foot, hand or limb. The horse is the type of one toed creation, the camel of the two toed, the rhinoceros of the three toed and the hippopotamus of four toed animal life. The elephant and hundreds of other animals belonging to different orders belong to the great five toed tribe.

Tennyson's Prediction.

Tennyson predicted the day of his death. Just a year before his death friends of the poet were visiting Aldworth House. The late Lord Selborne turned to Tennyson and remarked, "You ought to be happy here." "Ah," sighed the poet, "I have only a year to live!" His hearers laughed at the remark, but it was a prophetic assertion

SEEKING SUNKEN GOLD

GREAT TREASURE LIES AT THE BOTTOM OF VIGO BAY.

The British Mariners Made Ducks and Drakes of the Cowardly Spanish Galleons In Earlier Years and Many a Proud Ship Lies Beneath the Sea Bursting With Pieces of Eight, Says Legend.

"No treasure yarn is the real thing," says Ralph D. Paine, in the Book of Buried Treasure, "unless it glitters with ducats, ingots and pieces of eight, which means that in the brave days when riches were quickest won with the cutlass, boarding pike and carronade it was Spain that furnished the best hunting afloat. For three centuries her galleons and treasure fleets were harried and despoiled of wealth that staggers the imagination, and their wreckage littered every ocean. English sea rovers captured many millions of gold and silver, and pirates took their fat shares in the West Indies, along the coast of America from the Spanish main to Lima and Panama and across the Pacific in Manila. And to-day, the quests of the treasure seekers are mostly inspired by hopes of finding some of the vanished wealth of Spain that was hidden or sunk in the age of the conquistadors and the viceroys."

"Of all the argosies of Spain," Mr. Paine continues, "the richest were those plate fleets which each year carried to Cadiz and Seville the cargoes of bullion from the mines of Peru and Mexico, and the greatest treasure ever lost since the world began was that which filled the holds of the fleet of galleons that sailed from Cartagena, Porto Bello and Vera Crux in 1702. At the bottom of Vigo bay, on the coast of Spain, lies that fleet of galleons and $100,000,000 in gold ingots and silver bars. After escaping the perils of buccaneer and privateer and frigate this treasure fleet went down in a home port amid the smoke and flame and thunder of guns manned by English and Dutch under that doughty admiral of Queen Anne, Sir George Rooke."

At that time the high seas were perilous for the passage of treasure ships, what with the havoc wrought by the English men-of-war and privateers, the buccaneers of San Domingo and the Windward Islands, who had a trick of storming aboard a galleon from any crazy little craft that would float a handful of men.

"Timidly the galleons delayed," says Mr. Paine, "until a fleet of French men-of-war was sent out to convoy them home, and at length this richest argosy that ever furrowed blue water, freighted with three years' treasure from the mines, made its leisurely way into midocean by way of the Azores, bound to the home port of Cadiz. There were 40 sail in all, 17 of the plate fleet under Don Manuel de Velasco and 23 French ships of the line of frigates obeying the admiral's pennant of the Count of Chateaurenaud.

"The news came to Queen Anne that this fleet had departed from the Spanish main and a squadron of 27 British war vessels commanded by the famous Sir Cloudesley Shovel was fitted out to intercept and attack it."

Sir Cloudesley Shovel missed finding the Spanish fleet at sea, but a lucky chance favored Sir George Rooke. That great commander was homeward bound from a disastrous attempt to take Cadiz. One of his ships, the Pembroke, called at Lagos Bay for water, and there learned that the treasure fleet was at Vigo. The Pembroke made sail after Sir George Rooke and the English fleet, which was jogging home to England. The daughty English admiral at once turned his prows for Vigo Bay.

When the fleet reached Vigo the Duke of Ormonde landed with 2,000 British infantry and captured the forts. Sir George Rooke broke through the chain across the mouth of the harbor and closed with the galleons and the men-of-war protecting them. Within a half hour the bay was an inferno of blazing galleons and ships of the line. Some of the French ships were carried with cutlass and boarding pike, but fire was the chief weapon used by both sides.

"The English," says Mr. Paine, "had no desire to destroy these rich galleons, and as soon as the French fleet had been annihilated, every ship burned, sunk, captured or driven ashore, heroic efforts were made to save the galleons still unharmed, whereupon Don Manuel de Velasco, who was not wanting in courage, but only in good fortune, ordered them to be set on fire. The enemy saw the greater part of the treasure sunk in the sea. Many perished seeking for riches in the midst of the flames. The day after the battle they sent down a great many divers, but with little result. So setting to work to embark their people and covering their masts with flags and streamers, they celebrated their victory with flutes and fifes. Thus they steered for their own ports."

For 200 years efforts have been made to raise the treasure. There are at the present time good prospects of success. Pino, an Italian inventor, has evolved a submarine boat, a system of wreck raising, and a wonderful machine called a hydroscope for seeing and working at the bottom of the sea. To lift the galleons bodily is Pino's plan, and he has devised what he calls "elevators" or clusters of great bags of waterproofed canvas, each capable of raising 40 tons in the water when pumped full of air. These are placed in the hull of the sunken ship or are attached outside and, when made buoyant by means of powerful air pumps, exert a lifting force easily comprehended. In addition, this ingenious Italian engineer makes use of metal arms capable of embracing a rotting, flimsy hull—huge tongs, which are operated by a floating equipment of sufficient engine power to lift whatever it is made fast to. The Japanese Government successfully employed his submarine inventions in raising the Russian warships sunk at Port Arthur

DOGS OF ALASKA.

A Story That Illustrates Their Wonderful Intelligence.

Dogs on the trail often display intelligence that seems almost human. On one occasion I remember I was driving a team of dogs down the Yukon river and had one dog in the team called Tommy, who was a good dog in his way, but who showed a strong dislike to being harnessed—to such an extent that in the morning, when all the other dogs were hitched to the sleigh, Tommy would hide himself under a cabin or bury himself in the snow.

This continued for several mornings, and beating him seemed to have no effect. One morning, however, the team had been standing in the cold waiting for Master Tommy. I finally discovered him hiding under the roots of a tree, and as soon as I came in sight, dragging the dog, the entire team, moved by a common impulse, bounded toward me and at once administered a terrible thrashing to Tommy.

I finally rescued him from his angry companions, and after that Tommy was always the first to put his head in the collar in answer to my whistle. —Wide World Magazine.

The Ink Bag Squid.

When the squid is alarmed the ink bag that connects with the siphon opens its valve and a cloud of black fluid is ejected into the water, where it becomes quickly diffused, forming an effectual bar to pursuit. The squids also have a faculty of changing their color with great rapidity, and when laboring under great excitement waves of color seem to pass over them in quick succession. Their motions are extremely rapid, darting along with the velocity of light, now rushing into a school of small fry tail first, turning quickly to seize a victim and press it against the birdlike beak, where, by making triangular nips, the vertebrae is generally instantly severed. It is interesting to note that the bite is always in the same place—the neck.—Charles Frederick Holder.

Eton and Harrow.

One of the Eton and Harrow school cricket matches recalls an amusing incident. Eton had a monotonous series of wins for some years, and one day the Harrow captain received the following:

O ye boys of Harrow school,
Of cricket ye have no knowledge!
It is not cricket, but the fool,
You play against Eton college.

The Harrow school poet was hunted out and commanded to send a fitting reply. This clever response made him famous:

If, as you say, we play the fool,
No wonder we were beaten,
For at that game no other school
Could e'er compete with Eton.

Aliens in Old London.

Here is a curious report of the aliens in London in the year 1567: "There being a great increase of foreigners in the city, her majesty ordered the lord mayor to take the name, quality and profession of all strangers residing within the city of London." The list was headed by the item, "Scots, 40." Other nations were represented by "French, 428; Spaniards and Portuguese, 45; Italians, 140; Dutch, 2,030; Burgundians, 44; Danes, 2; Liegeois, 1."

Her Costume.

"Marie," asked the star of her maid, gazing perplexedly at her reflection in the mirror, "what was I about to do—step into the bathtub or go on the stage?"

Marie shrugged her shoulders. "How can I tell? Mademoiselle is dressed for either."—Judge.

Bright, Ruddy Cheeks For Pale Girls

NO LONGER ANY NEED TO BE PALE, WEAK OR ANAEMIC,

By Following the Advice of Miss McEwen You Can Quickly Become Strong Again.

The pallid girl always lacks appetite. What little she eats is badly digested.

At night she is restless, she dozes, but doesn't sleep soundly.

Vital force must be increased, new blood must be applied and a general rebuilding take place before she will feel like she ought.

Dr. Hamilton has invaluable experience in these cases and found nothing so prompt in building up young women as his vegetable pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Dr. Hamilton's Pills begin by cleansing the system and purifying the blood; they also improve digestion and render food ready for absorption. Additional nourishment is quickly supplied and the patient is fast strengthened and invigorated.

Full of spirit, ruddy and strong is the girl that assists her system by the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

The following recent letter from Miss Etta McEwen, of Haliburton, speaks for itself:

"In using Dr. Hamilton's Pills I find my system is wonderfully built up. It is certainly the most effective remedy I ever used. I have now a good appetite, sleep more soundly, and awaken in the morning feeling quite refreshed.

"Formerly I felt tired and depressed. I looked as if a severe illness were hanging over my head.

"Nothing could give quicker results than Dr. Hamilton's Pills and I strongly advise every young woman to use the."

All dealers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box or five boxes for $1.00, by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Belleville Prisoner on Nightmare?

A Belleville prisoner escaped from the jail there whilst waiting transportation to Kingston on a five year sentence. He made his exit over the jail wall by a rope made out of bed clothes. Up till now he has not been discovered. As he escaped by means of his bed clothes, might he not have ultimately ridden away on a nightmare?

St. John's Evangelical Services.

On Wednesday evening a large and interested congregation in St. John's church. An informal discussion took place in regard to the special services to be held on certain Sundays in October. It was decided to hold these meetings on Oct. 13th, 20th and 27th, and if possible to secure outside preachers of prominence for the two latter dates. Meetings will also be arranged for Wednesday evenings when there will be brief addresses by leading laity and men of the congregation. A general plan of campaign was formulated.

Peach Prices Here in Proportion.

The good housewife who is told by local dealers that peaches are $1 to $1.20 a basket, is threatened with nervous prostration when she sees in the paper that similar fruit is sold in Toronto at vastly lower prices. There.s a reason. Fruit pours into Toronto by boat and car from the Niagara district, often glutting the market. Then the Toronto commission men slaughter those peaches, and dealers sell them at prices which hardly pay picking and freight. When the Toronto market is short of fruit, however, human nature asserts itself and high prices are charged. Of course the Peterborough dealers have to pay ten cents per basket express charges from Toronto.

First Visit of "The Spring Maid."

Werba and Luescher's joyous operetta, "The Spring Maid," although in its third successful season will soon be in this city on Thursday, Oct. 3rd, with Gene Luneska and J. H. Goldworthy in the leading roles of the Princess Bozena and Prince Aladar. Both of these favorites secured a huge success in these same roles last year. Local theatre-goers will have their first opportunity to see the romantic opera with its pretty story of the dashing prince, who would flirt, and the saucy princess who leads him on, that she may finally teach him a lesson. "The Spring Maid" is considered to be the nearest to the musicalized version of that old but fascinating play "She stoops to conquer," that the world has ever known. There are tub-plots and divergencies in this modern operetta, but through it all is the romance begun in mischief and ending as all pretty love stories should end.

Took Pete for Greenhorn.

That old moss grown game of the Spanish prisoner, calculated to put a hiatus between the confiding man with money and his wealth, has been resurrected, and tried in this city. Mr. Pete Simons, the local tailor, has received the following letter from Madrid, Spain:

Madrid, Sept. 11,1912.

Dear Sir,—Although I know you only from good references of your honesty, my sad situation compels me to reveal to you an important affair in which you can procure a modest fortune, saving at the same time that of my darling daughter.

Before being imprisoned here, I was an established banker in Russia, as you will see by the enclosed article about me of many English newspapers which have published my arrest in London. I beseech you to help me to obtain a sum of 480,000 dollars I have in America and to come here to raise the seizure of my baggage by paying to the registrar at the court the expenses of my trial and recover my portmaneaus containing a secret pocket where I have hidden the document indispensible to recover the said sum.

As a reward I will give up to you the third part, viz., 160,000 dollars. I cannot receive your answer in the prison, but you must send a telegram to a person of my confidence, who will deliver it to me. Awaiting your cable to instruct you in all my secret. I am sir,

Yours truly,
IVANOVITCH.

First of all answer by cable not by letter, as follows:

"Answer Me"—Simons.

Address, Pedro Sabas, Sieta de Telegrafos, Santanha, Spain.

Mr. Simons says such nerve gives him a stitch in the side.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The fall fair at Mariposa was spoiled by rain.

Fank Smith who escaped from the Belleville jail last Tuesday, is still at large.

The good people of Apsley would welcome a resident physician with open arms and pocketbooks.

Whilst the local barbers' union encourage hair cutting, they seriously object to price cutting.

The Protestant home will be glad to receive donations of men's old clothing at all times.

The first "At-Home" of the season held in St. Alphonsus Lyceum on Wednesday night was a great success.

The scent of pickles and catsup, prevalent everywhere is enough to inspire Peterborough bachelors to change their state.

The columns of The Times are open to those having practical unbiased opinions to express, pro or con, regarding the proposed Hydro-Electric power question.

Fifteen binders were recently reported by a Mariposa farmer as stuck in the mud between that place and Lindsay; in short the binders were mud-bound.

Women's Christian Temperance Union will hold their meeting this afternoon (Friday), at 3.30, at the usual place of meeting over the Public Library.

To-night the city council of Kingston meets to consider the revival of a fair for that city. They should write for "tips" to the Peterborough Fair Directors.

A SOLUTION OF THE SERVANT GIRL TROUBLE

Yesterday Mr. A. N. Collins, representing Messrs. Collings & Company, Ltd., of London, England, was in the city, and gave The Times a call. The firm mentioned conducts a large employment business, that should help relieve the present scarcity of servant girls in this country. Trained servant girls are sent out to the British Colonies, as orders are received. The firm is very particular in its selection of girls. Girls must be thoroughly experienced and have written recommendations of character and a guarantee by two responsible acquaintances, that the girls will fulfill their contracts and work out the half of their passage money, paid in advance by applicants for such girls. Messrs. Collings & Co. also supply male help, both skilled and unskilled on similar terms. Mr. A. N. Collings has just returned from a trip through the far western Provinces and reports a great demand for such "help" as supplied by his firm. Mr. F. W. Miller is local agent for the company and will be pleased, at all times, to furnish information or complete contracts for all classes of labor.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR THE TRENT CANAL

The Chief Engineer of Railways and Canals, Mr. Burnham, M.P., the Superintendent of Canals, and Mr. Knox, Overseer, went up the canal on Tuesday to inspect the various locks and dams and to look into the claims for damages that have been filed. The question of the spillway in the new dams at Burleigh and Buckhorn was gone into, which it is alleged was the cause of the flooding. It is possible that the canal will be completed and opened in three years but not unless some of the contracts which are now lagging are completed on time. This is a matter of great concern to the Trent district and should be looked into by the people interested in the success of the route. When the canal is completed measures will be taken by the Government to increase its size and depth in order to make it a more complete link in the great inland waterway system of Canada.

FIGHTING EXPECTED Great Excitement To-Day in Ireland SUFFRAGETTES ORGANIZING To Make War In Canada MEETING OF ORANGEMEN LAST NIGHT

PREMIER URGES MANUFACTURERS TO CREATE WESTERN INDUSTRIES

Brilliant Banquet Closes C. M. A. Convention—Hon. J. D. Hazen Supports Suggestion For Canadian Lloyds—Protection Carries With It Duty of Maintaining Internal Competition

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—In point of members present, the high rank of the speechmakers, both as orators and statesmen, the spirit of optimism, patriotism and loyalty evidenced and the brilliancy of the function the banquet of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at the Chateau Laurier last night far surpassed any previous convention function in the forty-one years of the organization's history. No less than five Cabinet Ministers in addition to Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the leader of the Opposition being present. Hon. Geo. E. Foster, Minister of Commerce, was unavoidably absent, but Hon. J. D. Hazen, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, was an excellent substitute and made what was in some respects the speech of the evening.

Fully 500 were present, a brilliant assemblage of Canada's leading manufacturers and their guests. The guests of honor were seated at the head of the table, the Prime Minister at the right hand of President R. S. Gourlay and Sir Wilfrid at the President's left.

Premier Borden.

Premier Borden was given a splendid ovation as he took the floor. He would speak briefly, he said, as the hour was already late. "I was very pleased to find that every banquet which I attended in the Old Land was concluded by eleven o'clock and two important functions at 10.30. I think it would be a good thing for those in charge of banquets to adopt a similar rule."

"I do not think there is any great difference of opinion on the matter of our fiscal system," continued the Prime Minister. "It has not changed much in principle for the last thrity-three years. The original ideas of the National Policy was that those resources with which nature has so abundantly endowed us should be developed within our own borders."

The speaker briefly discussed some of Canada's national problems. "We must bring the inhabited East close to the inhabited West and every effort to that end must commend itself to the public spirited citizens of our country. You manufacturers have created a great industrial development and activity in Eastern Canada. Western cities are looking forward to the time when they may participate in that industrial development.

PETERBORO M.P. VISITS LINDSAY --WANTS CANAL DONE EARLY

Lindsay Warder: It has been common talk that the Trent Valley Canal will be completed within three years, but there is one prominent member of the Dominion House who firmly believes that this great stretch of canal will not be completed in five years, or a longer period, unless some drastic measure is taken to have the contractors rush the work to completion. That person is Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., for Peterborough.

Mr. Burnham arrived in town yesterday afternoon from Bobcaygeon, after having enjoyed a trip of inspection from Lakefield to Little Bob. Mr. W. A. Bowden, chief engineer, Mr. R. J. McLaughlin, K.C., Overseer Knox and Superintendent J. H. McClellan and party continued on to Coboconk. In all probability the route being carefully inspected.

The inspection was made, it is understood, with a view to recommendeer will recommend that the canal be ing certain improvements, settling damage claims, etc. The chief enginrusehd to completion, and that it be deepened to a depth of nine feet.

In a short conversation with a Warder reporter, Mr. Burnham stated that it was his intention to call a meeting of all the members of parliament, who represent ridings interested in the Trent Valley Canal, with a view to urging the Government to push the contractors and have the canal completed in three years time. It appears that a number of large and small contracts were handed out some time ago, and as yet no work has been started. In other words the contractors are holding the work on the canal back. Mr. Burnham believes that the Government should ask the contractors to start and finish their work or forfeit their contracts. "There is no question about it," said the popular M.P., from Peterborough, "That the Trent Canal will become a great artery for the lake traffic and it should be looked after. It is of vast importance to the towns and districts a[illegible] route that the work be completed at the earliest possible date, and I am going to do all I can to have the canal completed in three years time and not five or ten."

A COMEDY THAT MADE ALL NEW YORK LAUGH

A charming humorous stage scene that forms part of the rollicking fun in Werba and Luescher's successful operetta, "The Spring Maid," is in the second act where the droll burleque of the handkerchief scene from "Othello" is introduced by a quintet of comedians acting the part of strolling players. The deft touches of the fun makers, with every line a laugh provoker, furnishes a piece of exquisite satire that recalls the best of the Gilbert and Sullivan comedy scenes. The New York critics described this scene alone as being worth the price of admission when the opera had its record run on Broadway. "The Spring Maid" with Gene Luneska and J. H. Goldworthy last season's favorites in the leading roles, will be seen at the Grand Opera House on Thursday, Oct. 3rd, with all its wealth of scenery—its splendid company of musical comedy favorites—its now famous "Spring Maid" ballet and chorus and a special orchestra of New York musicians.

THE ULSTER COVENANT

To-day the Protestants of Ulster will be asked to sign the following Covenant prepared by Sir Edward Carson, ex-solicitor-general for Ireland.

> "Being convinced that home rule would be disastrous to the material well-being of Ulster, as well as to the whole of Ireland, subversive to our civil and religious freedom, destructive to our citizenship, and perilous to the unity of the empire; we, whose names are underwritten, men of Ulster, loyal subjects of his gracious majesty, King George, humbly relying on God, in whom our fathers in days of stress and trial confidently trusted, hereby pledge ourselves in solemn covenant throughout this, our time of threatened calamity, to stand by one another in defending, for ourselves and for our children, our cherished position of equal citizenship in the United Kingdom; and in using all means which may be found necessary to defeat the present conspiracy to set up home rule in Ireland; and in the event of such parliament being forced upon us we solemnly and mutually pledge ourselves to refuse to recognize its authority in the sure confidence that God will defend the right."

A covenant similar in tenor has been prepared for signature by the Ulster women.

IN previous issues The Times made reference to the following article, which appeared in United Canada, a Roman Catholic newspaper, published in Ottawa:

"The best service "West Peterborough "can render Ontario "and Premier Borden is to take "away Burnham, M. P., from the "House of Commons at the first opportunity.

"He has reached that stage where he "is taking himself seriously, as his "recent speech in Guelph indicates. "Just such speech kept Mowat in of"fice for 25 years in Ontario, and gave "Scott a new lease in Saskatchewan "Province a few days ago.

"For five and forty years Peterboro' "has been represented at Ottawa by "sane, clean, well-balanced gentlemen, "some times by Grits, but more often "by good Tories, but always by ro"bust Protestants. Since Confederation "we might recall such honored pioneer "names of former representatives as "Messrs. Bertrams, Lang, Perry, Grov"er, Hillard, Stevenson, Stratton, "Kendry, Hall, Finley, Sexsmith and "others.

"This country is large and sufficient"ly generous to tolerate a few freak "Pharisees, Protestants as well as Ca"tholics, but our national advance"ment at this period is such that we "can't afford to be too indulgent with "demagogues, or cheap, selfish gallery "actors like Burnham, who make big"otry their trade and occupations.

"United Canada has no political mas"ters, and the gospel of hate must "not be preached with impunity by "men posing as representative Chris"tians."

The Sentinel, in referring to the above states that the article shows that United Canada is of opinion apparently, that when the Roman Catholic priesthood rouses the world to madness as it has done in Spain, Portugal, France, England and Ireland, Canada should remain quiet and docile whilst the laws of the country are re-made for the benefit of the clergy.

Nor will United Canada's phatisaical reference to the Tory party mislead anybody for a moment. This is not the age of Grit and Tory in Canada. It is the age of the bond and the free. It is no longer a question of politics anywhere. It is a question of liberty. What actuated the present Pope and his hierarchy to take the stand which they have taken, and are so fiercely maintaining in the face of world-wide protest, it would be difficult to say if it were not that the whole spirit of Roman Catholicism is domination and submission, the absolute rule of the clergy and the craven submission of a prostrate, fear-bound people.

Mr. Burnham deserves the thanks of every lover of freedom in Canada. He has spoken courteously, always, but firmly and fearlessly. It is the courage and skill of just such men that prevent the Church from stealing a march upon us in the night. Others there are who either do not know or do not care. They are perhaps unable to appreciate the cir-

GREAT MEETING OF ORANGEMEN ON THE EVE OF "ULSTER DAY"

Unionist Policy on Home Rule Will Be Announced at Belfast—Troops Are Ready For Any Emergency

Belfast, Ireland, Sept. 27.—The official policy of the Unionist party in regard to the Home Rule Bill is to be announced to-night at a great meeting of Orangemen on the eve of Ulster day. To-morrow the men of Ulster will follow this by signing a solemn league and covenant not to submit to the Government's bill conferring a scheme of self-government on Ireland.

Lord Lansdowne, who like other official heads of the Unionist party, heretofore, has not taven any part in the great demonstrations which have been held throughout the Province of Ulster, has written a letter which is to be read to-night to the assembled Ulstermen and which states clearly the policy of the Unionist party.

The meeting is to be held in Ulster Hall, the scene of many historical and momentous protests against Home Rule, and indications are not lacking that the gathering will be unparalleled in point of attendance and importance. The building, which holds 3,000 people, will be filled to its utmost capacity, and overflow meetings have been arranged in adjoining thoroughfares. Still there will be much disappointment on the part of thousands who will be unable to hear Sir Edward Carson and the other Unionist leaders who have just returned from a series of demonstrations throughout the Province.

Body Guard of 100 for Carson.

The authorities say that they do not anticipate any disorder in connection with the demonstration on Ulster day, but they have taken the precaution of ordering the troops in the city to be confined to barracks in readiness should their services be required.

Sir Edward Carson during his progress to and from Ulster Hall to-morrow will be escorted by a bodyguard of one hundred selected men from the Unionist clubs.

The entire city is being gaily decorated to-day and from thousands of houses in the residential districts Union Jacks are flying. An appeal has been made to the Ulster men to make a unique display of the national flag to-morrow and it is expected that this will give occasion for an unprecedented show of bunting.

ARE KEEPING TROOPS WELL OUT OF SIGHT

Belfast, Sept. 27.—The authorities have taken the most stringent precaution to keep order. Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, the Earl of Aberdeen and Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Paget, commanding the troops in Ireland, are in constant communication with the War, Home, and Irish Offices in London. Troops are kept out of sight as much as possible but they are under arms and ready to move at a moment's notice.

In addition to the traops the entire Belfast police force and 2,000 Royal Irish Constabulary will be on duty to-morrow.

ENGLISH SUFFRAGETTE LANDS IN CANADA LOOKING MILD

Is Tall and Rather Frail in Appearance, But Talks Boldly—Her Policy in Canada—Will See Provincial Authorities First—To Act When Redistribution Occurs

Quebec, Sept. 27.—Miss Barbara Wylie, the English suffragette arrived in Quebec this morning on board the Impress of Ireland.

Interviewed by a reporter, Miss Wylie declared that Canadian women had promised the English suffragettes to help them in their fight for women's suffrage. Miss Wylie is of opinion that "the people of Canada are too sensible to force the suffragettes to use militant methods which were practically forced upon us by the treachery and extreme stupidity of Asquith's Government.

"We are resolved," she said, "to gain our point and we will continue the fight until it is won in Canada and the United Kingdom, even if we have to make ourselves a nuisance and to resort to force."

Looks the Lady.

In appearance, Miss Wylie hardly suggests the militant suffragette, being a quiet well-bred English lady dressed in good taste, slightly above medium height and frail, rather than aggressive in appearance. At first sight one would hardly think that she was capable of addressing a crowd or breaking the law. Still she is sincere in her convictions and ready to fight for the success of her cause.

She will remain in Montreal for several days and will go to Toronto.

HASN'T SLEPT FOR 30 YEARS

And Mr Herpin Finds He is Perfectly Well Without It.

Sydney, N. S. W., Sept. 27. — Mr. Albert Herpin, of Trenton, Western Australia, is said not to have slept for thirty years.

In an interview Mr. Herpin, who is now sixty years old, stated that he passes his nights in a chair, not even momentarily experiencing drowsiness.

He was attacked by this strange malady shortly after the death of his wife, more than thirty years ago.

Mr. Herpin states that he suffers no inconvenience from this prolonged insomnia, and often dreams while he is awake. He has come to the conclusion that sleep is not necessary to a man, and is delighted at the idea that he has not lost a great part of his life in unconsciousness.

G.T.R. EASTERN FLIER WRECKED, MANY HURT AND ONE MAY DIE

Chatham, Sept. 27.—When the Grand Trunk Eastern Flier, No. 16, left the rails last evening, five miles from this city, twenty passengers were injured, including two Toronto ladies and Miss Lafferty, daughter of A. M. Lafferty, Thames street, Chatham.

It is feared that Miss Lafferty's back is broken, but the others are not thought to be seriously hurt, although the train was heavily laden and going at about forty miles an hour.

How It Happened.

The train was due to reach Chatham from Detroit at 5.18, but hit a bad rail, it is said, two and a half miles west of the C.P.R. diamond. The engine ran on one rail for 22 car lengths; the day coach and diner turned turtle, landing in the ditch while the last cars broke away from the train and remained upright on the roadbed.

The day coach was filled with people, mostly Chathamites; it was the last day of cheap excursions to Detroit. This car caught fire when ditched, but the flames were soon put out.

The Grand Trunk officials are not sure of the cause of the accident, but suggest a broken or spreading rail.

The coal deposits of this and other countries seem to have an extraordinary closeness of relation to the savings bank deposits.

MEN JAMMED BETWEEN CARS

Two Men Instantly Killed at Barrie—Both Leave Families.

Tragedy occurred in the yards here this morning when James Chippington and W. J. Early were squeezed to death on the tracks close to the doors of Supt. Lynch's divisional office.

The men were yardmen and were chaining a drawhead of a freight car when a grain train backed into them, squeezing them both to death on the spot.

Both were married with families, Chippington being bandmaster of the Allandale band.

The Chicago Tribune avers that Canadians take life more easily than the Americans, and therefore finds particular appropriateness in the existence in Hamilton of a firm of Solicitors with the name of Lazier & Lazier. In Hamilton, you note.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth.—The question is asked me repeatedly: Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundred of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address Alf. Law, Ontario Manager, 65 Cecil street, Toronto D-6 in J4

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 200 full doses, $1, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 50c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at $1. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., [illegible] George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

HER TWO QUESTIONS.

One Was Answered Before and the Other After Marriage.

A silvery summer moon shone sweetly on the likewise silvery sands.

The summer sweethearts sat in silence. She was gazing up at the dim blue vault over them, where the little stars twinkled in a million tiny points of flame. He was gazing at her as if he'd like to eat her.

"Dearie, what makes the stars shine so dimly tonight?" she gurgled.

"They are outshone by the glorious light of your eyes, my darling," he whispered foolishly, "and so they pale in their splendor and—er—and"—

He didn't know how to go on, so he kissed her instead. And she was quite satisfied, perfectly content and glad.

And a solemn silence enwrapped the summer night.

• • • • • • •

Same moon, same sands, same people—only they are married now.

"I wonder how many telegraph poles," she murmured thoughtfully, "it would take to reach from here to the moon."

He looked at her as if he'd like to bite her.

"One, if it was long enough," he snapped. "Don't ask such silly questions!"

And a solemn silence enwrapped the summer night.—London Answers.

The Wash Boiler.

A faucet on the wash boiler is said to be an excellent thing. Instead of lifting out the clothes after boiling them open the faucet and let the boiling suds drain into a tub or pail. The clothes may be more easily removed to the rinsing tub after the boiling water has been drawn off. A plumber will be able to fit a faucet to a boiler at small expense.

RULERS OF THE NAVY.

Men Who Make Britannia Mistress of the Seas.

Stick close to your desks and never go to sea,
And you all may be rulers of the Queen's Navee.

The merry lines of the late Sir W. S. Gilbert in "The Yeomen of the Guard" are not without point, for the First Lord of the Admiralty, the man who has practically supreme control of naval affairs, is always a Cabinet Minister, who has achieved his position with pen and speech, and who probably doesn't know the difference between a cruiser and a battleship.

Of course, he is assisted in his work by experts. He may be termed the figure-head of the Board of Admiralty, which consists of what are known as six Lords Commissioners—two civil or political lords and four naval or sea lords. It is the latter, of course, who form practically the advisory board to the First Lord. The First Naval Lord, for instance, who is always an admiral of high rank and general experience, practically fills the position of Commander-in-Chief of the Navy. He is the chief naval adviser of the First Lord, and is especially responsible for the organization and distribution of the fleet for war. The Second Naval Lord is responsible for matters appertaining to the personnel of the fleet.

The Comptroller of the navy is the Naval Lord charged with the supervision of the whole of the material of the navy, including the construction, repair, armament, general equipment, and upkeep of every ship in the service. He is also responsible for the administration of the dockyards and for the construction of ships and machinery by contractors, and in these matters he has the assistance and advice of the Director of Naval Construction, the Engineer-in-Chief of the navy, and the Director of Dockyards. The Junior Naval Lord deals with transport, coaling, matters relating to pay, pensions, and medals, naval prisons, and collisions.

At one time the control of the navy was vested in a single person known as the Lord High Admiral, but in 1632 an act was passed by which a navy board was formed to take over the duties of the Lord High Admiral. Since that time the office of the Lord High Admiral has only been revived on two occasions—namely, at the beginning of the eighteenth century, when Prince George of Denmark held the office, and from 1827-8, when the Duke of Clarence was Lord High Admiral.

The arrangement of the departments of the Navy Board appointed to take up the duties of the Lord High Admiral was somewhat different from that which exists at the present time in connection with the Board of Admiralty, but the system of administration was practically the same. The Board of Admiralty as it works to-day was really established in 1832 by Sir James Graham.

Seventy-Two Years' Service.

Prizes for laborers who have been in the service of one employer or on the same farm for the longest period, offered in connection with the Hunts Agricultural Show in England, have disclosed some wonderful records. One man of eighty-three, named John Laxton, has a record of seventy-two years' service, and another man of sixty years has a record of fifty-three years. In the prizes fo sheep-rearing one shepherd had 153 lambs from 104 ewes, and another 118 lambs from seventy-eight ewes.

Didn't Need Washing.

The Aino, an uncivilized tribe on the island of Yezo, are not at all fond of bathing. Indeed, they share the Chinese idea that it is only dirty people who need continual washing. They do not regard themselves as dirty and therefore dispense with the uncleanly habit.

"You white people must be very dirty," said an Aino to a traveler as the latter was preparing to take a plunge into a limpid river, "as you tell me you bathe in the river every day."

"And what about yourself?" was the question in turn.

"Oh," replied he, with an air of contempt, "I am very clean and have never needed washing!"

Banish the White.

A statement which will be read with interest by every parent is made by a well-known London doctor, who has come out with the assertion that the use of the color white is so bad for young children that its almost universal employment on and around them is nothing short of cruelty. "Much of the irritableness and peevishness of babies and children may," he says, "be put down to their constant association with white.

"Banish white from your nurseries! See that everything about the children is colored, either green, blue or yellow—their clothes, cots, toys, nursery wall papers and even ceilings.

"It is sheer cruelty. It is just like placing anybody on the Alps, where he cannot escape from the monotonous dazzling fields of snow. Apart from the discomfort, white is extremely hurtful to the delicate retina of the eyes and may permanently disarrange the sight.

"Make the nursery bright and cheerful with soft colors. My own nursery is tempered a soft green, and my two children rarely wear only white clothes. Toys, cots, baby carriages—everything should be colored—never, by the way, a bright red, which is even more irritating than white."

Cutting a Hailstorm.

During a severe hailstorm in the Himalayas our native gardener brought out a hatchet and placed it edge upward in the garden to "cut the storm," as he said. Catlin in his "North American Indians" describes a ceremony of the Mandan Indians in which hatchets and edged tools are sacrificed to the "spirits of the waters" to avert a recurrence of the great deluge, of which the tribe has the tradition.—London Notes and Queries.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The farmers of Peterborough district will feel like regarding the present wet season as a veritable rain of terror.

A Russian scientist has just demonstrated that life may be frozen, kept in suspended animation, and after any length of time be revived. This does not necessarily apply to a political rest.

A citizen suggested to The Times that in view of the alleged coal combine a municipal wood and coal yard should be instituted. This is all very well on paper, but so far as we can see Peterborough cannot even get a satsifactory municipal garbage collector.

A copy of London Punch has recently been stolen from the Peterborough public library. A local Sherlock Holmes is now looking for a hyochondriac wearing green glasses who requires a ten-pound sledge hammer applied to his head before a joke sinks in.

A Mrytle hotelman was fined $100 last week by a Whitby magistrate for having liquor, presumably for sale in a local option district. A two gallon demijohn of whiskey was found wrapped in a comforter. The anti-local optionists claim that if the comforter outside the jar was innocent the comforter inside the demijohn should be debarred from obloquy.

Why are the lawyers of Ontario so modest in their advertising? On the windows of the average man-learned-in-the-law appears the bold announcement "law office." When the average client pays his bill he might reasonably look for some such legend as "law dispensed for a consideration."

This is the season that some hunters consider whether, when the season opens, to wear a purple-yellow and cardinal colored sweater when deer-hunting. By so doing they may give every deer in their district palpitation of the heart, but they would escape being shot in mistake for a deer by some excited and short-sighted nimrod.

The Council of Peterborough, in their wisdom have passed a by-law forbidding horse or other propelled conveyances to stand longer than 30 minutes beside the curb. Judging by the acrobatic performance of a horse, tied to an electric light pole on George street, Thursday night when it received a charge of electricity, the electric light company must be in sympathy with the by-law. The animal, however, must have thought the by-law a shockingly bad one.

RAISING MONEY FOR SCHOOLS.

The following item will be of interest to certain sections where it seems almost impossible to get sufficient money to properly equip and operate a public school. In Wake County, N.C., the rural schools were face to face with this difficulty, and the county superintendent of public instruction, Mr. Z. V. Judd, finally suggested that each school cultivate the land surrounding it and use the money obtained for the crop for school purposes. On certain days the children and parents met in "school-farm working bees" and put in their crop. The best farmer in the neighborhood supervised the work and the result was quite encouraging. The first work was done at Holly Springs two years ago, when two acres were planted in cotton. Men, women and children, all turned out to the "bees" and had dinner together. The crop netted the school $119. The following year eleven schools tried the plan and made a net profit of $1,200. The United States Bureau of Education has just issued a monograph, giving the details of the plan. One of the results, it declares, has been an increase of interest in schools and school-work on the part of both parents and children. We do not know, says the Guardian, that there are many communities in Canada where this works needs to be introduced for financial reasons alone, but as a means of education along agricultural lines it seems to us worthy of introduction in very ,any communities. Why should not each school have its own small Experimental Station? We have school gardens, Why not school market gardens on a somewhat larger scale? There lies in this a possibility of education in agriculture which seems very promising.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT, SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY.

Proof That Health and Renewed Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old, yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first gleam of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system gave way to normal activity. Dizziness and headaches ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, Y., Kingston Canada.

THE CASE OF ULSTER.

Liberals in England know that the Government cannot go on with its Home Rule programme. Ulster is a barrier, broad and high, says the News. The Ministerialist press may affect to consider the threats of the north as mere bluff, but even while The Daily Chronicle's correspondent is denouncing the Ulster attitude and slandering Ulster men, The Yorkshire Post is prophesying an early election.

The Presbyterian of Belfast, Derry, and the neighborhood is too definite in his thinking and too clear in his determination to be counted as a mere "blageur." Traditions of battle are cherished in every household. Something more than perfunctory political opposition has developed. Tempers are rising, as the recent riots showed.

The Government knows the facts. The Ministers realize the fervor of the North of Ireland people. They know without a doubt that no measure of Home Rule can be crowded down the throat of Ulster—without military repression. And the temper of England and Scotland would prevent the beginning of civil strife. No government could outlive such a storm as military intervention would precipitate.

So far the Government admits that Ulster is an embarrassment. The way out of an embarrassment is an appeal to the country. It is reasonably certain that not even the social programme of the Asquith-Lloyd-George combination could prevent the destruction of the Government, England and Scotland will not leave Ulster to stand alone.

HOROSCOPE VS. TELESCOPE.

Is astrology coming back again? This is the least likely age for it. We do keep in our vocabulary such words as "jovial" and "saturine," disastrous" and "ill-starred," all of them implying celestial influences; yet the shop windows of our opticians swarm with telescopes, photographs of the moon, and charts of the heavens. Never was there a time when the astral wonders enjoyed so much publicity as now. If an eclipse occurs, the how and why of it are rendered intelligible, even to the unscientific mind; should a comet sail into our ken from unknown depths, the newspapers vies with the platform in bringing it intellectually "within the reach of the masses." The very aspect of the night skies from month to month is so illuminatingly "written up" that there can be no more excuse in our day for Carlyle's complaint: "Would that somebody had taught me the constellations!" And with the popularization of descriptive astronomy has come so diffused a knowledge of our real relations with the heavenly bodies as makes dependence on what Nostradamus imagined about them centuries ago altogether irrational.

The time would thus seem to have long passed for the horoscope in human affairs. Yet some half dozen western newspapers have actually undertaken to revive that ancient forerunner of the telescope in the form of daily predictions based upon the supposed "influence of the stars." In these forecasts the whole twelve months are mapped out according to the lore of the "twelve houses," with its planets ascendant or descendant, with the baleful Saturn threatening misfortune and the propitious Jupiter big with the promise of prosperity. Such predictions as that "the United States will experience some financial trouble at this time," or that "the sign ruling in America threatens some troubles to rulers, and to the people, in some states, depression in Wall street from time to time, and losses to shipowners," need not detain us. The evil is that this ridiculous abracadabra is expanded into an attempt to show, from portents "favorable" and "unfavorable," what should be done and not done on particular days and at particular hours throughout the working year. If fanciful analogies extracted from planetary movements are to teach us when to buy and when to sell, when to travel and when to stay at home, when to be active and when to "keep quiet," the whole conduct of life might as well be surrendered to the astrologers. The astonishing thing is not that such predictions should be excogitated, but that there should be so obvious a demand for them.

OFFICIAL GUARDIAN OF TRUST FUNDS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Can you tell me whether there is absolutely safe investment for trust funds to executors for the benefit of children? Whilst I think the lawyers of Peterborough are as honest as those of any other locality, they are only human and, whilst intending to do right, might make unfortunate investment of funds.

—A "Parent."

Reply—You are right in saying that the lawyers of this city are honest as any class of men. Still, there is an officer of the Ontario Government whose title we believe to be "official Guardian," with whom trust funds may be deposited for maintenace of minors. This official, backed by the Government guarantees four per cent. interest on money left with him for investment.—Ed. Times.

HOW TO DISTINGUISH CARS

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Could not some legible and more easily understood system be inaugurated with the local street cars, to know which is which, as regards route. This little sign board over the motorman is indecipherable at a distance and necessitates the loss of many minutes by people waiting for a particular car. Why not, as in Boston, and some cities of Europe, have a separate series of numbers according to the route of the cars. A number painted in bold figures on the front of a car, would enable people to tell whether a Jackson Park or other car was coming along George street.

—Shortsighted.

RESULTS OF FARMING SPECIAL

Following on the excellent work which has been accomplished by the Canadian Pacific Railway through its Better Farming Specials which have traversed not only the lines in the West but throughout the province of Quebec and New Brunswick, arrangements are now being made for a special train being equipped to cover the Western section of Canada for the purpose of educating the people to cultivate mixed farming. The country is suffering through a scarcity of mixed farming not only in the West but throughout the Eastern provinces and the time is now arriving when something will have to be done to encourage the industry. Wheat farmers little realize the importance of mixed farming and the fact that there is a huge market for home produce of this kind. The "Mixed Farming special" is scheduled to commence its journey on October 28 and will continue throughout the month of November. The Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, is making arrangements, and has received every possible assistance from the railway company. The equipment of the C.P.R. train will consist of two car loads of pure bred stock, two passenger coaches fitted for lecture rooms, one baggage car for displays of grains, grasses, weeds, and dairy produce, a car load of poultry, one sleeper, one diner and one box car. Schools will be held for three hours at all stopping places, beginning at nine o'clock in the morning and two o'clock in the afternoon. Arrangements will be made in advance at all points, and no time will be wasted. The following officials will accompany the train: Professor W. J. Elliott, of the Department of Natural Resources; C. E. Lewis, prodincial superintenhent of fairs and institutes; H. A. Craig, superintendent of demonstration farms; and other provincial officials. The train will be made up in Calgary and there will be on board special lecturers, attention being particularly directed to the breeding of livestock and the raising of poultry, dairying, hog raising and vegetable growing. One of the interesting collections on the special will be the noxious weeds in different stages of growth. "I intend to have every section-foreman and every section man on our road," said one of the prominent railway officials "See that display of noxious weeds, in order that our right of way may be kept clean, and I have no doubt that the farmers will be an introduction to these weeds quite as much as the railwaymen. The feature alone should attract the farmers to the train."

Schools will be held at Cochrane, Langdon, Irvine, Bow Island, Bassano, Walsh, Taber, Stirling, Raymond, McGrath, Cardston, Carmangay, Okotoks, High River, Cowley, Pincher Creek, Crossfield, Didsbury, Vulcan, Red Deer, Bowden, Coronation, Castor, Stettler, Alix, Ponoka, Wetaskiwin, Provost, Hardisty, Killam, Daysland, Leduc and Camrose.

SIR WILFRID LAURIER having consented to give a Meeting in this District, you are Cordially Invited to be present at the ROLLER RINK on TUESDAY NIGHT, October the First, at Eight p.m., to hear him and other leading Liberals.

WOULD REMOVE J. H. BURNHAM

cumstances. It is hardly possible they can.

Mr. Burnham's value to the cause is shown by United Canada's desire for his removal. But United Canada's reference to Saskatchewan is worth noting. So the faithful do unite after all even prior to Mr. Burnham's speech at Guelph (which was never made, for he was never there or near it). So there is a fight on, with the faithful in it, even in the remote West! Surely Burnham can't have turned things upside down in far Saskatchewan! It may have been the Manitoba School question which came up so suddenly in the extension of the boundaries of that province last session. That may have been it.

Was the result in Saskatoon the vengeance of the faithful? If so, the faithful had better beware. Vengeance is not the monopoly of one faith, nor is a fanatical religion founded on aclaim of Godhead and infallibility, the only great moving power of the world. The parties to the world-wide strife are drawing together. They have been preparing for centuries. The opening gun was fired by the Pope. Will there by a greater victory than Waterloo, and who will win it, and some months ago the official organ of the Church, the Catholic Register, chided the Catholics of West Peterborough, for not removing Burnham. The cry, "Remove him!" has evidently gone forth all along the line. We shall see what we shall see. The attempt of United Canada to besmirch Sir John A. Macdonald and to claim credit for Confederation is laughable. It is more. It is impertinent.

JILTED CELEBRITIES

GENIUS HAS OFTEN BEEN SCORNED BY BEAUTY.

Parnell and His Heiress Were a Subject of Gossip Some Years Ago and Everybody Has Heard of How Lady Florence Paget Jilted Henry Chaplin—Dickens Was Rejected by the Original Dora of David Copperfield.

"Oh, why did I not marry dear Charley? How happy we should have been!"

In this burst of confidence to a friend a beautiful heiress regretted her jilting years ago of Charles Stewart Parnell; but there are not wanting admirers of the great Irish leader who affirm that the jilting was the best thing that could have happened to him. A happy married life would probably have prevented him entering the political arena altogether.

As a young man—his brother, Mr. John H. Parnell, tells us, in T. P.'s Magazine—the Irish politician fell in love with a pretty Wicklow girl of good family, with whom he hunted a great deal; but the affair came to nothing, and Parnell remained heart-free until he visited Paris in 1870, and there met a young heiress, to whom he became engaged.

They parted for a time, she to go to Rome and he to return to Ireland, and ultimately the girl wrote saying she was returning home, without mentioning [illegible] about an engagement [illegible] her, and the [illegible] when Miss W—— suddenly told him she was not going to marry him, "making the excuse that he was only an Irish gentleman, without sufficient means to marry, with no name in public, and that she could not marry anyone without a great public name."

This dumbfounded "Charley," who, after trying his best to persuade her to marry him, gave up the heartbreaking job. To distract his thoughts Parnell plunged into politics, with what result the world knows. He never met the lady again, but, according to the authority mentioned, another heiress in later years proposed to "Charley," who left Paris to escape her.

This romantic episode of political life calls to mind the jilting of the well-known Unionist politician, Mr. Henry Chaplin, who years ago was engaged to Lady Florence Paget, one of the loveliest women in English society, in fact, she was known as the "Pocket Venus."

The engagement had been publicly announced and the day of the marriage fixed, when the startling news leaked out that Lady Paget had eloped with the late Marquess of Hastings, one of the most daring turf-plungers the racing world has ever known. Under the pretext of shopping at a certain well-known emporium in the West-end, Lady Paget walked in at one door and out of another, where she met the marquess, with whom she immediately drove away. They were at once married.

Only a year or two later fate gave Mr. Chaplin his revenge. His horse, Hermit, won the Derby at enormous odds—something like 66 to 1 — and Lord Hastings was ruined. He died only four years after his romantic marriage, and his widow, who afterwards married Sir George Chetwynd, also died a few years ago. It was [illegible] like [illegible] years [illegible] Mr. Chaplin recovered from the blow, and then he married Lady Florence Leveson-Gower, sister of the present Duke of Sutherland.

The story of how Charles Dickens was jilted is particularly interesting. When he was eighteen Dickens became acquainted with the three daughters of George Beadnell, a Lombard street banker. With one of them, Maria (the original of Dora in David Copperfield), who was a year his senior, he immediately fell in love, and Maria flirted with him very desperately. But the love-making of the future novelist was not treated very seriously, for he was not considered by any means an eligible party, and even Maria herself adopted an attitude of amused tolerance.

For three years the affair went on, and then Dickens realised that his case was hopeless. He pleaded in vain with the girl whose caprices maddened and gladdened him alternately; for, as a matter of fact, Maria Beadnell was a wilful coquette. The end of it all was a reply that held out no hope, and so the parting came. For twenty years they saw no more of one another. Ultimately Maria Beadnell was married to Henry Louis Winter, and when Dickens met her again time had wrought sad havoc on his youthful ideal.

A curious fact regarding the jilting of famous men is that through pique they have occasionally been led into marriages which have resulted in the utmost misery for both husband and wife. There was John Ruskin, for instance, who fell in love as a boy with the beautiful Rose de la Touche, whom he wooed with poems, romances and dramas, and mute worship, receiving nothing in return but chilly indifference and lively ridicule. The result was that, at the age of twenty-nine, he married a lady of great beauty, Miss Grey, of a family long intimate with the Ruskins. The marriage, we are told, was a somewhat hurried act, and brought no happiness to either, and six years afterwards it was dissolved.

Then there is the case of Lord Byron, who was led into his unhappy matrimonial alliance with Miss Milbanke, only daughter and heiress of Sir Ralph Milbanke, through being rejected by another lady. He had proposed to the latter, and, as he held her letter of refusal in his hand, he said to a friend: "It seems that it is to be Miss Milbanke, after all." He sat down and wrote the fatal letter, handing it to his friend for perusal "A very pretty letter," his friend remarked, after reading it; "it is a pity that it should not go." "And it shall go!" exclaimed Byron, and thus opened one of the most tragic chapters of his chequered life-story.

FEATURES OF THE ISSUE

Included in the general debenture debt of $3,399,000 are $1,250,000 long term Bonds, which the municipality is holding in its treasury. The present issue of short term notes is made to avoid disposing of these Bonds in the present unfavorable market for long-term securities.

Point Grey immediately adjoins the present city limits of the City of Vancouver on the south and west, and has a population of 8,000 and an area of 12,000 acres—twice the area of the city of Vancouver proper:

Vancouver is rapidly outgrowing its present limits and the question of annexation is being discussed seriously.

Point Grey is regarded as the choicest residential section in "Greater Vancouver," and includes "Shaughnessy Heights," an exceptionally desirable residential section, recently opened by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Point Grey has been decided upon as the location for the new Provincial University of British Columbia:

We recommend these Notes as a high-yield municipal security and point out that, in addition to being a first charge against the municipality, they are additionally secured by the $1,250,000 Treasury Bonds.

Encyclopaedia Making is NOW at an End!

For twenty years Encyclopaedia publishers have been trying to product a Loose Leaf Encyclopaedia — knowing this to be the only way to keep an Encyclopaedia always up to date and have a work that would NEVER GROW OLD. The great difficulty has been to invent a Loose-Leaf binder that would be appropriate for a library volume.

Nelson's Perpetual Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia
And Research Bureau for Special Information Has Solved the Problem!

In 1907, Thomas Nelson & Sons—established for over a hundred years in Edinburgh, Scotland—perfected and patented a Loose-Leaf Binder, a volume so practical that by simply turning a nut the pages are loosened, when the old and obsolete pages can be easily removed and the new pages substituted. The publishers issue to subscribers, twice a year, not less than 250 revised pages—in March and in October—thereby making Nelson's Encyclopaedia always new and abreast of the times. By means of the Loose-Leaf Binding Device, Nelson's Encyclopaedia contains the very latest information while other Encyclopaedias quickly grow old.

NELSON'S IS THE ONLY AUTHENTIC AND RELIABLE ENCYCLOPAEDIA, because it is the only one that is new and can be kept new.

NELSON'S RESEARCH BUREAU is maintained entirely at the publishers' expense to supply any special information required by purchasers of the Loose-Leaf Encyclopaedia—and it is the only information institution of its kind in the world.

With NELSON'S LOOSE-LEAF ENCYCLOPAEDIA and the services of NELSON'S RESEARCH BUREAU FOR SPECIAL INFORMATION, you have at your command—positively guaranteed to you—all the available information and knowledge of the world.

Upwards of a million dollars have been spent and more than 1,200 specialists in all parts of the world have been engaged to make Nelson's the supreme authority for those who know or who want to know. Nelson's has been approved and adopted as an authority by Canadian Government Departments, Universities, Colleges, Libraries and School Boards throughout the Dominion.

And Nelson's contains a complete account of the discovery of the South Pole (2 pages) and the S. S. Titanic disaster (4 pages)—both articles prepared by experts.

IF YOU BUY NELSON'S YOU WILL NEVER NEED TO BUY ANOTHER.

BULLET IN BRAIN, MAN MAY LIVE

Shot After Row Over Cards in Winchester—Alleged Assailant Is Held.

Boston, Sept. 26.—With a bullet lodged at the base of his skull after passing through the right eye, Giovanni Angelo was expected to recover by the doctors at the Winchester hospital last night. He was shot on the street in front of his home at 52 Harvard street, Winchester.

Pasquale Vozzelia of the same address was arrested on charge of the shooting. Special Officer Edward F. Shea heard two shots, ran to the scene and ordered Vozzelia to put up his hands. Vozzelia threw the revolver into the bushes and surrendered.

Angelo and Vozzelia quarrelled in a game of cards at North Woburn. When they reached home Angelo threatened his friend with a razor, the latter says.

CANDIDATES SCARCE FOR VIENNA PRIESTHOOD

Vienna, Sept. 26.—Although a heavy rain fell throughout almost the entire day, there was a large attendance upon the various meetings of the Eucharistic congress to-day. Dr. Pfeifer, of Vienna, in the course of a discussion on the subject of homes for theological students, deplored the scarcity of candidates for the priesthood in Austria and Germany, and the inadequate provisions for training candidates as compared with the excellent provisions made for the students in the colleges of the United States. Dr. Pfeifer declared that unsatisfactory facilities for boarding students in Vienna was largely responsible and argued that the erection of student homes on the lines already contemplated by the University of Vienna.

WEALTHY CHINESE IN SLAVE TRAFFIC

Cleveland Police Make Raid On Alleged Clearinghouse.

Cleveland, Sept. 21.—An after-midnight raid on a Prospect avenue house, constituting a portion of police war against the alleged white slave "clearinghouse" here, resulted in the arrest of Ida Pheillips, early this morning on a white slavery charge. Blanche Vernon, an eighteen-year-old girl, is held as a witness. Two other women escaped by jumping from upper story windows.

The police say they have discovered a wealthy Chinese of Cleveland and Pittsburg to be at the head of an organized clique which is working in the interest of the white slave trade. They say, too, that a Cleveland banker is implicated in the ring.

In the case of firms, the actual signature, the nature of the occupation, and place of residence of each member of the firm must be given.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Honourable the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent (10 p. c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering decline to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the contract. If the tender be not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

A ROMAN VILLA.

Fine Example of an Ancient Residence Is Found In England.

A particularly fine example of a Roman villa—its discovery kept secret until now — has been unearthed at Hambleden, near Henley, England.

Very little imagination is required to vest this relic of the Roman occupation with the greatest interest. From the spaciousness and luxurious equipment of the house and outbuildings it is clear that here dwelt a Roman of wealth and refinement. Within the high wall that surrounded his estate were his fish ponds, his private well, his bath—the waterpipes and a bracket for holding washing utensils still remaining — and the apparatus for heating his house.

The house itself contained beautifully designed tessellated floors, and money, a scarab ring, oyster shells—some oysters left unopened — have been found.

The date of the villa is about 100 A.D. It was early in the fifth century that Rome ceased sending troops and officials to Great Britain, that the Roman civilization gradually lapsed in our island and that—doubtless—this villa was fast becoming submerged to give place in our day to a field of waving corn.

It is a wonder, this Roman villa. It is so vivid and so intimate. We do not realize sufficiently the extent to which the ideas and customs of Rome permeated the island close on two thousand years ago. In spite of the fact that the climate of Britain was a byword even in those days, yet Horace would have looked with a kindly eye on this spot, and have compared it not unfavorably, perhaps, with his own farm at Tivoli. True, here was no vaunted simplicity; the owner had his bath, his Samian ware and his horde of coins; but his was essentially a country house, and in farming, from a practical point of view, it is evident that he took considerable interest.

The various lesser buildings contain, or, rather, their foundations contain, numerous hypocausts or "flues," one of whose uses was certainly that of drying and baking corn. It was a frequent custom in those days not to thrash the corn, but to pluck the ears only while they were green, and hence the necessity of artificial treatment. Some of these devices are T-shaped, others more elaborate, and one is almost identical in design with the Union Jack.

Near the villa are three good-sized fish ponds, without which no Roman villa of those days was complete, and one can walk over the beautiful tessellated pavement, and there, too, is already for use the lead pipe through which the water came to bath and kitchen and the well is full of water.

It is all rather awe-inspiring. There are bowls and pots galore, mostly in a fragmentary state, nails, pins, bones and many coins of Claudius, Vespasian and Trojan. These of course are valuable in fixing the date, which is probably about 100 A.D., though even such an authority as Prof. Haverfield is unable to form an exact estimation of this or of the precise nature of the villa or its owner. That he was a man of culture and refinement is certain. He was even an antiquarian himself, for an Egyptian scarab of the 19th Dynasty (1200-1400 B.C.) is among his possessions, and this is the first scarab to be discovered in England. He was also an epicure, and, like all Romans, loved oysters, by which, according to a certain poet, Nero declared Britain justified herself. Empty shells marked his feasts, and, wonder of wonders, some are even unopened.

Disputed Authority.

There is a story told of Drs. Chalmers and Stewart, who argued on the street corner on some knotty point of theology with Scottish pertinacity until it was time to separate, when one of them remarked, "You will find my views very well put in a certain tract," of which he gave the title, upon which, to his surprise, his antagonist replied, "Why, I wrote that tract myself."

An Unsinkable "Boat."

Among the water vehicles the most extraordinary is the catamaran of the Madras fishermen. It consists of three logs lashed together flush with the surface of the water and is propelled with a single oar. The catamaran is really unsinkable and in rough weather could be used when an ordinary boat could not.

The British Museum.

About forty miles of shelving are taken up by the books in the library of the British Museum in London. There are about 2,000,000 at present, and the number increases at the rate of 50,000 a year.

A DRAMA IN REAL LIFE.

The Play That Was Enacted In the New York Subway.

A subway train was leaving Grand Central station with its usual 5 o'clock load. In a corner by the door sat a man whose worn clothes and shabby shoes were whitened with the lime he worked in. His face was lean and marked with tired lines, and his hands, joint swollen and blunted, hung wearily between his knees. A large woman, bejeweled and plumed, entered the car with a rustle of skirts and a jingle of finery that attracted all eyes. Swaying uncertainly on her high heels as she made for the only empty seat, she was thrown from her balance by a sudden lurch of the train, and only the laborer's promptly outstretched arm saved her from an ignominious fall.

She straightened herself with what grace she could and turned with a smile to thank the gentleman who had rescued her. A glance at the workman, however, made her expression change to one of disdain. With a perceptible sniff, she ostentatiously brushed her gown where it had come in contact with the man's hand and sank into the seat. Looking as if he had received a blow in the face, he shrank back and dropped his eyes in confusion.

Across the car, watching the little episode, sat a lady with a sleepy child in her arms. The little girl, perhaps three years old, was dressed in spotless white, from her dainty kid shoes to the deep frilled bonnet that framed her rosy face. When the guard called Seventy-second street the man slowly rose, and the lady opposite stood up with the child still in her arms. Touching the man's arm, she said, with a smile:

"Will you not be kind enough to carry my baby up the stairs? She is too sleepy to walk and very heavy for me to lift."

The man straightened himself and, with face alight, carefully took the little white clad form in his arms and led the way up the stairs. Passersby stared curiously at the trio, but there was no consciousness of that in the woman's gracious "Thank you! That was a great help."

As the mother and child passed on the man lifted his battered hat and turned homeward with a buoyant step.—Youth's Companion.

FLAMES THAT ARE NURSED.

Siam's Sacred Fire and the Fires of Vengeance of Sicily.

History records many strange examples of fires that are kept burning for long periods of time. The best known examples are those of pagan people who keep up perpetual fires as a religious custom.

The oldest known fire in the world is that in a Buddhist temple near Bangkok, Siam, which has been burning without interruption for two centuries. A priest is always on guard to watch the sacred flame. Every four years a new flame is kindled, but this is always lighted in the great brazier from a brand of the old fire.

The life of a grand vizier in Persia was once saved by a Parsee trader, who discovered and exposed a plot to kill the royal official. In spite of the fact that the Persians are Mohammedans and hold fire worshipers in contempt, a single flame has been kept burning continuously for seventy years at Sarhad in honor of the humble trader.

In inhabited lands within the arctic circle fires have been known to burn for years. This, however, is not so much a custom as it is a simple practice based on reasons of convenience and necessity because of the scarcity of wood or kindling of any kind to produce ignition. Oil is the fuel of the people of the snows.

In Sicily it has long been the custom of the vendetta to maintain the "fire of vengeance" until one's enemy has been slain. The criminal records of that fiery island are full of instances of fires that were kept up for years until death overtook the unfortunate victim whose life had been marked for destruction.—New York Times.

Snug Harbor.

More than 100 years ago a sailor died, leaving an apple orchard comprising twenty-one acres of land, then in the suburbs of the city of New York. He left it for the purpose of establishing a home for aged, indigent and infirm sailors. This was the foundation of the Sailors' Snug Harbor, on Staten Island, where nearly 900 worn-out sailors are enjoying all the comforts of home in their declining years. The little apple orchard of more than 100 years ago is now in the heart of New York city, with a value estimated at $20,000,000.

Both Fond of Money.

Whitaker Wrong—Won't you lend me even a fiver, then? Well, I must say you're thundering fond of your money. Cautious Friend—Yes; that's where the difference is between you and me. Whitaker Wrong—How do you mean? Cautious Friend—Why, I'm fond of my money, and you're fond of other people's.—London Tit-Bits.

Stung Himself.

"Pink, I'm afraid you are wasting your time brushing my hat. I don't seem to have anything smaller than a ten dollar bill."

"I kin change dat all right, boss."

"Then you don't need the tip. So long, Pink."—Chicago Tribune.

Pulque Trains In Mexico.

Pulque is the national drink of Mexico. It is made from the juice of the magney plant, large tracts of which are cultivated outside of Mexico City. As a rule, there are 500 plants to the acre.

The juice is extracted by peons. It is shipped into town in long trains much like milk trains here, and the consumption is so great that it is equivalent to two quarts a day for each person.

The white liquid tastes like yeast, and in small places it is a common sight to see pigskins filled with the liquor strapped to a burro's back, the pulque making a gurgling sound with every motion of the animal.

FRIGHT IN BATTLE.

How Grant Cured a Badly Scared Staff Officer.

One of General Grant's newly appointed staff officers had never been in any serious engagement. But almost the first day that he reported to Grant he was placed under a fire of the hottest and most severe kind. The screaming of the balls, the roaring of the cannon and the sharp crack and rattle of the musketry thoroughly demoralised him. He became absolutely sick and paralyzed with fear. He was so weak from nervous excitement that he lost physical control over himself.

General Grant came up at the very climax of his fright, and, noticing his pale face, his blue lips and chattering teeth, he said: "Captain, you are frightened. That is natural enough. You will get over it. Suppose," continued Grant, "I should come to you with a hat containing ninety-nine white beans and one black one and I should ask you to thrust your hand into the hat at a venture and pick out the black bean. Do you think your chance of getting that black bean would be very good? Well, your chance for being hit under this fire is no greater than your chance for drawing the black bean."

This officer at once took heart, and from then on he never showed the slightest sign of fear.—Life.

A DYED BEARD.

It Probably Changed the History of the Whole Human Race.

The most striking case in history of the importance of trifles is furnished by the story of Musa, the leader of the Moslem host which won from Christendom in three and a half years dominions which it took the soldiers of the cross twenty generations to win back. He had a red beard. This was a trifle.

Musa, though a very great general, was a very vain man, and he dyed his beard black. This was another trifle. One of his captains chaffed him on the subject, and Musa forthwith had him stripped and scourged. For this, at the very height of his conquering career, Musa was recalled by the caliph and disgraced. This made it impossible for him to command the Moslem army at the battle of Tours, on the issue of which, as all historians agree, the destinies of Europe and perhaps of the whole human race depended.

It is almost certain that if the genius of Musa had replaced the incompetence of the half dozen tribal leaders whose dissensions made victory impossible the forces of Islam would have joined hands from the west to the east and inclosed Europe in their grasp.—London Standard.

Animals That Are Always Enemies.

Many animals are born with an inherent antipathy for other animals. The excessive fear shown by young rabbits which for the first time smell a ferret and of young turkeys which hear the shrill cry of a hawk they have never heard or seen before are proved examples of the strength of these instinctive antipathies. But the case of the weasel and rat is, perhaps, more to be noticed because of the greater equality of the antagonists. The feud is so bitter that a meeting between them almost certainly means death to one or both. Friendships are not uncommon between the cat and dog and have been known between a dog and wolf, but the mutual attitude of the weasel and rat is invariably war—war that is waged to the death.

Great In His Line.

Robert Barr once showed a portrait of Mark Twain to a silk merchant of Lyons. "Tell me who that is," Mr. Barr said. The merchant gazed at the portrait and answered, "I should say he was a statesman." "Supposing you wrong in that, what would be your next guess?" asked Mr. Barr. "If he is not a maker of history he is perhaps a writer of it—a great historian, probably. Of course it is impossible for me to guess accurately except by accident, but I use the adjective 'great' because I am convinced this man is great in his line, whatever it is. If he makes silk he makes the best." Mr. Barr told the French merchant who the portrait represented and said, "You have summed him up in your last sentence."—London News.

Gladstone and Grillion's.

Mr. Gladstone's election to Grillion's club, which took place in 1840, was far from delighting him at the time. He declared it to be "a thing quite alien to my temperament, which requires more soothing and domestic appliances after the feverish and consuming excitements of party life, but the rules of society oblige me to submit." Lord Morley adds: "As it happened, so narrow is man's foreknowledge Grillion's down to the very end of his life nearly sixty years ahead, had no more faithful or congenial member."—London Chronicle.

Soon Remedied.

Irate Householder—Why can't you answer this bell sooner? The fire's out again. Where have you been?

Maid of all work (resigned and leaving)—I've been packin' up my things. I can't stop to do that. It'll light itself soon. The 'ouse is afire!—London Punch.

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once a day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtides, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.—New York Sun.

Made the Sea Run.

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher after the first selection at the musicale, "I have had some exciting experiences. Coming over here from London a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the immigrants. You should have seen the heavy sea running!"

And the big, rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

CAMP LIFE AT BISLEY

SURREY TOWN IS ONLY ALIVE TWO WEEKS EACH YEAR.

It Was In 1890 That the Drowsy Little Place Became Famous and Wimbledon Lost Her Glory—Armies of Marksmen Are Provided For Luxuriously as if by Magic When the Time Comes—Tables on the Sward.

For centuries the little Surrey village of Bisley had its sleepy being, remote from the tide of men. Then, in the year 1890, came a dramatic revolution in its unchronicled life. Bisley awoke from her long slumber to find herself famous, her name as familiar almost at the other end of the world as that of London itself. The mantle, removed from Wimbledon, was placed on her diffident shoulders; and thousands of stalwart soldiers were drawn to her from the four corners of the earth. She had become the Mecca of the Empire's marksmen, with a proud place in the map of England.

Even now, however, in her changed guise, Bisley is still allowed to slumber for fifty weeks of every year. If you take the train from Waterloo to Brookwood in any one of these somnolent weeks, and continue your journey to Bisley, you will see little on her famous common to suggest her glory. In High street, it is true, you will see a stately and desolate pavilion, staring blankly at the offices of the National Rifle Association over the way. You may wander past rows of empty and dreary wooden huts and explore a few bungalows, the local headquarters of certain shooting clubs.

But of human life you will probably see scarcely a trace beyond a straggler or two, rifle in hand, making their way to the ranges from which comes to your ears the intermittent crackle of firing. Collect these scattered pilgrims to Bisley, and you may perhaps, if you are in luck, count a round score of them.

Bisley has not come to its annual awakening. But when each year brings round this dramatic moment, the revolution is such as may well make the least impressionable gasp with amazement. One day all is emptiness and desolation; a few days later a city has sprung into being as if by the touch of a magician's wand—a city of canvas, on which the eyes of the world are focussed. Once more Bisley is on millions of tongues, from Scotland to the Cape and the Antipodes; and thousands of the Empire's deadliest marksmen are flocking to its tented streets, every man of them bent on winning laurels for himself or the land of his home.

Within a week the solitudes of the common are humming with the coming and going of armies of uniformed men. It is no mere soldiers' camp that has sprung thus swiftly into being; its is a well-ordered, miniature city, with every equipment, not only for comfort, but for luxury. There are seductive restaurants, where any thirst can be quenched and the palate, even of the modest epicure, satisfied. There are billiard rooms and clubs, with every temptation to recreation, from a game of bridge to a "hundred up." There are streets of shops, each with its tempting array of goods to meet almost any reasonable want, and to lure money from the pocket. There are hair-dressing saloons to provide the luxuries of a shampoo and a comfortable shave; and there are even boot-blacks, whose cry of "Shine, sir?" falls pleasantly on the ear.

Far and wide the eye ranges down avenues of glistening white tents, and is caught by the flutter of hundreds of flags of all the hues of the rainbow; while, that nothing may be lacking to please the senses, the air is musical with the tramp of marches played by the town band, or the lilt of dance melodies which stir the pulses and set the feet unconsciously a-jigging. And through every flag-decked, flower-decorated avenue of Canvas-town are streaming hundreds of sun-tanned soldier men, each carrying his cherished rifle, the winner of laurels to come.

And still they come in their thousands to this Mecca of tents. Watch the trains (or, more accurately, trams) as they disgorge, one after another, their human freight to swell the thousands already there—keen-eyed men from many points of the compass, hungry as hunters after their journey, and eager to show that the British marksman can eat as well as he can shoot.

If you are there about two o'clock in the afternoon you will see a sight that is good for the eyes and stimulating to the most jaded appetite. You will see tables by the furlong, spread on the greensward, and an array of steaming, succulent joints—baked meats, whose odor comes gratefully to the nostrils—and over which a white-clad chef flourishes a gleaming carving knife. A small army of police are squatting or lying on the grass; for there is little work for the civilian arm to do in keeping Mars in order.

But, in spite of the general atmosphere of luxury that Canvas-town presents, our marksmen are no Sybarites; and each man of them all, from officer to private, has his equipment rigidly prescribed, down to the water can and metal basin in the case of the latter, and the bath and tripod washstand in the case of his superior. But all that is necessary for comfort he has; and, after all, he has come on serious work, and not to play—although facilities for play are abundant when his work is done.

Balls are tabooed, it is true; and midnight is the signal for all lights out. And when the last shot is fired, and the King's prizewinner has been chaired amid tumults of cheers, there are few who do not regret that the time has sped so quickly, whether or not they have found a place on the roll of honor.

Then comes the dismantling of Canvas-town. The tide of humanity has once more receded and left it desolate, the far-spreading tents vanish as if by magic; and Bisley Common again slumbers.

An Appropriate Hymn.

A certain professor of divinity who was spending the summer in the Scottish highlands was invited to baptise the infant son of the local minister.

When the time for the ceremony arrived the guest gave out for congregational singing a paraphrase much favored on such occasions. "Let us," said he, "sing from the fifth paraphrase, beginning at the second verse, 'As sparks in close succession rise'."

To his consternation, the congregation giggled audibly. Afterward, asking the clerk what he had done wrong, that functionary replied, "You must know, professor, the minister's name is Sparks, and yonder is his tenth bairn."

Eccentric Tides.

Owing to the effects of shore lines and other influences which are more or less obscure it is very difficult to account for the peculiarities exhibited by tidal waves in various parts of the world.

Interfering waves cause once a day tides at Tahiti and in some other places, while on the other hand in the harbors back of the Isle of Wight and in the Tay in Scotland there are three tides in a day. The latter have been ascribed to overtides, produced by the modification of tidal waves running ashore and resembling the overtones of musical sounds.—New York Sun.

Made the Sea Run.

"Ah, yes," murmured Miss Screecher after the first selection at the musicale, "I have had some exciting experiences. Coming over here from London a terrible storm arose, and I had to sing to quiet the immigrants. You should have seen the heavy sea running!"

And the big, rude man in the pink necktie gazed out of the window.

"I don't blame the sea," he muttered.

CAMP LIFE AT BISLEY

SURREY TOWN IS ONLY ALIVE TWO WEEKS EACH YEAR.

It Was In 1890 That the Drowsy Little Place Became Famous and Wimbledon Lost Her Glory—Armies of Marksmen Are Provided For Luxuriously as if by Magic When the Time Comes—Tables on the Sward.

For centuries the little Surrey village of Bisley had its sleepy being, remote from the tide of men. Then, in the year 1890, came a dramatic revolution in its unchronicled life. Bisley awoke from her long slumber to find herself famous, her name as familiar almost at the other end of the world as that of London itself. The mantle, removed from Wimbledon, was placed on her diffident shoulders; and thousands of stalwart soldiers were drawn to her from the four corners of the earth. She had become the Mecca of the Empire's marksmen, with a proud place in the map of England.

Even now, however, in her changed guise, Bisley is still allowed to slumber for fifty weeks of every year. If you take the train from Waterloo to Brookwood in any one of these somnolent weeks, and continue your journey to Bisley, you will see little on her famous common to suggest her glory. In High street, it is true, you will see a stately and desolate pavilion, staring blankly at the offices of the National Rifle Association over the way. You may wander past rows of empty and dreary wooden huts and explore a few bungalows, the local headquarters of certain shooting clubs.

But of human life you will probably see scarcely a trace beyond a straggler or two, rifle in hand, making their way to the ranges from which comes to your ears the intermittent crackle of firing. Collect these scattered pilgrims to Bisley, and you may perhaps, if you are in luck, count a round score of them.

Bisley has not come to its annual awakening. But when each year brings round this dramatic moment, the revolution is such as may well make the least impressionable gasp with amazement. One day all is emptiness and desolation; a few days later a city has sprung into being as if by the touch of a magician's wand—a city of canvas, on which the eyes of the world are focussed. Once more Bisley is on millions of tongues, from Scotland to the Cape and the Antipodes;; and thousands of the Empire's deadliest marksmen are flocking to its tented streets, every man of them bent on winning laurels for himself or the land of his home.

Within a week the solitudes of the common are humming with the coming and going of armies of uniformed men. It is no mere soldiers' camp that has sprung thus swiftly into being; its is a well-ordered, miniature city, with every equipment, not only for comfort, but for luxury. There are seductive restaurants, where any thirst can be quenched and the palate, even of the modest epicure, satisfied. There are billiard rooms and clubs, with every temptation to recreation, from a game of bridge to a "hundred up." There are streets of shops, each with its tempting array of goods to meet almost any reasonable want, and to lure money from the pocket. There are hair-dressing saloons to provide the luxuries of a shampoo and a comfortable shave; and there are even boot-blacks, whose cry of "Shine, sir?" falls pleasantly on the ear.

Far and wide the eye ranges down avenues of glistening white tents, and is caught by the flutter of hundreds of flags of all the hues of the rainbow; while, that nothing may be lacking to please the senses, the air is musical with the tramp of marches played by the town band, or the lilt of dance melodies which stir the pulses and set the feet unconsciously a-jigging. And through every flag-decked, flower-decorated avenue of Canvas-town are streaming hundreds of sun-tanned soldier men, each carrying his cherished rifle, the winner of laurels to come.

And still they come in their thousands to this Mecca of tents. Watch the trains (or, more accurately, trams) as they disgorge, one after another, their human freight to swell the thousands already there—keen-eyed men from many points of the compass, hungry as hunters after their journey, and eager to show that the British marksman can eat as well as he can shoot.

If you are there about two o'clock in the afternoon you will see a sight that is good for the eyes and stimulating to the most jaded appetite. You will see tables by the furlong, spread on the greensward, and an array of steaming, succulent joints—baked meats, whose odor comes gratefully to the nostrils—and over which a white-clad chef flourishes a gleaming carving knife. A small army of police are squatting or lying on the grass; for there is little work for the civilian arm to do in keeping Mars in order.

But, in spite of the general atmosphere of luxury that Canvas-town presents, our marksmen are no Sybarites; and each man of them all, from officer to private, has his equipment rigidly prescribed, down to the water can and metal basin in the case of the latter, and the bath and tripod washstand in the case of his superior. But all that is necessary for comfort he has; and, after all, he has come on serious work, and not to play—although facilities for play are abundant when his work is done.

Balls are tabooed, it is true; and midnight is the signal for all lights out. And when the last shot is fired, and the King's prizewinner has been chaired amid tumults of cheers, there are few who do not regret that the time has sped so quickly, whether or not they have found a place on the roll of honor.

Then comes the dismantling of Canvas-town. The tide of humanity has once more receded and left it desolate, the far-spreading tents vanish as if by magic; and Bisley Common again slumbers.

An Appropriate Hymn.

A certain professor of divinity who was spending the summer in the Scottish highlands was invited to baptise the infant son of the local minister.

When the time for the ceremony arrived the guest gave out for congregational singing a paraphrase much favored on such occasions. "Let us," said he, "sing from the fifth paraphrase, beginning at the second verse, 'As sparks in close succession rise'."

To his consternation, the congregation giggled audibly. Afterward, asking the clerk what he had done wrong, that functionary replied, "You must know, professor, the minister's name is Sparks, and yonder is his tenth bairn."

Three cattle shown at the Bobcaygeon Fair, whilst being driven home, instead of crossing the bridge, jumped into the river at imminent loss of life. A Clue to Hasting's Burglary.

A G.T.R. detective has been at Hastings to investigate the burglaries committed there recently. The sleuth did not discover whom the bold burglars were, but came to the conclusion that several burglaries had been committed by the same parties as the marks of a knife blade below several windows were the same size. It is a lucky thing for the burglars that Jim Smith's cow had obliterated their footmarks or it might have been established that the thieves wore heels to their shoes.

Fell Into the Wet Canal.

As Henry Simeon was going to work yesterday morning, whilst close to the Hunter street bridge, the wind blew his hat into the canal. Henry tried to fish it out with a pole and losing his balance fell into the wet and cold water. His cries brought assistance and he was helped to the bank, in an exhausted state, by two men and a pole. He claims to have been an expert swimmer in the old country. Possibly the Canadian water, like Canadian air is more rarefied than that of England.

Explosion at the Dump.

An explosion took place at the dump near the National Hotel yesterday morning. It seems that a number of loaded cartridges had been accidentally deposited at that spot, and the smouldering fires of the dump, despite water thrown by the Fire Department and that from the clouds, had set them off. There was no particular damage done and no need of fear may be apprehended from the fire, as a caretaker is constantly on guard.

Work Was Plentiful This Year.

The past season has been a prosperous one for labor in Peterborough. Whilst the wet weather kept building operations somewhat backward, much building has been accomplished. Work in connection with civic improvements has been particularly plentiful, and the labor required was at times almost more than the supply. That there was an abundance of work is borne out by the fact that the Board of Works appropriation was expended before the close of the summer season.

Important Change in Review.

Next week, Mr. Fred C. Mills, of Hamilton, will join the Review, having purchased an interest in the business and will take up the business management of the paper and advertising, devoting his time to that department. Mr. Mills, according to the press of that city, is one of the best and most progressive among the newspaper men of Canada.

The Times extends fraternal and cordial welcome to this recent addition to Peterborough newspaperdom.

Did Dredge Damage Water Main.

The Water Works Department of the town of Lindsay is blaming the Government dredge for damaging the water main which lies on the bed of the Scugog river. When the Water Works Dept. tried to furnish water to a C.P.R. engine on Thursday, but found there was no pressure. Superintendent Hammond claims that the Government dredge had damaged the pipe. A diver will be employed to ascertain the cause of the break. A Times representative yesterday made enquiries at the Trent Canal office. Here he was told that so far no report of the accident had been received. It was intimated that the water main in question had interfered with the steamers. It was thought that the dredge was nowhere in the vicinity of the accident.

An Irishman Gets Satisfied.

A local Irishman known throughout the city as a well intentioned, but somewhat illiterate man, yesterday was getting shaved in a Peterborough Union barber shop. When the tonsoralist was through with the shave, the Irishman exclaimed "Have you any of the old fashioned bay rum the kind with a tang to it?" "Yes" replied the barber. "Just wait until I finish your shave and I'll fix you up." The barber gave a few slight scrapes to that Hibernian chin so as to raise the skin slightly. He then took a big palm-full of straight Florida water and slapped it on the chin of his customer. With a yell, the Irishman said, "You A.P.A.! Ye omadhaun! Send that stuff out to Germany and it will keep their minds off English conquest."

DOCTOR'S BOYISH FACE REVEALS SKIN RENEWER

I heard the other day the story of the physician with so admirable a skin that all his women patients asked the secret. He told one, who generally told others, that, knowing the remarkable absorbment property of ordinary mercolized wax, he concluded this suqstance would make an excellent complexion renewer and preserver. Knowing the wax could not harm the skin, he began using it after shaving. He soon observed that the old, withered, colorless cuticle was being gradually absorbed and replaced by younger, healthier skin. This was the simple secret of the silver-haired doctor with the boyish face.

The secret became public property. Now women everywhere use mercolized wax, applying it nights like cold cream, washing it off mornings—continuing until the complexion is entirely renovated. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggit's,

FIRE AT CAR BARN CAUSES DAMAGE

Yesterday evening at 7.30 the Fire Brigade made a quick run to the street car barn on King street. It seems that one of the cars in the barn became short circuited and the "juice" quickly set it afire. The brigade promptly laid a line of hose ready to meet possible contingencies, but by the use of three chemicals, succeeded in quenching the incipient conflagration. About $160.00 worth of damage was done to the car and rheostats. Fully insured.

WEDDING BELLS.

Gilbert—Rogers.

The marriage took place at New Glasgow, N.S., yesterday, of Mr. Chas. A. Gilbert, son of Mr. Alfred G. Gilbert, 270 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, to Miss Clara Rogers, daughter of Mr. Rufus Rogers, of New Glasgow.

Morrow—Reynolds

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening, Sept. 25th, at the home of Mr. Archibald Reynolds, Springville, when his youngest daughter Miss Mildred Maud, was married to Mr. Lorne J. Morrow of Peterborough, son of Mr. James Morrow, of North Monaghan. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Marsh of Springville Presbyterian church.

After the usual congratulations and dejeuner, the young couple left for their new home in Peterborough, the bride wearing a smartly tailored suit of black, with large black beaver hat, in order that the prisoner's counsel, Mr. T. F. Hall, might look up some features of the case. On Monday the prisoner came up before Judge Benson and was sentenced to fifteen months—to date from the 15th of July.

A WINNER.

It was at the dinner table and the hostess addressed her husband's brother:

"Do have another piece of pie, William."

"Why, really, I have already had two; but it's so good I believe I will have another."

"Ha, ha!—mother's a winner!" said little Frank, excitedly. "She said she'd bet you'd make a pig of yourself."—Harper's Magazine.

A GRAND CHANCE TO INVEST

The phenominal growth of Calgary, Alta., is too generally known to require comment. Calgary seems to have an extraordinary future. Already it is practically impossible to rent a residence at any figure within reach of the average man's pocket. This means that a demand exists and will rapidly grow for building lots near the city. Attention is called to the advertisement of Dundurn Park lots, contained in this issue.

These lots, sold at the small sum of $100 and upwards, are most advantageously located and must increase in value rapidly. Since first insertion of the advertisement, a jockey club has been formed in Calgary, with large capital. This company has an option on land adjoining Dundurn Park. Here they will erect a modern and expensive grand stand and complete other improvements. This will naturally advance the price of the lots mentioned. Those seeking a safe and lucrative investment should write to Mr. D. Hope, manager, Dundurn Syndicate, Room 5, Mackie Blk., Calgary, Alta.

THOUSANDS SIGN COVENANT TO RESIST HOME RULE

Religious Services in the Churches and a Joint Gathering in Ulster Hall Attended by Ministers of All Denominations Preceded the Signing of the Covenant on City Hall Steps

Belfast, Sept. 28.—Thousands of Orangemen to-day signed a solemn covenant never to recognize an Irish Parliament, to obey or to pay any taxes it may impose. Sir Edward Carson, former Solicitor General of England, a member of King George's Privy Council, a permanent advisory branch of the Cabinet, and leader of the anti-Home Rule campaign was the first to place his name upon the roll.

In an interview, before putting his name on the roll Sir Edward said:

"It is in no spirit of defiance that we take this pledge, but in the determination, with God's help, to keep what we have got, defeating the wickedest conspiracy against civil and religious liberty that ever endangered a free, blameless, and God-fearing people.

"The Government, for party purposes, proposes to deprive us of our constitutional rights. It says we must submit to a substitute constitution which never has been submitted to us or to the electors of the United Kingdom.

A Religious Ascendency.

"The thing is absurd. To have equal rights. We have an equal share in all that belongs to the British Empire. We receive equal justice. That is what we are asked to give up in order that there may be in this country ascendency of one religion over another, an ascendency which we have been attempting to put down through all these past centuries.

"We are asked to accept what is admittedly a subordinate place under the Empire, to dissolve partnership with the richest exchequer in the world, to surrender our part in the direction of Imperial affairs, in the expansion of which all who have gone before us have shed their best blood, and to have our daily lives managed by those who have never been anything but a disloyal faction and no part of the great united Empire.

"If this policy is persisted in there is no length to which we may not be compelled to go, no sacrifice we may not be compelled to make."

RUSH AMENDMENTS TO INSURANCE BILL

London, Sept. 28.—Early this week the correspondent of The Times aroused intense surprise by announcing the coming collapse of the doctors' opposition to the Insurance Act. According to this, Lloyd George will publicly state after the opening of Parliament that he considers the claims of the doctors to be largely just and will recommend special grants to be made for them. Thereupon, the British Medical Association will recommend that the doctors accept the bill.

This forecast has been reaffirmed, and emphatically denied. Apparent-however, much progress has been made recently towards a better understanding between the doctors and the Government.

Large numbers of doctors are still resigning their club appointments, but many others would welcome a compromise. Meanwhile, both parties admit that far-reaching reforms are essential in the Act. Probably an amendment Act will be introduced into Parliament and rushed through at an early date.

TERRIBLE DROWNING ACCIDENT IN THE OMEMEE RIVER

Mr. and Mrs. William M'Caffrey of Toronto, Mrs. M'Caffrey Sr. and Two Children go to a Watery Grave

Special to The Times.

Mr. William McCaffrey, his wife and two children, ares respectively 11 and 12 years old, came down on Friday to visit the parents of the former, who live in Omemee. On Saturday the visitors took a canoe, and accompanied by Mrs. McCaffrey Sr., paddled down the Omemee river. When they had reached a point about seven miles from the village, the canoe in which they were fishing upset and all were drowned.

When the party did not return, in reasonable time to the village, their friends became anxious, and proceeded in boats to search for them. They found the overturned canoe floating in the river, and at about 3 a.m. Sunday discovered the bodies. It is supposed that the party were trawling and in attempting to get a maskinonge into the canoe, the frail craft upset.

The bodies were taken to the McCaffrey home and will be interred in the Omemee cemetery this afternoon. Mr. McCaffrey occupied the responsible position of Sales Manager of the Canadian General Electric Co., and is well and favorably known in Peterborough and elsewhere. He leaves to mourn his loss a sister, Mrs. (Dr.) Thompson, of Havelock, and two brothers residing in Toronto. Mr. McCaffrey was about 35 years of age whilst his wife was about 30.

This sad accident has cast a gloom over Omemee and will be heard of with deep regret in this city.

Far be it from us to ever again accuse Philadelphia of being slow. The Quaker City has at last emerged from its state of somnolency and has given us a real innovation. Men, how would you like to have your transfer handed out by a sweet young miss in a dark blue uniform?

They're doing it, you know, down in Philadelphia. The rapid transit company which collects the public's nickels up and down the streets of the city has seen a chance to reduce the high cost of conductors, and now every little pay-as-you-enter car is threatened with a wage breaker all its own.

Can you imagine the street car romances bound to result from such an innovation? Can you see the number of men folk certain to be lured away from home and mother by the siren voice of an Amazon in blue and brass?

WOODROW WILSON TELLS WHAT HE THINKS OF RECIPROCITY

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 28.—Mr. Woodrow Wilson, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, in his speech here made a remarkably frank acknowledgement that the reciprocity agreement would have been injurious to Canada. He said:

"I was very much interested in some of the reasons given by our friends across the Canadian border for being very shy about the reciprocity arrangements. They said 'We were not sure where these arrangements will lead, and we don't care to associate too closely with the economic conditions of the United States until these conditions are as modern as ours."

"When I resented this and asked for particulars I HAD TO RETIRE FROM THE DEBATE, BECAUSE I FOUND THAT THEY HAD ADJUSTED THEIR ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT TO CONDITIONS WHICH WE HAD NOT YET FOUND A WAY TO MEET IN THE UNITED STATES."

NIAGARA FALLS WOMEN HELD FOR SHOOTING HUSBAND

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Sept. 28.—The authorities have woven a strong circumstantial evidence case against Mrs. Maud Haener, who is charged with shooting her husband, George Hanner, while they were riding through the lumber yards of the North Tonawanda on the night of Sept. 12. Mrs. Hanner will be formally arrested to-day. Besides facing this charge, Mrs. Hanner, who is now in St. Mary's Hospital convalescing from injures the police declare to be self-inflicted by accident, may be called upon to answer the charge of bigamy.

Three Husbands.

District Attorney Fred M. Ackerson says the woman has had at least three, and possibly four husbands.

She is a native of Niagara Falls, Ont., and her maiden name was Mary Maud Dell, and she is about 40 years old. According to information which has not yet been verified, the woman's first marriage was contracted about eighteen years ago, her husband's name been Webber. This marriage, he understands, is recorded at Welland. She was subsequently married again, according to the district attorney, but he is not certain as to the name of this husband.

SPECIAL MEETING.

Remember the special meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Peterborough Health Association, which will be held this afternoon (Monday) in the Council Chamber at 3 o'clock. All those who assisted in any way at the Peterborough Summer Fair are cordially invited to attend.

OSHAWA PASSES LIGHTING BYLAW

Oshawa, Sept. 28.—The ratepayers to-day voted for the electric light by-law. The proposal was to merge the existing electric light and gas lighting contracts into one contract and give the town practically double the lighting, and in more modern fashion, for practically the same outlay in money. The by-law received a substantial majority.

Alsace-Lorraine Granted Home Govt.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 28.—The granting of complete autonomy to Alsace-Lorraine as one of the federal German states would in the opinion of French and German delegates to the international peace conference, be a decided step toward better relations between France and Germany.

They presented a resolution to this effect to-day and it was adopted by acclamation by the congress.

Secret Diplomatic Conferences Ended

Balmoral, Scotland, Sept. 28. The secret diplomatic conferences between King George, Sir Edward Grey the British foreign minister, Sergius Sazanoff, the Russian foreign minister, Count Benckendorff, Russian ambassador at London, and other diplamats, have now concluded and the statesmen have left the castle. No statement has been issued in connection with the conversations.

M. Sazanoff intends to remain in England until the middle of next week, paying private visits.

BOYNE FLAG BORNE IN ULSTER "READY TO FIGHT" SAYS GARSON

Frenzied Cheering From 20,000 Ulstermen Greeted Carson's Words of Defence to Home Rule

Belfast, Sept. 28.—The singing of the National Anthem by an audience of three thousand persons, comprising everybody representative of Belfast's great industrial mercantile, civil and religious community, last night brought to a close a great anti-Home Rule meeting in Ulster Hall amid a fervor which was not equalled even by the anti-Home Rule convention of 1892. The meeting renewed the adoption of the resolution passed at that convention, protesting against Home Rule Parliament for Ireland.

The supreme dramatic movement of the memorable gathering was the unfurling and presentation to Sir Edward Carson, the chief propagandist against Home Rule of the flag carried by King William at the Battle of the Boyne. The flag was greeted with frenzied cheering.

Less Talk of Resistance.

It is a treasured relic of the descendants of Lieutenant Watson, who carried during the famous fight. Colonel Wallace announced that they thought that "now is the time it should come forth to again take its place in the van of freedom." The flag has a five-pointed star in the centre, and a red cross in the corner.

Ready to Fight.

The appearance of Sir Edward beneath the folds of the Boyne flag was the signal for a tremendous demonstration. The history of the incident inside the hall had been passed from mouth to mouth, and there had been a general shout to bring the flag outside. A deafening roar of cheering went up as the crowd saluted the colors.

Sir Edward then made another stirring speech, concluding it by saying: "We wish peace, but not at any price. We will preserve our birthright, and I tell those who govern us, without fear or hesitation, that if they wish to fight, then, by Heaven, we are ready."

Repeated waves of cheering followed Sir Edward's re-entry into Ulster Hall. The large crowd then formed itself into a procession and marched through the principal streets of Belfast, singing and cheering. In some cases blank shots from revolvers were fired, but the police at no time had occasion to interfere with the marchers on account of disorder.

REPRESENTATIVE OF BARNARDO HOME COMING

The Council of the Barnardo Homes are sending a deputation to Canada with the object of making the work more extensively known throughout the Dominion, and in the hope of securing a larger measure of Canadian sympathy and support. The task of representing them on this important mission has been undertaken by the Rev. W. J. Mayers, the Senior Deputation Secretary of the Institutions, and one of the late Dr. Barnardo's old friends. During the 24 years of his connection with the work, Mr. Mayers has advocated its claims in various parts of Great Britain.

Not only on account of the importance of his mission, but because Peterborough has a local branch of the Barnardo Homes. Mr. Mayers is assurred of a cordial welcome on his arrival in this city.

TORONTO MEN AND WOMEN PROTEST AGAINST HOME RULE

Magnificent Gathering Cheered Hon. Walter Long in Massey Hall And at Crowded Overflow Meeting in Victoria Hall

Toronto, Sept. 28.—On the Eve of Ulster Day, Toronto made a magnificent turnout in protest against Home Rule and to welcome the Rt. Hon. Walter Long, formerly chief secretary for Ireland in the Balfour Administration, who last night received an ovation in Massey Hall followed by another in Victoria Hall, the fervor of which has seldom if ever before been equalled here. The British statesman found the hearts of his audience and the cheer for him led by Mayor Geary, as he was about to depart from Massey Hall, was taken up with such spontaniety and vigor that the effect was wonderful and it was an indication of how the people feel on the Home Rule question.

Another remarkable thing about it was the manner in which the large representation of ladies joined in the cheering. Like their escorts they were thoroughly in earnest and unrestrained in expressing their feelings.

GRAND WAVING OF FLAGS.

Union Jacks, thousands of them had been distributed among the audience. Nearly everybody had one and many people had two. As the audience cheered the flags waved and the spectacle was indeed an inspiring one. Some persons in the galleries not satisfied with waving a small flag stirred up the big ones which formed part of the decorations. It was a meeting never to be forgotten in Toronto.

It was frequently remarked what a pity it was that the Arena had not been engaged because many persons were unable to gain admission to the hall or to Victoria Hall when the overflow gathering left as many were outside while they listened to Mr. Long who went there directly from Massey Hall meeting. The smaller Hall was filled with West Toronto Orangemen who had marched down in a body headed by their fife and drum bands and had been too late toget into Massey Hall.

STOLE 50 GOWNS, WITH BABY STARE

Girl Who Posed as Daughter Of Governor Foss Arrested

New York, Sept. 28.—Posing as a daughter of Governor Foss of Massachusetts, as wife of various wealthy men, and acting other bold roles, a girl in her early twenties, swindled Boston and New York firms of several thousand dollar's worth of finery, according to a confession which the police declare the young woman made to-day.

When she first fell into their hands she told the police she was Frances Hollender, child of wealthy parents and a "pupil in a Baltimore convent." Her "Baby stare" bespoke the role she assumed, but according to the alleged confession, she was better acquainted with the Reform School at Lancaster, Mass., than with the Baltimore convent, and had a string of half a dozen aliases.

The West side police station looked like the dressing-room of an opera house when the detectives spread out fifty expensive gowns of Fifth avenue modelling they had discovered at a well known hotel, where the girl had been staying. Upon the discovery of her great store of gowns she is alleged to have made her confession.

PINE TAR CORDIAL

NUGENT'S SARSAPARILLA—PRICE FOR large bottle, 100 full doses, 50c, and well worth it, too. It's better to take no medicine at all than to depend upon cheap concoctions that are compounded to sell at a low price and a big profit just because there is a large demand for certain remedies at certain seasons of the year. There are so-called Sarsaparillas offered to us to sell to our customers at 50c a bottle that would bring us a larger profit than Nugent's Sarsaparilla sold at 50c. Nugent's Sarsaparilla purifies the blood, arouses the torpid liver, drives out all impurities, cleanses and tones up the system, and helps Nature throw off the dullness that comes from the indoor life of winter. It arouses energy, brightens the eye, clears the brain, gives lightness to the movements. Nugent's Sarsaparilla is not the only thing you will find in this drug store. We make a specialty of Nugent's Remedies. Nugent Drug Co., 386 George St. directly opposite Cressman's store.

GO TO FLORIDA FOR HEALTH AND wealth—The question is asked me repeatedly; Why, if all that is claimed for the climate and earning capacity of the land in Florida is true, how is it that only a percentage of the States area is under cultivation? It is a fair question, and the answer is a simple one. After the war between the North and the South Florida found herself in a deplorable condition financially. The State Government leased hundreds of thousands of acres of its best prairie and timber lands for periods running as high as 99 years. This latter period tied up the great Kissimmee Prairie until recently. It is now, however, in the hands of a splendid colonization company, whose selling agent is the Hunter Land Company. Kissimmee Prairie is in the Southern portion of Osceola County, and is noted for its fertility and uniformity of soil. It is the healthiest spot in North America, and every day in the year is a growing day. Write for maps, illustrated literature, excursion particulars and any desired information. Address AM. FIRE AT CAR BARN CAUSES DAMAGE

Yesterday evening at 7.30 the Fire Brigade made a quick run to the street car barn on King street. It seems that one of the cars in the barn became short circuited and the "juice" quickly set it afire. The brigade promptly laid a line of hose ready to meet possible contingencies, but by the use of three chemicals, succeeded in quenching the incipient conflagration. About $100.00 worth of damage was done to the car and thecotats. Fully insured.

BEDS HARD AND SOFT.

Contrast In Methods of Sleeping In Different Countries.

The Canadian or European in order to get a good night's rest ordinarily requires a soft pillow under his head, but the Japanese stretching himself on a rush mat on the floor puts a hard, square block of wood under his head and does not sleep well if he does not have it.

In China they make a great to do with reference to their beds. These are very low, scarcely rising from the floor, but are often carved exquisitely of wood. Like the Japanese, the Chinese never makes his bed any softer than is possible by the use of rush mats.

It is a curious fact with reference to the sleeping habits of the various peoples that, while those in northern countries do not appear to be able to sleep well unless they have lots of room in which to stretch their legs out fully, the inhabitants of the tropics often curl themselves up like monkeys at the lower angle of a suspended hammock and sleep soundly in that way.

The robust Canadian will cover himself with a pair of blankets and throw his window open to the air even in the dead of winter, and sometimes he will not complain if there is a bit of snow on the window sill in the morning.

But the Russian likes no sleeping place so well as the top of the big soapstone stove in his dwelling. Crawling out of this blistering bed in the morning, he delights in taking a plunge in a cold stream even if he has to break through the ice to do so.

In Lapland the native crawls, head and all, into a bag made of reindeer skin and sleeps warm and comfortable within it. The East Indian, at the other end of the world, also has a sleeping bag, but it is more porous than the Laplander's. Its purpose is to keep out the mosquitoes rather than to keep its occupants warm.

The Canadian clings to his feather pillow, but he has long since discarded the old fashioned feather bed for the hair or straw or felt mattress. The feather bed has been relegated to the country, and many persons who slept on it in their childhood found it unendurable in their later years.

But the German not only sleeps on a feather bed, but underneath one as well. The feather covering used in Germany, however, is not so large or thick as the one used as a mattress, and the foreigner who undertakes to sleep beneath it often finds his feet suffering from cold, while his shoulders are suffering from heat.

Longing.

He—What a glum and dismal wife you are! I don't belive you could be lively or pleasant to save your life.
She—I may be a dull wife, but just give me a chance and see what a merry widow I would make.—London Stray Stories.

DOGS OF ALASKA.

A Story That Illustrates Their Wonderful Intelligence.

Dogs on the trail often display intelligence that seems almost human. On one occasion I remember I was driving a team of dogs down the Yukon river and had one dog in the team called Tommy, who was a good dog in his way, but who showed a strong dislike to being harnessed—to such an extent that in the morning, when all the other dogs were hitched to the sleigh, Tommy would hide himself under a cabin or bury himself in the snow.

This continued for several mornings, and beating him seemed to have no effect. One morning, however, the team had been standing in the cold waiting for Master Tommy. I finally discovered him hiding under the roots of a tree, and as soon as I came in sight, dragging the dog, the entire team, moved by a common impulse, bounded toward me and at once administered a terrible thrashing to Tommy.

I finally rescued him from his angry companions, and after that Tommy was always the first to put his head in the collar in answer to my whistle. —Wide World Magazine.

The Ink Bag Squid.

When the squid is alarmed the ink bag that connects with the siphon opens its valve and a cloud of black fluid is ejected into the water, where it becomes quickly diffused, forming an effectual bar to pursuit. The squids also have a faculty of changing their color with great rapidity, and when laboring under great excitement waves of color seem to pass over them in quick succession. Their motions are extremely rapid, darting along with the velocity of light, now rushing into a school of small fry tail first, turning quickly to seize a victim and press it against the birdlike beak, where, by making triangular nips, the vertebra is generally instantly severed. It is interesting to note that the bite is always in the same place—the neck.—Charles Frederick Holder.

Eton and Harrow.

One of the Eton and Harrow school cricket matches recalls an amusing incident. Eton had a monotonous series of wins for some years, and one day the Harrow captain received the following:

O ye boys of Harrow school,
  Of cricket ye have no knowledge!
It is not cricket, but the fool
  You play against Eton college.

The Harrow school poet was hunted out and commanded to send a fitting reply. This clever response made him famous:

If, as you say, we play the fool,
  No wonder we were beaten,
For at that game no other school
  Could e'er compete with Eton.

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Ambition, and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sick tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and desponbent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barcelona, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this evil condition of my system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I did not know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me I found a true remedy. Instead of griping with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if physic has not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed within a month I reduced it, and when the system finally acted of its own accord as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c. boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarrhozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

A MEDICAL MYSTERY.

It is one of the mysteries of infantile paralysis that it ceases practically on a certain day in September. The day of its beginning early in the year is not agreed to, but nearly all the authorities name the 15th of September as the day on which it stops claiming new victims or so nearly ends its activities as to make that day the marked one of the season in which cases of that disease are common.

Some say it is due to the nearness of frost or its actual presence. Others, that it is as mysterious and unaccountable as hay fever, which is said to attack the victims on a certain day of a particular month in every year, the day varying slightly with those who are subject to that ailment.

The 12th of August is not more devoted to sport in England than it is marked among the hay-fever victims as the day in which their tribulation begins.

Of course, the main point of disposition about infantile paralysis now is that the season for it is practically over.

AEROPLANES IN WAR

The most telling demonstration of the revolution in the art of war which has been brought about by the use of aeroplanes has been afforded by the army manoeuvres in England. So completely had aeroplane scouts kept both armies informed of one another's movements that the manoeuvres ended in a muddle before there had been so much as a clash of opposing forces. The work of the air scouts was so prompt and efficient that every move by one army was immediately checkmated by a corresponding move by the other until bath reached a situation known in chess as a stalemate. Neither could move and the game was a draw.

The result attracts general attention to the use of the aeroplane in war and raises the question whether tactics and generalships are to play much of a part in the wars of the future. The only use of aerial craft in war thus far has been in Tripoli, where an Italian dirigible made a successful reconnoitering expedition. The airship sailed over the Turkish positions, dropped bombs, secured photographs and returned to camp in a few hours with accurate information as to the location of the enemy. Aeroplanes were used successfully for scouting purposes in the recent German manoeuvres, although one aeroplane bearing important dispatches was forced to descend and was captured by the enemy. This same thing happened to an Italian aeroplane in Tripoli. During our own manoeuvres aeroplanes on several occasions in a few minutes obtained information which could not have been secured under the old conditions in the same number of hours without the loss of men.

It is obvious that the army supplied with aeroplanes has a tremendous advantage over the army not so equipped. But whether two aerial fleets would not destroy one another before either could accomplish anything remains to be tested by actual experience. The organizers of the British manoeuvres appear to have made the mistake of not pitting the aerial fleets against each other, and allowing them to operate as though they could not be eliminated except by shots from the ground.

FIANCEE DROPPED DEAD IN PARLOR

And Wealthy Young Farmer Went Suddenly Insane.

Monticello, N. Y., Sept. 29.—Clarkson Nicholas, a wealthy young farmer of Jeffersonville, is in the Middletown asylum here to-day, having gone violently insane as the result of a series of experiences during the past forty-eight hours.

His fiancee, Miss Ada Jacobs, was visiting at his home on Sunday night when she suddenly dropped dead. Physicians who were called thought the girl had been poisoned, and Nicholas was arrested. An autopsy proved that death had been due to heart disease.

The young woman's death and his subsequent arrest proved too much for Nicholas, and he went insane.

CHEER UP! WE'LL SOON LIVE ON AIR

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Dr. Paul Walden of Riga, Russia, predicted here last night that the next great feat of chemistry will be the making of eggs from air. Dr. Walden, who is president-elect of the ninth International Congress of Applied Chemistry, to be held in St. Peterburg in 1915, further predicted that a variety of nitrogenous foods will be made from the air some day.

"Prof. Berthsen of Germany has already succeeded in making the simple compound nitrogen and hydrogen," he said. "This shows that we will be able to make more complex compounds. An egg is a complex of nitrogen, oxygen, sulpur and hydrogen. The chemical process of the hen will be imitated in the laboratory."

AEROPLANE ARMADA PASSED IN REVIEW

First One of the Kind Took Place Before French Minister of War To-day.

Paris, Sept. 29.—The first review ever held of a complete aeroplane armada took place this morning at Villacoublay, near Paris. No fewer than seventy-two French army flying machines passed before the French Minister for War, Alexandre Millerand.

The airmen and their craft had just returned from the great army manouvres at which they had achieved such triumphs. There was great enthusiasm among the crowd as the air men saluted the Minister for War.

M. Millerand made a speech in which he dwelt on the nation's determination to keep France in the forefront of aviation. He urged the officers to refrain from seeking publicity which, he said, could only be harmful to the service.

Good Work on Hastings Dam.

Hastings Star: The work on the dam is proceeding with the same good luck which has been with the work for the past few weeks, and it is likely by the end of next week the concreting except for four pier tops, which have to be put in later, will be completed.

PUBLIC OPINION

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

A MEAN ACT.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—Will you allow me space for a few words in connection with our lecture. I find in a certain locality that announcing our lecture, which I carefully nailed to posts on the streets, have been torn down. Why this should be done is a mystery to me. If such a degraded piece of humanity would come to the lecture, he would not hear an unkind word against any other form of Christianity or of Materia Medica.

It is true that Christian Science teaches that the only "crowned head is immortal sovereignity—its only priest is the spiritualized man." Science and Health, page 141, its object is to make all believers Kings and priests unto God.

If it is myself this poor specimen of humanity has the spite against, he can find me at 456 Aylmer street. He will find me a son of my father who was born in the County Armagh, Ireland, and who always declared his motto to be "Derry Walls and No Surrender." I shall only be pleased to hear the complaint, and try and make matters right in a manly honest way.

R. J. Todd.

Miles of Films.

On the average of about 150,000 feet of film are placed on the British market every week, and this quantity is steadily increasing. It is computed that there are same 50,000 picture theatres scattered throughout the world, and as the number thereof is increasing daily, the supply of films has by no means yet reached the limits of the demand.

One may dominate moral sufferings only by labor. Study saves from discouragement.—Abrantes.

A Sigh From the Author.

"Proofreading is Greek to me, even after having several books published," Miss Alice Louise Lee recently wrote to her publishers. "But what worries me is this psychological question. Will my corrections be as unintelligible to the printer as all his marks are to me? It seems to me very confusing. In the face of proofreading I feel like the farmer who before the rhinoceros' cage declared, 'There ain't no such beast!'"

VARNISHING DAY.

It Brings Many Surprises at the English Royal Academy.

When the hanging committee of the English Royal academy has completed the work of "hanging," the artists whose pictures are exhibited on the academy walls are forwarded a piece of pasteboard known as a "varnishing card." This card is the first intimation the artist receives that his picture has passed triumphantly through the processes of judging and "hanging," and it allows him to visit the academy on a particular day—"varnishing day" —just before the galleries are thrown open to the public. Hundreds of knights of the brush are to be found in the galleries of Burlington House on "varnishing day" and here and there are flights of steps and improvised platforms covered with artists putting the last loving touches to their canvases. Here, perched on the top rung of a pair of steps, is a young lady with smiling face scraping her picture with a palette knife and putting in fresh spots of paint occasionally, while on the floor at her feet is a young man whose features are the picture of misery, his eyes roaming toward the ceiling. His canvas is hopelessly skied, and he is silently abusing the members of the hanging committee for their lack of judgment.

"Varnishing day" brings many surprises to the exhibitors. One man will find his canvas wrongly named, and another, an impressionist, may be startled to discover that his glorious sunset, over which he has taken so much pains, is upside down. And for the first time he realises that an impressionist's pictures can be turned about any way without greatly endangering the effect.

Turner had one of his paintings hung upside down, and old academicians well remember that a little canvas, "A Sleeping Naiad," was once, owing to lace of space, placed on the wall in an upright position and renamed "The Waking Naiad."—National Magazine.

FAR DISTANT URANUS.

Oddities a Visit to This Gigantic Planet Would Disclose.

If Uranus, which is a star of about the sixth magnitude, were a planet like those little ones called asteroids, which are being discovered by the dozen every year, it could not have much claim upon popular attention, but Uranus is really a gigantic world, more than sixty times as large as ours. Its vast distance, about 1,700,000,000 miles from the earth, is what causes it to look so small.

Uranus has four moons, which revolve backward in their orbits—that is to say, they revolve from east to west around Uranus, while Uranus goes, like all the other planets, from west to east around the sun. It is believed that Uranus rotates backward on its axis also. Moreover, the axis of that great, strange globe lies in such a direction that in the course of its year, which is equal to eighty-four of our years, the sun shines almost perpendicularly first upon one pole and then upon the other.

Measured by our time standard, there are forty years of constant daylight, followed by forty years of unbroken night, around the poles of Uranus, and the sun rises in the west and sets in the east there, but the sun looks very small when viewed from Uranus—only one four-hundredth as large as it appears to us. Still it sheds upon that planet 1,500 times as much light as the full moon sends to the earth, so that daylight upon Uranus, while faint compared with the blaze of a terrestrial noonday, is nevertheless a very respectable kind of illumination.

A Queer Club.

"The Little Club" of London was a distinctly original institution. It was intended for those not five feet high. Invitations to be present at the inaugural meeting did not meet with a very hearty response. The scheme had to be modified owing to the occasional awkward situations created through the use of ordinary sized furniture; as when a member, imaging the president to be absent, gave vent to some contemptuous criticisms of him, only to find that his face had been temporarily eclipsed by a flask of wine which stood before him on the table. After this the premises were furnished in proportion to the size of the club members, the door was made high enough to admit a man of five feet, and no more, and to "brush your foretop" on entering was to be disqualified for membership.

THE ELEVATOR BOY.

In Chicago He Made Rapid Progress in Becoming an Expert.

The first day he is occupied mainly in learning how to run his elevator.

The second day he is so delighted with his position that he makes every effort to give all the information asked of him.

The third day he gets his uniform and begins accustoming himself to telling the passengers to step lively.

The fourth day he learns how to advise anxious inquirers to look at the bulletin board or ask the starter.

The fifth day he is so thoroughly versed in the duties of his position that he can run the car past people who are yelling "Down!" or "Up!" and three floors away from them waft back the gentle admonition to punch the button. Also, he is now able to carry the nervous passengers two floors too far and then refuse to go back.

The sixth day he is an adept and demonstrates it by sliding the door quickly in the face of the man who is a second late, also by stopping the car and dropping a couple of floors to take on the stenographers with huge blond rats, who haughtily omit pressing the button.

He is now a real elevator boy and wonders what right the public thinks it has, anyway.—Chicago Post.

CHEERFUL MENDELSSOHN.

The Pioneer in Good Conducting and the Boy Joachim.

The art of good conducting began with Mendelssohn. The Leipzig Gewandhaus owes the greatness of its orchestra to him. He was a hard taskmaster, but, according to the words of Joachim, he earned the good will and respect of his men by his thorough knowledge, says the Music Magazine.

THE GAEKWAR'S HUNT.

His Highness of Baroda Does It on a Big Scale.

His Highness the Gaekwar of Baroda is known abroad as a ruler with advanced ideas, and when we are given a glimpse of how he does things at home we are convinced that he is a very unusual person. The pomp and splendor of his court make it one of the wonders of the East, and his private sports and amusements are in due keeping with the rest of his customs

A tiger hunt of the Maharaja Gaekwar, the Maharani, and the Maharaja of Rewah, is described by Rev. Edward St. Clair Weeden, an Englishman who stayed in the royal palace of His Highness for some time, in his book, "A Year with the Gaekwar of Baroda," says Mr. Weeden:

This particular shoot had been arranged for the Gaekwar by the Maharaja of Rewah, a Rajput chief of the old school who had evidently determined to do the thing really well; and Her Highness who, as I have already told you, is one of the best shots among the Indian ladies, and as keen on sport as any man, English or Indian, was specially invited to take part in it. It had long been her ambition to shoot a tiger, and she was now looking forward with the keenest enjoyment to the opportunity of doing so.

After spending a few days in Bombay, we set out on the long railway journey, His Highness being accompanied by his private secretary Nimbalker, and another officer, who is one of the best shots in the Baroda army; Dr. Jadhav; Turnbull, who had given Shivajirao a holiday for the occasion, and myself. Two chauffeurs in charge of their cars, a couple of clerks, and our personal servants completed the party, with, of course, the women in attendance on Her Highness.

We arrived on the evening of the second day at a station about fifty miles from Rewah, where we spent the night in bungalows which had been specially prepared, and set off early the next morning in motor-cars to our first halting place, where breakfast was ready, after which we went on to the first camp, about thirty miles farther on.

The road lay principally through rocky jungle, over high ranges of hills, which were so steep that in some places the cars could not climb them. What do you think they did. They had elephants waiting, which were harnessed with strong ropes to the cars and hauled them over. It was an extraordinary sight, and I wish I had been able to get a snap-shot of it Throughout our visit, cars were sent in daily from the camp to the town to bring in ice and fresh meat, fish and vegetables; and two hundred coolies were kept night and day at the steep places to pull the cars over with long ropes.

We found the Maharaja of Rewah waiting to receive us at the camp, a fine-looking man, with his black, bushy beard parted in the middle and brushed up on either side, making him look very fierce. He is very strict in his observance of Hindu customs and has three wives, whom, of course, we did not see. One of them is said to be very young indeed, and is called "the Toy." Everything in his state is very primitive and old-fashioned, and there is always a crowd of people with petitions hanging about.

In the camp all had been prepared on the most lavish scale. A few weeks before it had been jungle, with tigers roaming through it; now two bungalows had been built for Their Highnesses, surrounded by small gardens, gaily planted with flowers, and magnificent tents, one of which I shared with Turnbull, put up for the rest of the party. Sumptuous dinners were prepared by special cooks, and unlimited champagne of the best brands flowed freely for those who wanted it.

We stayed for three days in the first camp, and then moved on to another equally well appointed, where we remained for a week. The days were all very much alike, and it is hard to remember details; so I will give you a general idea. Except for the great heat which was alleviated in every possible way, we suffered no hardships at all; it was, in fact, tiger shooting made easy.

All the morning we stayed in the camp, for even on this expedition for pleasure and sport the Gaekwar had his work to do, and did it with his accustomed thoroughness, rising at daybreak to read his correspondence and dictate letters on affairs of state to his secretary, and [illegible] solidly for two or three hours with me or Turnbull.

At noon we had breakfast and started at about three o'clock for a fifteen miles' drive by motor car into the jungle. We had ten cars together, and a hundred miles of new road had been made for them, so as to avoid the tiring journey on elephants or in carts over the rough country roads. However, within a mile or two of our destination the cars were stopped, for fear of startling the tigers, and we mounted elephants, which took us to the machans—platforms built on trees, ten or fifteen feet above the ground. These were placed fifty yards away from one another, their Highnesses and the Maharaja of Rewah occupying the three central ones. The tigers were driven toward the machans by a large army of beaters, and would sometimes come within a few yards of them.

When the beat began a bugle sounded, and a tiger would generally make his appearance every half hour or so. Occasionally a tiger would be wounded and escape, causing much excitement among the men. The beaters warned by the bugle would rush to the trees, while the "guns" would mount elephants and would follow him up until he was found and killed.

Slow Smoking.

Six members of a Parisian club took six cigars out of the same box, lit them simultaneously and tried to make them last as long as possible. The winner smoked his for two hours and seventeen minutes.

A FAMOUS TELEGRAM.

The Message That Caught Tawell Is Celebrated In "Ticker" Annals.

In describing early telegraphy upon the Great Western Railway of England a writer recalls the first case of a criminal being brought to justice by means of the electric telegraph. This event took place a few months after the extension of the system to Slough in 1844. A murder had been committed at Salt Hill, and upon hearing of the occurrence the vicar of Upton-cum-Chalvey, Rev. E. T. Champnes, was informed that the last person seen to leave the house was a man wearing the dress of a Quaker. Mr. Champnes at once conceived the idea that the suspected person had probably fled to London, and acting upon his suspicions hastened to Slough Station, where a man answering to the description was seen by the vicar to pass through the booking office. Communicating his suspicions to Mr. Howell, the station superintendent, the latter caused a telegram to be sent off.

This is the telegram which raced (and beat) the train to Paddington: "A murder has been committed at Salt Hill, and the suspected murderer was seen to take a first-class ticket for London by the train which left Slough at 7 h. 42 m. p.m. He is in the garb of a Quaker, with a brown great coat, which reaches nearly down to his feet; he is in the last compartment of the second first-class carriage." The following reply was received from Paddington: "The up train has arrived, and a person answering in every respect the description given by telegraph came out of the compartment mentioned. I pointed the man out to Sergt. Williams. The man got into a New road omnibus, and Sergt. Williams into the same." The New road referred to is the present Euston road. It is but fair to add that the miscreant, who proved to be a forger, returned from a twenty-one years' transportation, had already been discarded by the Society of Friends. The prisoner, Tawell by name, and once a well-known city man, was committed to jail at Aylesbury, and finally suffered the extreme penalty of the law.

It is said that at that time a signal for the letter "Q" had not been provided, and the Slough telegraphist forwarded "Quaker" as "Kwaker." His colleague at the Paddington end three times queried the un-English-looking word which began "Kw," but fortunately grasped its meaning when somewhat unwillingly he permitted the whole word to be finished. That first wire between Slough and Paddington, by the way, was worked at the inventor's expense, and the Great Western Railway authorities had actually given him notice to remove what they considered a useless apparatus when the capture of the Slough murderer by its means brought into existence the Electric Telegraph Co., which purchased Cooke's patents for $600,000 and later disposed of them to the Government for $50,000,000.

A WINNER.

It was at the dinner table and the hostess addressed her husband's brother:

"Do have another piece of pie, William."

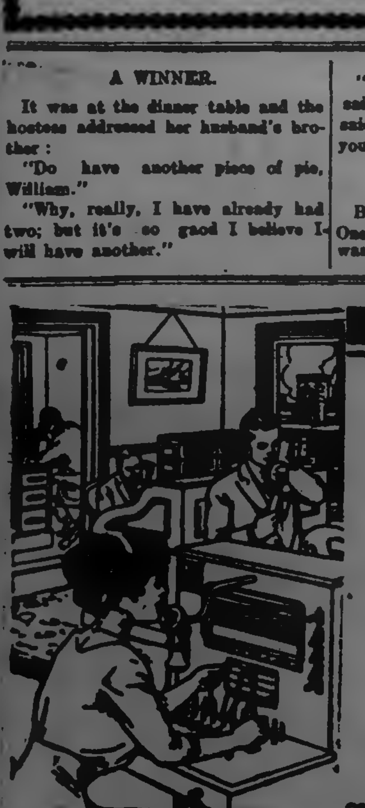
"Why, really, I have already had two; but it's so good I believe I will have another."

"Ha, ha !—mother's a winner! " said little Frank, excitedly. "She said she'd bet you'd make a pig of yourself."—Harper's Magazine.

Belleville does not like "vags." One of these gentlemen of leisure was given six months in the Central to work up an ambition in the brickyards.

The sewer trap at the northeast corner of Brock and Water streets was cleaned out on Saturday. There was enough mud taken out to supply a healthy volcano.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES



Active Business Requires Adequate Telephone Service.

The essentials of adequate telephone service for a busy establishment are:—

1. An open door for outgoing telephone calls.
2. An open door for incoming telephone calls.
3. Facilities for immediate intercommunication between offices and departments.

Private Branch Exchange telephone service meets these requirements. Outgoing and incoming messages can be handled simultaneously. Interior intercommunication can be carried on independently.

Private Branch Exchange telephone service is recognised as the only suitable service for active organizations, and it costs even less than the simpler form of telephone service.

Let us send our representative to explain it in detail and to quote rates.

DEWEY SAW THE POINT.

He Paid Up After His Dog Had Been Kicked Around.

Admiral Dewey had an English bulldog of which he was very proud. So marked was his affection for the dog that an atmosphere of "love me, love my dog" had sprung up around the admiral and the canine. It is further reported that the animal came near causing trouble between the head of the navy and the late "Fighting Bob" Evans.

Admiral Dewey while on a tour of inspection when he was in command of the Pacific squadron took the dog along with him. He lost sight of his pet on Evans' ship, but in a few minutes saw him buried skyward from the companionway as if shot from a catapult. With blood in his eye Admiral Dewey rushed over to see the reason for the sudden ascent, surmising correctly that some one had kicked the dog. He saw "Fighting Bob" at the foot of the steps.

"Sir," roared the admiral, "what do you mean by kicking my dog?"

"Sir," roared Evans in return, "I'd have kicked that dog if he had been the property of the president of the United States! He chewed the legs off two pairs of fifteen dollar trousers and destroyed an edition de luxe of the navy regulations."

Dewey saw the point and paid for new uniform trousers.—New York World.

A Woman's Reason.

"My, but I do hate this corset!" said Mrs. Nagg as she tossed her harness on the dresser.

"Then why do you wear it?" snapped Mr. Nagg.

"Oh, it feels so good when I take it off," replied Mrs. Nagg.

Early Table Manners.

Strict etiquette was observed at the table long before forks made an appearance. The fork came into common use in the seventeenth century, but gold and silver ones existed in the thirteenth century. Edward I., for instance, could boast of six silver forks and a gold one, and Piers Gaveston possessed three for use in eating pears. These, however, were exceptions. The ordinary individual dining out found only a trencher, a napkin and spoons laid before him. His knife he brought with him in a case. A new course meant no clean spoon. There was bread to hand, and the guest was expected to use his ingenuity and clean his spoon as best he might. Those were the days of the expert carver in attendance.—London Chronicle.

Royal Gamblers.

The fascination which games of chance have exercised over gentle and simple is well illustrated in the description by Stow of the entertainment given by Henry Picard, mayor of London, in 1357, when the kings of France and Scotland, being prisoners in England, and the king of Cyprus on a visit to Edward III., the mayor kept his hall against all comers that were willing to play at dice and hazard. "The Lady Margaret, his wife, did keepe her chamber to the same intent." The mayor, having won 50 marks from the king of Cyprus, returned him the money, saying, "My lord and king, be not aggrieved, for I covet not your gold, but your play."

Big Spending.

New Westminster, B.C., has been doing some shopping. The other day the people of the coast city appropriated the cool sum of $1,190,000 for certain improvements, of which the city long has been in need. Half a million dollars was set aside to initiate some great works on the river front. There was a great deal of trepidation whether the harbor bylaw would go through. But it did; score: 831 votes for, 109 against. A new, big, modern city hospital costing $200,000, and a gas plant costing $225,000 are other additions provided for New Westminster's equipment.

In Doubt.

An aged colored man was passing a fish store when he stopped to examine a huge turtle chained in the doorway as an advertisement. He had never seen a turtle before, and he prodded the strange creature curiously. Suddenly he popped his finger into his mouth with a howl of pain. After the finger had stopped bleeding he gazed at it ruefully, then eyed the turtle apprehensively.

"What's the matter, Rastus?" asked the fish dealer, with a grin.

"Nuffin', sah, nuffin'. Ah was just wonderin' whether Ah had been bit or stung."

Mexican Courtship.

A Mexican girl is courted by a unique process. Her would-be lover walks up and down the street on the opposite side and stares at her window by the hour. If his appearance is agreeable she appears at the window after a few days of this performance. When the acquaintance develops he is introduced to her papa, and after the necessary marriage arrangements have been made he is introduced to her. The preliminary tramping and staring are called "de-bar the bear."

Martyrdom of the Bride.

A peculiar and barbaric marriage custom of the Kabyle women of Africa consists in the martyrdom of the bride, who, clad in her wedding finery, stands through an entire morning against a pillar in the village square, her eyes closed, her arms pressed to her sides and with only the narrow base of the column for a foothold, the while a ring of villagers criticise and comment on her appearance.—Argonaut.

Evidence to the Contrary.

"You've had a bad cold in the head, have you, Brooks?" said Rivers. "Well, one good thing about that is that it doesn't make you cough."

Whereupon Brooks, without a word, exhibited the doctor bill he had just received.—Exchange.

Took It as a Compliment.

Magistrate (about to commit for trial) —You certainly effected the robbery in a remarkably ingenious way—in fact, with quite exceptional cunning. Prisoner—Now, yer honor, no flattery, please; no flattery, I begs yer.—London Sketch.

FLED FROM HIS BRIDE.

Romantic Story of the Marriage of General Sam Houston.

In "As I Remember—Recollections of American Society During the Nineteenth Century," is a romantic story of General Sam Houston, whose "appearance was patrician and courtesy that of the inborn gentleman."

"I have spoken of General Houston's appearance. I now wish to refer to his fine sense of honor. He was married on Jan. 22, 1829, to Miss Eliza Allen and separated from her directly after the marriage ceremony in, it is said, the most painful circumstances. The wedding guests had departed and General Houston and his bride were sitting alone by the fire when he suddenly discovered that she was weeping. He asked the cause of her tears and was told that she never loved him and never could, but had married him solely to please her father.

"'I love Dr. Douglas,' she added, 'but I will try my best to be a dutiful wife to you.'

"'Miss,' said General Houston, even waiving the fact that he had just married her, 'no white woman shall be my slave. Good night!'

"It is said that he mounted his horse and rode to Nashville, where he resigned at once his office as governor and departed for the Cherokee country, where and elsewhere his subsequent career is well known. Having procured a divorce from his wife, he married Margaret Moffette in the spring of 1840."

Mexico's Smoking Mountain.

In 1897 I climbed two volcanoes in Mexico, Popocatepetl, or "the smoking mountain," about 17,800 feet, and Orizaba, the former the most famous because within view from Mexico City and thus a source of especial pride and admiration to the inhabitants, who have been loath to believe that any other of their mountains could be higher. Popo has a really splendid crater, about half a mile across and 1,000 feet deep. The walls are generally vertical, but in one or two places it is possible to descend. When workers are engaged in collecting sulphur machinery is used to hoist them up and down. From Popo's summit there is a glorious prospect, not alone of the immense crater, but of the beautiful "White Lady" (Iztaccihuatl) reclining a thousand feet below, of Orizaba on the far horizon and of the charming valley of Mexico.—Annie S. Peck in Christian Herald.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed "Tender for Harbour Improvements at Whitby, Ont.," will be received at this office until 4.00 P.M., on Tuesday, October 22, 1912, for the construction of a Stone and Concrete Esplanade Wall at Whitby Harbour, in the Township of Whitby, County of Ontario, Ont.

Plans, specification and form of contract can be seen and forms of tender obtained at this department and at the office of J. G. Sing, Esq., District Engineer Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ont.; H. J. Lamb, Esq., District Engineer, Windsor, Ont., and on application to the Postmaster at Whitby, Ont.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

PENNILESS ROYALTIES.

Pawnshop Has Saved Many of Them From Going Hungry.

The humiliation and shame that most people feel when obliged by circumstances to pawn some treasured possessions or mementoes have, curiously enough, seldom been the portion of the many royal personages who have generally made little concealment of their necessities and no secret of their manner of "raising the wind." The subject is recalled by a recent newspaper dispatch, in all probability without foundation, that the Duchess Marie in Bavaria has pawned the Bavarian crown jewels in order to reinstate her nephew, King Manuel, on the throne of Portugal. But pretenders and royalties in exile have been notoriously short of funds in the past. The recent sale by the Duke of Orleans of his English estate at Wood Norton may be due, as freely rumored, to a quiet hint from King George that his plottings and his arrogant references to the country which sheltered him had made him an undesirable alien, but it is more probably the result of a pecuniary stringency. The chief cult of the Orleanists and the Bourbons is money—for with them the money hunger is hereditary, and the duke does no discredit to his ancient family in that respect. The Duchess of Magenta, a daughter-in-law of the famous Marshal McMahon, and many other wealthy ladies of noble birth have spent fortunes on the attempted materialization of his royal pretensions.

The late Queen Isabella of Spain, when exiled by her hot-headed people in 1872, found herself stranded in Paris and, but for the relief obtained by pawning her beautiful sapphires, emeralds and diamonds, would have found herself in the intolerable position of the many discarded poverty-stricken royalties, who are so familiarly laughed at and jeered by the pitiless crowds on the boulevards. This good-natured and charitable woman, although she later obtained an allowance from her ungrateful country, was often in temporary embarrassment for money through her unfailing generosity, but had never any hesitation in resorting to the pawnshop, redeeming her valuables when in funds again.

At that time the King and Queen of Naples were royalties in Parisian exile and not only in exile but in serious financial difficulties. The Queen, a courageous soldier and worthy sister of the murdered Empress of Austria, pawned not only her jewels, but all the silver household utensils that she had been able to save from the wreck. It is gratifying to know that this fine woman, after her widowhood, received from the Italian Government the annuity due to her under her marriage settlements.

An amusing instance was the plight of the Prince of Wales, afterward King of England, who, during a visit to Sedan after that most bungled battle, found himself without a cent and his attendants in the same condition. He sent off his valet in hot haste to the nearest pawnshop with all their watches, chains, seals and rings. Sedan had many memories for King Edward, but few so mirth-provoking.

King Milan, of Servia, the former swineherd, was addicted to gambling and frequently pawned his gorgeously jeweled scimitar, practically his sole insignia of a somewhat tenuous rulership. Unfortunately for him he neglected to redeem it on one occasion and it was put up for sale. The Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria was furiously angry when the transaction reached his ears. He bought up the sword, but the shifty monarch of Servia found good reasons to be sorry afterward for his lapse of memory.

Heart Memories.

We leave something of our hearts in every place where joy or sorrow comes to us. And so the hearth, the door stone, the old tree that threw its branches over the house where we were reared as children, the well, into which from day to day many tears were dropped as the mother went to and fro; the brook that sang to our sighing, the mountain ravine where we wandered to get rid of busy life, a thousand places that in youth or in struggling manhood have been witnesses to our deep emotions—these things become personal to us and afterward throw back, in their shadow, something of our own selves upon us and greet us with a human sympathy.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Punishment For Whom?

Boss Barber—What? You have cut the gentleman four times? Well, just for punishment you must shave him all over again right away!—Fliegende Blätter.

FINDING A PAWN TICKET.

Sometimes It May Be Just Walking Into a Trap.

"While walking through one of the prominent streets the other day," said an innocent looking individual, "I espied an important looking piece of paper on the sidewalk and, picking it up, found it to be a pawn ticket for a diamond scarfpin which some careless person had apparently dropped.

"According to the ticket, the pin had been pledged several weeks before for $15. 'How am I to find the owner?' thought I. 'Shall I take it to the pawnbroker? Perhaps if I do the owner will never see it anyway. The pin must surely be a good one and doubtless worth three times the amount for which it was pledged. Why not appropriate it to my own use?'

"The name on the ticket was Brown, and my conscience was relieved when I found several hundred of that name in the directory. I soon made up my mind and started for the broker's office. I asked to see the pin before redeeming it, stating that I had bought the ticket, and upon the payment of 25 cents was allowed to examine it.

"It looked all right to me, although I am not a qualified judge of diamonds, so I paid the principal of $15 and the interest of $1.80 and the pin became mine.

"The next day I showed it to an expert, who declared it to be worth far less than the amount I had paid for it.

"'It is a trick of some people,' he said, 'to defraud unwary persons like yourself. The scheme consists of buying tickets for spurious pieces of jewelry for amounts many times in excess of their value and dropping them on the sidewalk in different parts of town where unsuspecting persons might find them and redeem them, as you did, thus yielding a handsome profit to the perpetrators.'"—Philadelphia Record.

AN HOUR'S WALK.

You Would Hardly Think It Meant Traveling 86,252 Miles.

Have you ever thought of the distance you travel when you are out on an hour's stroll? Possibly you walk three miles within the hour, but that does not by any means represent the distance you travel. The earth turns on its axis every twenty-four hours. For the sake of round figures, we will call the earth's circumference 24,000 miles, and so you must have traveled during the hour's stroll 1,000 miles in the axial turn of the earth.

But this is not all. The earth makes a journey around the sun every year, and a long but rapid trip it is. The distance of our planet from the sun we will put at 92,000,000 miles. This is the radius of the earth's orbit—half the diameter of the circle, as we call it. The whole diameter is therefore 184,000,000 miles, and the circumference, being the diameter multiplied by 3.1416, is about 578,000,000.

This amazing distance the earth travels in its yearly journey, and dividing it by 365 we find the daily speed about 1,583,000. Then we get the distance you rode around the sun during your hour's walk, divide again by twenty-four, and the result is about 66,000 miles. But this is not the end of your hour's trip. The sun, with its entire brood of planets, is moving in space at the rate of 160,000,000 miles in a year. That is at the rate of a little more than 438,000 miles a day, or 18,250 miles an hour.

So, adding your three miles of leg travel to the hour's axial movement of the earth, this to the earth's orbital journey and that again to the earth's excursion with the sun, and you find you have traveled in the hour 86,253 miles.

The Lifeboat.

Like many other inventions the lifeboat was a long time in finding favor. The first lifeboat was designed by a London coach builder, Lionel Lukin, in 1785, under the encouragement of the Prince of Wales; but, despite royal patronage, his invention received little attention, though one of his boats saved several lives at Bamborough. The loss of the Adventure in 1789 first destroyed public apathy in this subject, and with the offering of prizes for lifeboat designs a first step toward life-saving at sea was taken.

Knew His Place.

"Yes," said the determined looking woman, "I might manage to hand you a bite to eat if you'll saw and chop a good pile of stove wood and bring in a few buckets of water and chop the weeds out of the garden and fix up the fence."

"Lady," replied Meanderin Mike, "I'm only a hungry wayfarer. I ain't yer husband."

The Gentleman.

It is possible for every man to assume an elegant manner, but the true gentleman is nature's own nobleman, who never forgets to be polite to every one, and it is as easy to discern the assumed from the innate good breeding as it is to distinguish paste from diamonds.—Dickens.

STEALING A RAILROAD.

Not In a Financial Way, but by Carrying It Off Bodily.

No stranger theft was ever committed than the "lifting" of an entire railroad, twelve and one-half miles in length, which once connected Birr and Portumna, in Ireland.

The line had cost $480,000, and for years it did service for the Great Southern and Western Railway company until the year 1878, when the company, which had been running it at a loss, washed its hands of it. The line was derelict. Nobody wanted it. For a few years it stretched its useless length through north Tipperary. Then its neighbors began to turn covetous eyes on it.

Bolts and screws and other portable trifles began to vanish. A few prosecutions were instituted, but the charges were withdrawn. Nobody seemed to care. The thieves, thus encouraged, grew bolder. Farmers brought their carts and horses and loaded them with spoils of rails, sleepers, switches and semaphores. One goodly station vanished, to its last brick and door, in a single night.

They were great times for Tipperary. Boatloads of booty, hundreds of tons of rails, were sent away from Portumna by unlicensed "contractors," and the work of spoliation went on until not as much as a turntable was left.—Argonaut.

MEN SLAVES OF FASHION.

Freak Fashions That Eclipse Even Those of the Gentler Sex.

Women have up to now always been regarded as the most extravagant sex in matters relating to dress. This impression, however, is old-fashioned, for men are known to be getting vainer and vainer in regard to their personal appearance, and are spending more money every year on their dress.

It is the ambition of every young man nowadays to be fashionable, and men who a few years ago never gave the matter of their dress a thought spend hours over every detail.

A glance at the tailors' shops will show that the up-to-date lounge suit, instead of having just the suggestion of a waist, have a most clearly defined waist-line.

Then again, gentlemen's hatters will tell you that "bowlers" and "toppers" change in shape every month or two, whereas formerly they remained the same in nearly every detail for years.

The broad-brimmed straw hat which satisfied the seaside young man last season, is now declared to be too narrow by a couple of inches.

Even the common everyday lounge suit has undergone immense changes. In order to satisfy the young man of to-day they must be made silk-lined and possess various eccentricities to satisfy individual tastes.

One large shop has a lounge suit on show, made for a certain gilded youth, which has points to the waistcoat six inches long. Pointed waistcoats, it may be remarked, are the prevailing fashion at present.

All trousers nowadays must be made very short. The reason for this, of course, is because there will be more opportunity for the young man to display his elaborate socks to advantage.

With the demand for more change in dress naturally comes the increase in the price of clothing. The man who wants to look smart does not seem to mind this, though; in fact, just as the fair sex love to spend much money on their apparel, so it seems that the young man of to-day takes a pride in the size of his dress bills.

In the old days men were content to buy ready-made ties for fifty cents. These days, however, have passed by, and it is the thing nowadays to have your own ideas made up for you at anything from $3 to $4 each.

Although the desire to be fashionable and have the best of things may be prevalent in every young man of to-day, it is not always possible for him to pay for them. It is the craze just at present for men to wear soft hats, and they must be as original in shape as possible.

Soft hats can be bought for as little as 50 cents. Many "nuts," as the fashionable youth is called, are content to wear these. But people who can afford to pay more for them do, indeed, pay more.

Musical artistes, for instance, dearly love these hats, and the more uncommon they are in shape the better they like them.

One star badly bitten by the soft hat craze has his hat made for him at $200 a time.

In addition to the passion for fashionable clothes, the more degenerate members of the male sex have taken largely to "padding" and "making up."

In the principal thoroughfares of every large town can be seen groups of corseted and painted young men, and in order to cater for the tastes of these inverts, gentlemen's toilet and massage establishments have sprung up everywhere.

A Necessary Preliminary.

Queen Margherita of Italy once visited the Montessori schools in Rome and during her brief stay requested a little girl who was engaged in putting in order a box of cut-out letters to spell some words for her. The child did not heed the request, but went on calmly dropping each letter into the right compartment. An older person standing near, horrified at the child's indifference, exclaimed:

"But, Rosa, you must pay attention! This is the Queen!"

"I know that," the child answered respectfully. "But the Queen knows that before I begin to spell I must finish my work of putting the alphabet in order!"

The Old, Old Scorpion.

Scorpions are relics of prehistoric times. They have been in existence since the middle silurian era, and through all the changes in environment in the millions of years which have elapsed they have remained practically the same in structural character, in habit. There is little if any evidence that these animals in the past days of their history have even gained a livelihood by means other than those employed at the present day.—London Standard.

Birds That Carry Their Young.

The woodcock, it is said, has been known to carry away her young when threatened with danger. She places them on her spread feet, pressing them between the toes and the breast. A naturalist says many woodcocks also carry their young down to marshy feeding grounds in the evening, returning before dawn. In fact, they have no means of feeding their young except by carrying them to their food, for they cannot convey their food to them.

Always a Chance.

An Apt Pupil.

A professor who when asked a question was in the habit of saying, "That is a very good point indeed; look it up for yourself," was once much disgusted with a student who had failed to answer a very simple question. "Mr. Jones," said he, "I'm surprised that you, who are going to teach, cannot answer such an elementary question. Why, what would you do if one of your pupils were to ask it?" "Well, professor," replied the other, "if such a thing had happened before I came here I'm afraid I would have said plainly that I didn't know, but now I think I'd do just as you do and say, 'Look it up, my boy; look it up!'"

MORTGAGES ON LAND.

Why It Is Essential That They Should Be Recorded.

As the value of land to the owner increases so does the security of mortgage investments given on that land increase. A mortgage may be considered as a deed of the land which revests the title in the original owner or his successor on the paying off of the mortgage or the bond or note which the mortgage secures.

Mortgages are recorded in public offices, called registers, recorders or county clerks' offices, in much the same way that deeds are, so that any one buying the land is bound to take notice of them, and the land is bound by them, no matter to whom the land is conveyed, and no one has a right to say that he bought the land not knowing that a mortgage was on it, for he is presumed by law to know such facts, as a search of the title in these public offices would reveal.

If, however, the holder of the mortgage does not cause the mortgage to be recorded then any innocent purchaser of the land can take it clear of the lien of the mortgage.

In no particular has the law of this country gone further than in the effort to secure the title of the landowner and the security of the mortgage holder, and no investments are more highly regarded by the conservative business man than those founded on the imperishable surface of the earth.—Christian Herald.

UMBRELLA HANDLES.

In France They Shape Them as They Grow in Nurseries.

Most of the handles of canes, alpenstocks, parasols and umbrellas used in France are grown in nurseries. Ash, maple, oak, chestnut and other woods are used. In the early part of the first year after planting the young trees are cut near the ground to bring about the formation of numerous sprouts. The lower branches are removed, and only a plume of leaves is left.

Early in the spring the sprouts are subjected to a surgical operation. Their bark is cut, and the wood is carved in different designs, which are swollen by the sap and grow in high relief as the tree develops. Special instruments are used for the cutting and designing. Thus carved, the sprouts grow for three years.

At the end of the third year the forest of umbrella handles is cut, and the cuts are dried in the sun and then given a vapor bath, after which they are put into the hands of skilled workmen, who peel them with one quick movement.

When skinned the peelers cut them to the required lengths and send them to the umbrella maker, who varnishes them. If the shape desired is a ring or other open form a ring or oval or square is grafted to the natural stalk, bound closely, and left to grow into place.—Harper's.

Extra Buttons.

"It takes stout people to break all rules regulating the number of buttons on a coat or waistcoat," said the tailor. "They can't follow the fashion; their size won't let them.

"'Three buttons on a coat this year,' tailors' conventions may decree, or two or four or five, or whatever number they think proper, but the man with a figure that is constantly trying to escape its environment does not care about conventions. What he wants is buttons enough to keep his clothes in shape.

"'Put 'em closer together,' he says, 'so the strain won't all come on two or three buttons.'

"So we put them closer together, and the result is that stout people frequently have twice as many buttons on their clothes as fashion calls for."—New York Times.

An Able Manager.

A western senator was telling a story about an able campaign manager.

"He is a remarkably economical chap," said the senator. "He can make a dollar go further in a campaign than any man I know. They tell a story about him—a story that shows what a manager he is. It seems he went into a cigar store one day to get a light. Well, as he was lighting up a man entered and bought three five-cent cigars. As soon as the man left our friend said quickly:

"'Those cigars are six for a quarter, ain't they?'

"'Yes, sir,' said the salesman.

"Our friend laid down a dime.

"'Gimme,' he said, 'the other three then.'"—New York Tribune.

A Ghost Story.

A London daily tells a short modern ghost story. A man was traveling on a northbound train out of London. Opposite him was a silent stranger, his only companion. Between London and Derby no word passed. Then, as the train drew out of Derby, he said pleasantly, "Good line, this, sir, eh?" The stranger replied: "I think it's a beastly bad line. I was killed on it two years ago."

He Shouldn't.

A man with a donkey for sale, hearing that a friend wanted to buy one, sent him the following, written on a postal card:

"Dear Jack, if you are looking for a really good donkey, please don't forget me."—Exchange.

A Lawsuit In Cricket.

Kentish cricketers once sought to enliven a match by a lawsuit. The story is told in a newspaper of [illegible]. "On Monday is to be determined a suit at law on Dartford Heath by a cricket match between the men of Chingford and Mr. Steed's men; they had a hearing about two years ago before Lord Chief Justice Pratt, when the merits of the case appeared to be that at a match between the above-said players the Chingford men refused to play on the game at a time the others had the advantage. The judge referred the said case back to Dartford Heath to be played on where they left off."

An Adroit Duke.

The Duke of Grammont was the most adroit and witty courtier of his day. He entered one day the closet of Cardinal Mazarin without being announced. His eminence was amusing himself by jumping against the wall. To surprise a prime minister in so boyish an occupation was dangerous. A less skillful courtier might have stammered excuses and retired. The duke entered briskly and cried, "I'll bet you 100 crowns that I jump higher than your eminence!" and the duke and cardinal began to jump for their lives. Grammont took care to jump a few inches lower than the cardinal and was six months afterward marshal of France.

Keeping Dogs as Pets.

The fashion of keeping little dogs as objects of luxury is not at all modern. Both Greek and Roman women used to have small pet dogs, over which they made as much fuss as does a fashionable lady of to-day over her poodle. Even men, usually foreigners, were not ashamed to stroll about the Roman streets carrying dogs in their arms. It is said that Julius Caesar, once seeing some men thus occupied, sarcastically inquired of them if the women of their country had no children.—Ave Maria.

The Word "Slave."

The word "slave" is a word of brilliant historical antecedents. Its original, the Russian "slava," means glorious and is the title of that race which subsumes the Russian people. But when the Germans reduced hosts of the Slavs to servitude their name, from malice or accident, as Gibbon says, became synonymous with "servile."

5 Years' Throat Trouble And Influenza Cured

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

This Case Does Prove That When Catarrhozone is Breathed Every Trace of Catarrh Disappears.

Milford Haven, Da., Sept. 29.—Everyone in this neighborhood knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. D. Gurney. To-day she is well. Her recovery is due entirely to Catarrhozone. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and endured the manifold tortures of influenza for five years. My life was despaired of. Catarrh was undermining my strength very fast. I used treatments from eminent doctors, but all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever being well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrhozone. Immediately I sent for Catarrhozone, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. To-day I am cured. We would not be without Catarrhozone in our home—it's so sure in colds, coughs, bronchial and throat trouble. I feel it my duty to publicly recommend Catarrhozone."

EYE GLASS MOUNTING

With the curved top guards is the only mounting that will hold your lenses in place firmly with a slight pressure; and that is the better half of eye glass comfort. No matter how well-adapted your lenses may be, if the mounting is ill-fitting and hurts the nose, imperfect vision is certain to be the result.

Indian Rice Crop is Good.

Local gourmets will be pleased to know that the harvest of "black," "Indian" or "Wild" rice is a plentiful one. The Indians of Rice Lake are now busily engaged in getting in the crop. The crop is gathered by the Indians who paddle among the growing rice and knock the kernels off with paddles into the boats. It then goes through a process of husking, parching, cleaning, etc. All the various processes of getting this black rice ready for market is shown clearly in a series of colored post cards gotten out by the Roy Studio.

When the wedding became public, it was denied by the bride's parents. Breen later publicly claimed his wife and threatened to sue her family for alienating her affections. He was divorced on statutory grounds. Breen was employed as trainer in the stables of Hon. J. R. Stratton of this city.

A Bright Comedy at the Grand.

The Grand Opera House at Saturday's matinee and evening performance was filled with a large and appreciative audience. The attraction was that powerful English comedy entitles, "The New Barmaid," with Mr. Alexander Loftus in the leading role. The play was well staged, the costumes were most attractive, the musical numbers bright and sparkling, whilst the quips and jokes were new.

Port Hope Guide: Mr. Franklin Sidey, of Bewdley, has received a letter from David S. K. Byrne, Sydney, (N. S.W.) Police Court Paragraphs.

At Saturday's session of the police court several young men helped out the city's finances by contributing $17.25 in fines. The charge was disorderly conduct.

Mr. Arthur Head charged by P. C. Reed with a breach of the traffic by-law, to wit, driving on the wrong side of the street, and represented by Mr. G. W. Hatton, pleaded not guilty. He denied telling the cop to "go to grass." The Magistrate whilst warning Mr. Head to be more civil to police officers and to drive as per regulations, allowed him to go. Mr. Head called at The Times office Saturday and intimated that the report of his trial, contained respectively in the evening papers, did not do him justice. He maintains that the officer when bringing him to the station did use language more forcible than polite.

Benjamin Hobson, who had been given "Hobson's choice" between leaving the city or being arrested once more, failed to elect. He showed signs of dallying with intoxicants and was given a ten days' meal ticket at Castle Nesbitt.

St. James' Brotherhood.

The members of the above Brotherhood held their first meeting of the season on Friday night last at the home of their pastor, Rev. Mr. Clarry. The program for the winter season was arranged, it is certainly one that it very interesting, profitable and sure to be very popular. Besides lectures by eminent men, a local parliament has been formed to discuss measures for the good government, improvement and uplifting of the country. All men, whether they attend the church or not are invited to become members of this parliament and help discuss the measures brought forward. This is a move in the right direction and will be educative as well as interesting. First meeting of this parliament is on Friday evening next, October 4th, and all men will receive a sincere and hearty welcome. Further particulars of this splendid organization will be published in our columns on Friday next. We strongly recommend this parliament to all thinking men, especially those who desire to improve themselves in the art of speaking, and to all who love a good discussion.

A SPLENDID CHANCE FOR INVESTMENT

The phenominal growth of Calgary, Alta., is too generally known to require comment. Calgary seems to have an extraordinary future. Already it is practically impossible to rent a residence at any figure within reach of the average man's pocket. This means that a demand exists and will rapidly grow for building lots near the city. Attention is called to the advertisement of Dundurn Park lots, contained in this issue.

These lots, sold at the small sum of $100 and upwards, are most advantageously located and must increase in value rapidly. Since first insertion of the advertisement, a jockey club has been formed in Calgary, with large capital. This company has an option on land adjoining Dundurn Park. Here they will erect a modern and expensive grand stand and complete other improvements. This will naturally advance the price of the lots mentioned. Those seeking a safe and lucrative investment should write to Mr. D. Hope, manager, Dundurn Syndicate, Room 5, Mackie Blk., Calgary, Alta.
